

COUNTY SCHOOLS SHOW INCREASE OF 20 PER CENT IN ENROLLMENT

Regular Five-Year Census Results in Surprising Enrollment Disclosure.

MIGRATION FROM CITY IS REASON, COX SAYS

Greatest Per Centage of Increase in State, Superintendent Believes.

There are approximately 20 per cent more children in attendance at Princess Anne County Schools in 1935, than there were 5 years ago in 1930.

These figures, released this week, from the office of F. W. Cox, Princess Anne County Superintendent of Schools, prove conclusively that the entire county has been growing rapidly despite the depression which has swept the entire country.

The figures were derived from the regular five-year census taken by the State Department of Education throughout Virginia. Enumerators have been working for several months, making an accurate count of all children in the county, white and colored, whose ages ranged between 17 and 19.

"I had expected to find an increase in the county," Mr. Cox told the Virginia Beach News, "but I had not expected to find that it was so great. I have every reason to believe that Princess Anne will show a greater percentage on increase than any other county, town or city in the state."

In 1930, the figures showed, 3,333 white children had been enrolled in the county schools. In 1935, there were 3,569 white children.

In 1930, the colored enrollment was 2,997, greater than the white, but in 1935, although it had increased to 3,193, it was less than the white enrollment.

"The growth of Virginia Beach, with the great migration of Norfolk people to that vicinity, accounts for the great increase," Mr. Cox said. "With the Beach growing every year, more and more people have moved there, with the natural result that our school enrollment has increased enormously."

Mr. Cox pointed out, however, that although his school enrollment had increased 20 per cent, his budget had been decreased from 30 to 40 per cent.

"So far, however," he said, "I do not believe that our instructional value has been impaired by the decreased budget. We have about reached our limit, however, and could hardly stand another cut, without shortening the school term. This is something we have managed to maintain so far in the face of all odds."

Mr. Cox reported that approximately six teachers had been added to the County school facilities in the past five years, and that one new school building, the Princess Anne courthouse elementary school had been constructed during that period. There have been no school annexes or additions built he said.

Mr. Cox also reported that Princess Anne County schools ranked among the leaders in attendance last year with 94 per cent, and this year percentage had been increased slightly this year, so that the county schools might possibly top all other localities for the past session. The colored attendance also was above average, he said.

Sanitation Matter Deferred For Week

A protest against the unsanitary methods of peddling fish and meats at the Beach was made to the Town Council at its meeting Monday night.

Fish and meats are peddled from open air carts, the Council was told, and flies are allowed to get to the products.

The matter was referred to the Health committee to be discussed at the next Council meeting.

Whiskey Store Open July Fourth

For the benefit of visitors and local people alike—the Virginia A. B. C. Store (Whiskey store to you) will remain open from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. today, Thursday, the Fourth of July.

The store is located on Atlantic avenue at Twentieth street.

In order to meet the usual summer rush, Manager Clarence Hebeck has been forced to supplement his staff somewhat. C. F. Saunders has been made assistant manager, while the clerks now employed at the store include F. M. Kendrick, Arthur J. Bayco and John Wray Henley.

LEGION MEETING PLANS WORKED OUT AT SESSION

Two Dances, Smoker, Beauty Pageant and Parade on State Program.

More detailed plans for the annual State convention of the American Legion which is to be held at Virginia Beach on September 4, 5, 6 and 7 were worked out at a joint meeting of the Legion convention committee and the hotel committee appointed to consider the convention held Monday night at the Legion clubhouse.

Fairfield H. Hodges, general convention chairman was present, as was J. Lawrence Lockwood, commander of Princess Anne Post 113, which is to be host at the convention. Others present were W. Glenn Elliott, state adjutant; Miss Hilda White, of Portsmouth, state commander of the Legion Auxiliary, and Mrs. S. M. Simpson, of Virginia Beach, president of the Princess Anne unit of the woman's auxiliary.

Plans worked out at Monday's meeting include two dances and a smoker for the first three nights of the convention, with nothing scheduled for the final night. The annual State beauty pageant, which should bring fifty of the most beautiful girls in the state here will be held in conjunction with one of the dances. A local beauty pageant to choose a local beauty pageant to choose a prior to the convention.

The annual American Legion state parade, the really outstanding part of the convention will be held on the final Saturday afternoon of the convention. With 32 nationally prominent men, including President Roosevelt, invited to attend, the committee has been hesitant about selecting its principal speaker. Mr. Roosevelt, of course will make the featured address, if he comes here. If he is unable to come, it is hoped that Claude Swanson, secretary of the Navy, will be able to make the principal talk.

The Legion business meetings will be held in the Virginia Beach auditorium; the Auxiliary has arranged to meet in the Club Tally Ho, while the Forty and Eight, and the Junior Legion, all of which will meet here, will select their meeting places later.

Members of the committees which taking care of the various arrangements include H. O. Brown and W. B. Rudolph, members of the general committee, with Mr. Hodges; Alex H. Bell, dance committee; Roy Smith, distinguished guests committee; W. P. Jones, sports committee; Captain Louis Philhower, captain committee; E. M. Hardy, finance committee; F. E. Turner, publicity committee; Pelham W. Beards, transportation committee, and H. L. McLanahan, Public Safety Committee.

SERVICES CHANGED
The half-hour services of prayer and meditation, which have been held at the Galilee Episcopal Church for the past several weeks on Friday at 10 a. m. will be held Wednesday at 10 a. m. hereafter.

The announcement was made this week by the Rev. R. W. Bateman, rector of the church.

Unofficial Figures Show That Town Will Receive Less Than $1000 Of State Liquor Profits

TB ASSOCIATION TO HOLD MATCH SALE JULY 13

Entire Proceeds Derived To Go To Princess Anne Charitable Organization.

The annual match day sale of the Princess Anne County Tuberculosis Association will be held at Virginia Beach on Saturday, July 13. Mrs. Rufus Parks, president of the Association, announced this week.

The matches to be sold will be a special package stamped with the seal of the Tuberculosis Association, and all of the sale proceeds will go to the Tuberculosis Association.

Miss Adela Dabney and Mrs. W. F. Crockett are the co-chairmen in charge of the sale, and have secured nine teams to assist in the sale.

Team No. 1: Helen Smith, captain; Cornelia Smith, Elizabeth Reid, Betty May Smith, Margaret Love Smith, and Anne Simmons.

Team No. 2: Joyce Dail, captain; Roslyn Dail, Joan Frank, and Carolyn Deil.

ORDNANCE APPROVED

The Virginia Beach Town Council approved the new $6000 street paving ordinance at its second reading Monday night.

Governor George C. Peery Orders Division of $1,000,000 Whiskey Profits.

VIRGINIA BEACH STORE PROFITS ABOUT $39,000

City of Bristol, With No Whiskey Sales, to Get More Than $3500.

Unofficial figures received by the Virginia Beach News this week, show that the Town of Virginia Beach is to receive less than $1000 of the $1,000,000 Alcoholic Beverage Control store profits, which Governor George C. Peery last week ordered to be divided among the various towns and cities in the state.

This small amount is all that the Town is to get despite the fact that these same unofficial figures show that the Town's local liquor store grossed almost $150,000 during its first year of operation, and was credited with an approximate profit of $39,000.

The news did not come unexpected, since the Virginia Beach News, in its columns several months ago, had official figures to show that the town's income from its liquor store would be far below what it should be.

At that time, the News story quoted official figures received from A. B. Clarke, director of the division of the statistics of the ABC Board, which showed gross receipts for the first ten months for the Virginia Beach store as $123,172.75.

This, the News estimated, using figures given out by Major S. Heth Tryon would leave a profit of approximately $33,000.

Since that time, two months have passed and business at the Beach store has progressed accordingly. In fact, gross receipts at the store, last Saturday, according to Manager Clarence Hebeck, were $2,078.35.

The News now estimates that the gross receipts of the local store for the year should be approximately $150,000. Of this, on the same basis, about $39,000 should be profit.

$39,000 is approximately one twenty-sixth of the $1,000,000 profit to be divided. The $1,000,000 the Beach is to get is one thousandth of the sum to be divided.

On the other hand, however, the City of Bristol, which voted against liquor stores and has no stores of any kind operating, will receive $3600 from the State.

Town officials had no comment to make when told of the small sum the Beach is to get.

"There's nothing we can do about it now," one of them said. "We can only hope until the next meeting of the Virginia General Assembly and hope that some change in the State law is made then."

The Town has received no official notification of the amount of money it is to receive, and no plans for the disposition of the money has yet been made.

New Golf Range At Beach Opened By Braithwaite

Duck's Newest Business Venture Located at 31st Street and Pacific Avenue.

Duck Braithwaite's newest business venture, a golf driving range, located at 31st street and Pacific avenue is scheduled to open for business this week-end.

Duck, himself, will not be able to devote much of his time to the driving range, since he will be busy at his barbecue stand on 20th street, but the golf range will be in the able hands of Harrison Braithwaite and Red Gimbart.

The new range will fill a long wanted need, since many visitors here are anxious to keep their golf form, without walking all the way around a course.

COUNCIL ASKED FOR ASSISTANCE BY LIFEGUARDS

Possibility of Life Savers Leaving Beach Because of Finances Arises.

A delegation representing the now defunct lifeguard association of Virginia Beach appeared before the Town Council at its meeting Monday night and asked that some consideration be given these lifeguards, before their inability to make a living drives them off the beach entirely.

John B. Smith and Millard Forbes (Baby) Braithwaite made up the delegation which waited upon the council.

At present they pointed out, the lifeguard association is defunct. There are but eight lifeguards on the beach, and these are supported by the revenue they gain from umbrellas and beach chairs which they rent.

And that was why they appeared before the Council. At present, they report they are meeting with much competition, and if something is not done about it they will have to give up the life guard business and spend all of their time renting umbrellas as their competitors do.

In the two years that the Life Guard Association was organized, they reported, not a single life was lost. In 4 years on the Beach, 300 rescues were made. Last year, with no life guard association, two drownings have occurred. Already this year, there have been 32 rescues.

All this they told council in an effort to show how important was work, which they did for nothing.

Their only request to Council was that some remedy be effected. They did not care if a license fee be charged their competitors, or if all of their competitors be made to pass lifeguard examinations. They only asked that all people renting umbrellas on the beach be on an equal basis.

The Town Council discussed the matter pro and con for some time, and then decided to let the boys work out the situation with Town attorney Willard Ashburn and to present some legal solution to a special meeting which is to be held in about two weeks.

Construction Of Toll-Free Road May Stop Bridges

The possibility that the new toll-free highway into Norfolk and Virginia might prove a death blow to the construction of concrete bridges to replace the wooden bridges now on the Laskin road was brought to the attention of the Town Council at its meeting Monday.

Mayor Roy Smith told the Council of a communication from W. S. Harney, manager of the Norfolk Association of Commerce asking that the Town repeat its resolution favoring the toll-free highway, and asked the council's pleasure.

Town Attorney Willard Ashburn took this opportunity to state that he had been informed that the funds used for this toll-free highway would undoubtedly be the same funds that had been marked for the Laskin Road bridges.

This, he said, would mean that the construction of the new bridges would be postponed for some time, and that the old bridges, which had already been condemned, would have to be repaired again.

The Town Council, after some consideration, decided that the toll-free highway was more important to the welfare of the Beach, and voted to send the resolution on.

Opening Date For Track Uncertain

As the Virginia Beach News goes to press, officials of the Cavalier Kennel Club are still uncertain as to the exact opening date of the new dog track.

Almost the entire equipment has been completed and a number of the dogs are in town, but the officials wish to get every detail straight before beginning the races.

It is hoped that the races will be started on Friday or Saturday of this week or early next week. Ten races are to be run each night except Sunday.

BALLOON SALE FOR SANITARIUM ON JULY FOURTH

Annual Campaign Proceeds to Be Used For Virginia Beach Institution.

The annual balloon sale of the Virginia Beach Infant Sanitarium is to be held today, July 4.

Volunteer workers are to meet at the Sanitarium on Atlantic avenue at 9 a. m. and immediately afterwards will begin canvassing the streets, balloons in hand in an effort to get money for the sanitarium. Any helper wishing to work, and this especially includes children is welcome to attend.

The Sanitarium, which opened for the season on June 1 is again being operated by the same organization which operated it in previous years. Mrs. Barton Myers is president; Mrs. Walter Whitchard, vice president; Mrs. Nona Wilkinson, treasurer; Mrs. James Jordan, of Virginia Beach, assistant treasurer, and Mrs. Lee Ruffin, corresponding secretary.

All of the graduate nurses who served at the Sanitarium last year will be duty again this year. They include Miss O. I. Doll, R. N.; Miss Mildred Turpin, R. N.; Miss Audrey Umphlett, R. N., and Mrs. William Newton, Jr., R. N.

The Sanitarium is for the underprivileged children of Norfolk, Portsmouth, Princess Anne County and vicinity. Babies are taken first, and then, if there is room, mothers and older children are accepted.

The Sanitarium has accommodations for 40 babies, about 10 mothers, and approximately 25 older children.

The entire proceeds of the balloon sale will go to the Infant Sanitarium.

Weather Report Lists 11 Clear Days For June

Rainfall During Month, Over Inch Below Normal; Ten Thunderstorms.

Although the rainfall in June was only 2.82 inches, more than one inch below normal for the month of June, only 11 entirely clear days were recorded during the month, according to the monthly meteorological summary released by the weather bureau at Cape Henry.

However only six of the remaining days were listed as entirely cloudy, and rainfall was recorded on eight days only, with a slight trace of precipitation on three other days.

The week-ends were comparatively good throughout the month. June opened on Saturday, the first with a clear day, but the Sunday following was listed as partly cloudy. The second week-end was cloudy with a trace of precipitation on Sunday. Approximately 2.2 hundredths of an inch of rain was listed on July 1, but there was no rainfall on the 16th although it was listed as partly cloudy.

The 22nd showed a trace of rain, but the Sunday after it was bright and clear without a cloud in the sky. The past week-end was listed as partly cloudy.

The temperature this month reached a new high, 87 degrees on June 18. The mercury was down 100 a month on June 18.

BIG INCREASE IN RECEIPTS IS REPORTED BY POSTMASTER

Second Quarter of Year Shows 20 Per Cent Increase Over 1934.

LARGEST RECEIPTS FOR 2ND PERIOD IN HISTORY

Ashburn Predicts Next Period Will Top All Previous Records.

W. P. Ashburn, postmaster at the Town of Virginia Beach today released figures which would indicate that the 1935 season is not only better than any since 1929, but better than any season in the entire history of the resort.

Postal receipts for the second quarter (April, May and June) just ended showed a 20 per cent increase over the same period last year. Mr. Ashburn reported, and reached, he said, a new high for the Virginia Beach Post Office for that same period.

"I know no better barometer," Mr. Ashburn said, "of business at the Beach, than the Postal receipts. When the depression was taking its toll of the resort business, our receipts were suffering accordingly. When the 1934 season showed a substantial increase during the boom months of July and August, our postal receipts reached a new high for those same months."

"Incidentally, I do not hesitate to predict, now that next quarter's receipts will break all records, not only for its own period, but for any three-months period in the history of our office."

"The increase in receipts for the second quarter, incidentally," Mr. Ashburn added, have another great significance. It proves conclusively, that the Beach season is starting earlier, and that gradually as all signs of the depression fade away, the Beach will have a four or five month season instead of the two-month season it now has."

The Virginia Beach postoffice naturally operates with a small force during the winter months because of the small business at that time. In the past four months, however, new men have been put on, and at present four extra men are employed to help distribute the mass of mail passing daily through the postoffice.

Actual receipts for the second quarter of 1935 were $6,117.55 as compared to $4,230.87 in the same quarter of 1934. In July, August and September last year, the receipts totaled $10,343.10 as compared to $8,229.93 the total taken in during the same period in 1934.

Fourth of July Program Centered At Seaside Park

All-Night Dance, Day and Night Fireworks and Afternoon Dance Scheduled.

Virginia Beach's Fourth of July Celebration today will be centered at Seaside Park, where elaborate entertainment plans have been prepared.

Beginning at 9 p. m. last night with the regular dance, Pete Uderwood and his Atlanta Billboard Radio orchestra continued to entertain the holiday crowd in the Peacock Ballroom until 5 a. m.

At 3 p. m. this afternoon the music and dancing was to begin again to continue until 6 p. m.

Meanwhile, another arrangement specially has been arranged in the form of daylight fireworks which will be displayed to spectators free of charge.

In the evening, another display of fireworks will be offered, with a special Fourth of July dance scheduled for tonight.

ORDNANCE APPROVED

The proposed ordinance to impose a special license on transient merchants at Virginia Beach was tabled by the Town Council Monday and will be discussed again at a special meeting. The proposed ordinance would impose a $100 a month on transient merchants.

"THE VOICE of a majority,
availing the course of government
does not insure good government
except it be the voice of a well-informed and well-intentioned
people."

AND NOTHING CAN BE DONE ABOUT IT

It was Webster, the noted cartoonist, we believe, who originated the statement and comic strip—"And Nothing Can be Done About It."

Of course, Mr. Webster usually uses a mentally stupid female as his chief character, and depends upon some not too subtle joke for his continuity, but, we still believe that Virginia Beach has a situation here which could easily fit Mr. Webster's cartoon title.

Late last week, Governor George Perry decided to split up the large profits, the state has made through its sale of whiskey during the past year. After placing various amounts in reserve, the Governor announced that approximately $1,000,000 was to be split among the various towns, cities and counties, according to their respective population.

On this basis the town of Virginia Beach, which operates one of the most profitable stores in the state will get less than $1000 as its share.

And nothing can be done about
it.

The City of Norfolk is to get more than $50,000; Richmond is to get $75,000; Bristol, which voted to discontinue the operation of the ABC stores gets $3600.

Virginia Beach, where a lone store grossed $150,000 in a year's time will get less than $1000.

And nothing can be done about
it.

The profits derived by the State
from the operation of its stores exceeded all hopes. After setting away various surpluses and reserves, they still had an estimated profit of $1,000,000.

The lone store at Virginia Beach, according to these same figures had an approximate profit of $39,000, which is almost one tenth of the total. Yet Virginia Beach is to get less than $1000 which is only one thousandth of the total.

And nothing can be done about
it.

Virginia Beach, we may repeat,
is a resort town, dependent upon its summer business for its existence. People come here to relax and enjoy. They spend a certain portion of that money for liquor.

In the past, although whiskey was illegal, they spent it with bootleggers, and the majority of the money remained at the Beach and in the county.

Now, with the ABC refusing to allow anyone to sell whiskey but the store, and with all the store's proceeds going out of the county to be divided among such cities as Bristol, the result is beginning to show financially disastrous to the Beach business man.

The result, of course, will undoubtedly be the return of the bootlegger or the establishment of bars and speakeasies for the dispensing of such liquors so that the profits will remain in the town.

And nothing SHOULD be done
about it.

BUY A BALLOON

To some people, the Fourth of July is the birthday of our nation,
a day to be revered.

To others, the Fourth of July is a holiday. A day to play and to frolic.

To still others, and that includes Virginia Beach residents,
the Fourth of July is a day of Labor. A day of real honest to goodness hard work.

But to the officials and employees of the Infant Sanitarium at Virginia Beach, the Fourth of July is the day of days. A day separate from all the rest.

For it is on the Fourth of July
each year that the Sanitarium holds its annual balloon sale, to secure funds for the continued operation of the Sanitarium.

On this day, each year, when the Beach is crowded with visitors from all over the country, volunteer workers, with balloons in hand, circulate through the crowd selling their balloons to any and all purchasers.

The entire proceeds go to the Sanitarium to be used in the care of underprivileged and undernourished children. The sum derived is not enough to operate the Sanitarium during the summer months—but it helps.

It's a worthy cause—buy a balloon.

WANTED-A LIFE GUARD PATROL

The Town Council of Virginia Beach listened patiently to any number of requests at its meeting last Monday, and acted in many cases.

But there was one specific case
in which no action was taken,
about which something should be done immediately.

John B. Smith and M. F.
Brathwaite, both of whom have served as lifeguards at the Beach
for many years appeared before the Council to request that something be done about the umbrella situation.

It seems, the boys told Council,
that they have competition, and that they are hard pressed to keep one eye upon the ocean, and one eye upon possible customers.

And, they added, they have to have customers in order to live
so that they may continue as life guards.

The Virginia Beach News has already commented upon the unfairness of this situation and urged that something be done about it.

But something else came up in connection with this request, which the News believes should be remedied immediately.

The boys pointed out that the entire beach from 16th street,
north to Seaside Park is patrolled by only eight lifeguards; that the beach from Seaside Park north to Caveller Shores and the Cavalier Hotel is patrolled by only four lifeguards; and that the beach
from Sixteenth street, south had no lifeguards at all.

All of the eight guards between Seaside and Sixteenth street,
they pointed out, were employed by cottages but received no salary for their services. Instead they were forced to exist on what they received from renting umbrellas and chairs. Many of the cottages, they said, employed no life guards, but used small boys or negroes to rent
the chairs, thus keeping the majority of the profits.

The News, at this time, makes no comment on the unfairness of this situation, but it does attempt to point out the dangerousness of
it.

The Beach and surf bathing has
one of the greatest assets.
With well-trained life guards on the beach, the danger of drowning is reduced to a minimum. In the two years, the Beach maintained a self-organized Life Guard
patrol, there were no drownings.

Last year, with no patrol, there were two drownings. So far this year, there have been no drownings, but there have been several rescues.

If there should be several drownings in one week, and they do seem to come in pairs, the unfavorable publicity would undoubtedly prove a damaging blow to the Beach as a whole.

The Beach cannot afford to risk
such a thing.

A lifeguard patrol should be organized immediately, either by the town or by the cottages, and some arrangement made so that these lifeguards who serve the entire beach might secure an existence from the rental of their umbrellas and chairs.

HIGHWAY SYSTEM

For the nine hundred and ninety-ninth time, the Virginia Beach News, in this editorial, again asks that some legislative action be taken to right the wrong being done to Princess Anne County, in regards to its highway system.

Twice a year, the members of the County Board of Supervisors meet with H. L. Hanger, resident engineer of the State Highway Commission, and gravely approve and reject applications for improvements and additions to the State Highway system.

And just as regularly and methodically, the State Highway Department reviews these approved applications, rejects the majority of them, and accepts a few small ones to be added to the system.

The reason, of course, is that the Princess Anne county allotment will not pay for all of the improvements needed here.

The remedy is to increase the allotment.

How?

The state law at present states that the money for the various county road improvements shall be divided in proportion to the amount of property in each county. In Princess Anne, which is a farming county, the property tax paid is considerably smaller than the tax in counties which have large manufacturing plants located in them.

The result, of course, is that Princess Anne, which is a widely traveled county, and which also needs its roads so that farmers
may get their produce to market,
while other counties, which do not need good roads so badly have nothing but paved highways in their limits.

Nothing can be done to remedy
the situation until 1936 when the Virginia General Assembly will again meet. In the meanwhile,
however, residents of the county who live or are forced to use these bad highways and roads should contact Harry B. Davis, their representative to the General Assembly, and urge him to present
a new bill at the next meeting changing the highway allotments
so that the money will be divided proportionately in each county,
according to the gasoline tax paid.

This Virginia Beach News
believes will solve the road problem for Princess Anne and similar counties, and do away with incidents such as the one which occurred at the last meeting of the County Board, when it was told that six of its nine recommendations for improvements had been rejected.

SENATOR CUTTING'S WILL (Philadelphia Record)

Of his $4,000,000 estate, more than a fourth was willed by the late Senator Cutting to friends and associates in the liberal cause.

Rare, wills like this. It is not difficult to recall magnates who have left estates running from 100 to 200 million dollars without remembering a single charity, a single friend or a cause worth while.

But life meant more to Bronson Cutting than the accumulation of money, the wielding of power or the winning of prestige. Life to Senator Cutting was so precious,
so real, so vital, that he wanted everybody to share it to the utmost. It was that philosophy which lay behind his fight for the underdog, his battles for intellectual freedom as well as economic freedom.

To Senator Bob La Follette,
$50,000. To Governor Phil La Follette, $25,000. To his friends and his employees thousands more in bequests. Money left where it will do the most good, where it will advance after his death the principles for which Bronson Cutting fought in life.

More and more the nation realizes how great was its loss when that plane crashed.

HOW LIKE A DOVE (For Marie) (POETRY WORLD)

How like a dove in slow-curved flight
Your eyes saying love with light
in them and time

Not beginning nor ending. A sparrow may climb
To the height of a dove against the sky

But never grace accompanies it,
and if it lie
Too long athwart the wind
Its little breath is thinned:

No small bird and no wind may shadow any dove.
And never love
Speaking in your eyes

Too like a dove in the skies . . .
Neither circumscribed by years
nor death.

Both of beauty fleeting like the taut breath
Held in ecstasy and gone

AUGUST W. DERLETH

HOUSES (POETRY WORLD)

You cannot house a man:
His house is all windows and a door.
The sea, the rolling moon,
By night the sweeping stars

Trooping and shinning through his window-bars.
The is no plan
By which to fetter the wild love's thing

He is to clip his wing
Were you to bar the door and shut the blind
He would but look
Into an open book

And lo, farewell, farewell to hearth and fire!
His singing mind, his exquisite desire

Leap through the starry pages:
Down the light path of ages
He is up and away and gone—
The nearest sits alone

Do not confine him.
Deeply and tenderly, though the heart break, Divine him.

LES FEMMES EXOTIQUES
(POETRY WORLD)

I. White Moghrah—Singapore Always I shall bear within my heart a fear

That sometime in each current efflorescent year
Memory will recall the flower,
that you wore

In Singapore.
That its fragrance will stab me
Brow, slender girl, to you
And a White Moon in a sky of turquoise blue

And the Moghrah that you wore
One night in Singapore.

II. Black Laughter—Africa
As the long days glide into obscure
Man spends them in indolent unawareness

Comprising only circumambient light—
A sandy, dazzling land Mottled and ringed-and striped and spotted,

Fecund, young and suffocatingly
virginal.
"Ha! Ha!", the insatiable laughs
Till a little slithering wind Slides along his spine

And the indefinable stir of the oncoming night
Lifts the liliwha bushes.
From the jungle comes back laughter

Penetrating the woman-like scream of a panther
And the gibberish of quaint-eyed monkeys.

Millions of bats volplane the sky
Where an exaggerated gush
Of burished gold and Nile green makes of a night

A luncheon day
III. Bright Pigment—The Orient
They come when I sit by the western sea.

They come finger-perfumed, mellow voiced,
Bevies of brightness
Against a background of waving palms

And white eleanors and mauve jacarandas,
Lalili, dancing on an emerald
turf.

Beneath a gnarled old casuarina tree,
Silk-robed Cheng Tzu looting in a sampler

Mimosa-shaded on a lily stream,
Sitaras of the banian isles Holding out golden fruits of pleasure.

They leave behind a clutch on the memory
And a cry in the heart.

As Others See It

PARTY PATRONAGE

(By Senator O'Mahoney, of Wyoming, Answering a Question of the League of Women Voters, Can Parties Live Without Patronage?)

The answer is emphatically
"yes," and the proof is that the Democratic party, having elected only three Presidents since the Civil War, has managed to survive without benefit of patronage.

To present the country, for good or ill, according to the point of view, with that far-reaching program which is called the New Deal.

Except in the administration of Grover Cleveland, Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic party has been a stranger to Federal patronage.

Though it was a stalwart supporter of Andrew Jackson, who announced that "to the victor belongs the spoils," it was Grover Cleveland who declared that "public office is a trust" and who took the first steps to use the Civil Service law in any measurable degree for the purpose of selecting governmental employees.

LEAVING THE PHILIPPINES.
(St. Louis Star Times)

This flare up by the Sakalists of whom few Americans had ever heard until yesterday, should be a solemn warning to the United States that when it leaves the Philippines, it must make a clear clean jump, with no entanglements remaining. The islands are a danger to us now. They are worthless to us economically, a financial liability and a frightful military hazard. In a war with Japan they would be lost in a week and if we pull out while retaining a moral obligation to maintain Philippine independence, the result is likely to be war with Japan.

RUSSIA'S INDUSTRIAL PLAN
(By Joseph Stalin, In the Course of an Address to Graduating Red Army Cadets at the Kremlin, Moscow)

We had to economize on food,
schools and textiles to accumulate the means necessary for the establishment of industry. There was no other way to wipe out our technical poverty.

There were comrades who were frightened and called to the party to retreat. They said, "Why do we need your industrialization, collectivization, machinery, metallurgy, tractors, combines and automobiles? We will be better to give us more textiles, to buy more raw materials for manufacturing articles for general consumption and to give the people more of the little things that make life beautiful. It is a dangerous dream to attempt to create industry—and more so modern industry—with our backwardness."

"True, we could have used" the 3,000,000,000 rubles of foreign exchange which we raised by the most rigid economy and which was expended by our industry to import raw materials and permit greater production of articles of general consumption. But that would have not given us metallurgy, the machine building industry,
tractors, automobiles, airplanes and tanks. We would have been disarmed to our external enemies.

OUTPUT OF COLONELS OFF
(Roanoke Times)

Noting an announcement that only 54 new colonels were created in Kentucky in April as compared with 72 in March, the Louisville Courier-Journal declares:

"This is disturbing. Steel mills low for coal. Can it be that the chain letter victims, crying in the same cottage occupied to find? Have all the city directories been scanned? Have all the sucker lists been brought from defunct-bucket shops, mail-order houses, and Spanish prisoner racketeers? Kentucky cannot afford to have this premier industry go out of business."

The problem is one that deserves the earnest consideration of Governor Laffoon or should it be Buffum?—and his advisers.
Turning out colonels has been Kentucky's leading industry since the present administration came into power at Frankfort. With this industry on the wane, Kentucky can hardly claim the depression is over.

On The Beach

By BEN WAHRMAN

If you can believe Guy Barnes, adonis of the Virginia Beach police force, this really happened.

She was doing special work at Virginia Beach for a few days,
but in those few days she had quickly won the reputation of being a very particular woman.

So after all, the restaurant proprietor should have known better than to argue with her.

But he didn't know better.
And thereby hangs a tale.

Or rather, thereby scrambles
an egg.

She had decided to breakfast,
and being only a small woman—
she had ordered only a small 80-cent worth of scrambled eggs and bacon. (At Virginia Beach prices,
my ignorant friends, that really isn't so many eggs.)

After a decent and respectable interval, the eggs were placed before her, and she immediately pierced them with her trusty fork
and speared a portion upon it.

But she didn't eat it.

Instead, she held it up daintily
and just as daintily sniffed at it.

"These eggs," she called to the proprietor, "are longer young.
The bloom of youth has long since left them."

"Madam," replied the proprietor
politely, "You are crazy as hell," (or words to that effect). "These eggs are but newly laid. In fact I can show you the chicken that laid them."

"Nevertheless and not withstanding," replied the irate customer, "these eggs, to borrow a quaint expression, stink to heaven. It has been weeks since they left the nest of their mother hen.
I will not eat them and furthermore, I demand that you return
my 80 cents post haste."

We do not understand how she happened to pay her money
in advance, but that is the way
the story goes, and we would be the last person in the world to attempt to spoil a good story.

Madam, these eggs are fresh and your 80 cents is locked tightly in my cash register. You may have your eggs and eat them too, but your 80 cents shall never return to you."

"In that case, my genial host,
came a quick reply, "I shall make you suffer. The long hand of the law and the board of health shall clamp down upon you. Build me a parcel and enclose those eggs within its bounds. I shall away to the health department to have them analyzed, and woe
shall be upon you."

"Gladly, shall I obey your commands, for my hundredfold test can prove that these eggs, which I myself personally lifted from the nest on the first bounce, are anything but fresh."

Whereupon he bound the eggs
in a neat little paper parcel, plate and all and presented them to his customer.

The scene shifts quickly to the corner of Seventeenth street and Atlantic avenue, where Officer
Barnes stands ever alert, watching to the city criminal, who might park on Seventeenth street longer than one hour.

Enter a youth, running.

"Officer, Officer," he pants, no vest or coat included, "Come quickly. Mayhem is being committed."

Whereupon Officer Barnes followed the panting youth, to the restaurant where the preceding scene had taken place.

He found no mayhem, however.

Instead, he found a laughing,
very well pleased lady customer,
and an irate, indignant proprietor who stood nervously, reporting to him of his establishment's scrambled eggs, bacon, pieces of plate, and paper parcel, all streaming down the side of his head where they had evidently been deposited, carefully and forcefully.

Officer Barnes made no arrests.

Curiously enough, our second little fable today, also concerns a visitor to the Beach, and still more curiously, it concerns one who has been, and still is, residing at the same cottage occupied by the egg disdainer in the first episode.

This visitor is a young gentleman, who, although he has been here but a few short weeks, has made himself known throughout the length and breadth of the Beach, by his shock of blond hair
and his distinctive personality.

After one of his usual evenings
of wandering hither and yon, tasting of the grape, this young visitor decided to return home to his downy couch, and repose under the bright rays of the sun should call him forth to another day of riotous living.

Whereupon he hopped in his trusty 8-cylinder steed, and repaired in the general direction of the cottage, he now called home.

So It Seems
The basso's wife who is suing a diva for $250,000 for alienation of affections seems to have shifted her attention to the upper cash register.—Louisville Times.

YOUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL
By Dr. ALLEN G. DELAND
New York: The Century Company of Public Relations

The Swimming Hole
Children should never be deprived of the pleasure, the exercise, or the safeguard which swimming affords. Although the familiar plea, "May I go swimming?" makes us a little squeamish, there are few parents who don't see the importance of granting that wish.

It's folly to be always saying "No." And it's worse to scare the child. Probably the sensible move is to get acquainted with the swimming hole. Enlist the aid of other parents. Call upon the health department to test a sample of the water. There may be other departments that will help you rid the bottom of old tin cans, broken glass, and rocks. If not, organize a group of fathers to tackle the job. But if the hole can't be made healthful and safe, petition the police or town council to close it.

There are many instances where that "ole swimmin' hole" has been transformed into a place of beauty and a source of community pride. Some of the worst places are now public parks where the whole family may enjoy a daily frolic in the water and a picnic supper. No one believes it can be done, until they try it. May I believe there is no such place near their town, until they look around. The effort will more than repay you.

Should a child's summer meals differ from those of winter? Next week Dr. Ireland will give advice on this problem.

Sunday school, 10 a. m.; preaching and morning worship, 11 a. m. Sacrament of the Lord's Supper every second Sunday.

Old Donation, Episcopal. Rev. Marshall E. Travers, rector. Sunday: Service at 10 a. m. Sunday School at 11 a. m.

Smiles Her Way To Fame

by Gloria Lane

DORIS FORD smiles her way to fame and fortune as New York's favorite artists' model. Her winning expression has been painted on canvas by such well-known artists as Howard Chandler Christy, James Montgomery Flagg and McClelland Barclay.

Because Miss Ford finds her lips and teeth play an important part in the charm of her smile, she has a special beauty ritual. This is done with a toothbrush and she brushes her teeth and gums and teeth . . . and a perfect smile.

Two psychological novels finish the week's tale of books. "Only the Fear" by Lenore Marshall portrays a woman's abnormal, introspective reactions to life. Comparatively plotless, yet it is well written enough. "Fortune and Men's Eyes" was evidently conceived after George Cronyn had halfway dissected some ideas of Freud's. The apparently normal Peirce family certainly developed some odd quirks under cover.

New Telephone Directory Out

List of Names and Numbers For Summer 1935, Now Being Distributed.

The new telephone directory for the summer of 1935 is now being distributed.

The directory, which is green in color, carries a map of Virginia on its cover. It contains 16 pages and is corrected as of June 10.

P. W. Ackiss is first to be listed in the directory this year, and W. L. Zimmer is the last.

Book Sampler

Robert Rylee's first novel, "Deep Dark River," contains some memorable pictures of the Deep South, but many inhabitants of that section will resent the book.

The Portia theme of it, a young woman battling the most degraded political elements in a little Mississippi county for the future of Mose, a negro, furnishes reminders of things that have been overdrawn in Northern publications.

But the novel more properly is about Mose. Mose is a "good" negro. He is a field hand, but he feels the call to preach, which he does with sincere fervor to his fellows.

With the same sincere simplicity, he takes notoriously bad character for his wife. His congregation desert him, and he goes to work under the supervision of a group of corrupt whites.

Someone, touched by the beautifully drawn portrait of Mose, has called this another "Uncle Tom's Cabin," but there the analogy ends. It is Mose's story, not social implications, for which the book will be read.

"Ninety degrees in the Shade" deals with the South as a unit, for the South is a unit. Just as clear and distinct as is New England, though diametrically opposed. It deals with the principals which have been conducive to physical passivity, and the state of mind which regards activity as an admission that peace is unendurable.

Clarence Cason's solution found by some to be unacceptable, but for intelligent summarization of the facts, Prof. Cason's book is outstanding. Every Southerner should read this integrated series of articles, and take it to

Thank You! For a New Record in FORD TRUCK SALES

NORFOLK TERRITORY 99.8% SALES INCREASE OVER 1934

TRUCK buyers of Virginia and North Carolina have shown a decided preference for the sturdy Ford V-8 trucks and speedy commercial units...

Truck sales show an 84% increase nationally for the first four months of this year, while the Ford dealers in Norfolk territory show a 99.8% gain—Commercial car sales gain, 86% nationally,—109.7% in Norfolk territory. This is the largest volume of truck and commercial car retail sales for Ford Motor Company since 1926.

There is a definite reason for this. Ford dealers have shown owners by actual tests that the new 1935 Ford V-8 trucks and commercial cars are by far the best Ford Motor Company has ever built.

ONLY THE 1935 FORD V-8 TRUCK GIVES YOU ALL THESE ADVANCED FEATURES

- V-8 engine with 80 full horsepower
- New Forward Load Distribution
- New stronger front axle
- Full-floating rear axle
- Heavy duty four speed transmission
- New, larger center-force type clutch
- Improved cooling
- Comfortable, insulated cab
- WIP-washed, self-cleaning brakes
- Torque tube and radius rod drive
- New spring suspension
- New Truck Styles

Make This On The Job Test

So that you may know the rugged power and flexibility of the Ford V-8 truck or the toughness, speed and economy of the Ford V-8 Pick-Up, we invite you to make this test—Call your Ford Dealer today for an "on your job" test—Use the Ford V-8 truck or commercial car with your own loads, on your own route, with your own driver at the wheel. The results will show you the reason for such tremendous Ford V-8 truck, and commercial car, sales gain—you will be under no obligation, of course.

The Cook's Nook

Furnished to the women of Princess Anne County by the Virginia Electric and Power Company Home Service Department, Naomi D. Shank.

This summer's oranges, though small in size, are plentiful. It's another record crop of juicy and flavorful fruit—and prices are reasonable.

Though relatively small, the orange now in market is tree-ripened and as sweet as Nature makes 'em. And full of vitamins. Regardless of other fresh fruits, which come and go from your grocer's displays, the orange is always there to add its delectable and healthful presence to your table.

Lemons are also plentiful so you'll have no difficulty obtaining them for that early morning drink to health or zestful tang in fruit drinks, salads or what have you.

When You Serve Orange Juice
Be sure it is freshly made. It loses flavor and vitamins as it stands.

Very popular is the glass of orange juice with juice of 1-2 lemons added to "bring out the flavor." Honey is a tasty sweetening agent.

Some long, tall drinks which children or guests will relish—and from which they will benefit—are such variations as these:

Frosted Orange Juice: To a tall glass almost full of chilled orange juice add a scoop of vanilla ice cream. Serve immediately.

Spiced Orangeade: To 1 cup of orange juice, add 1/4 cup iced water or 2 cubes of crushed ice, with 2 or 3 tablespoons spiced sugar syrup.

To make this syrup, combine: 1 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cloves, 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger, and 1-3 cups boiling water; cool and bottle for use as needed.

Orange Buttermilk: Keen for health addicts, and surprisingly tasty. Combine 1/2 cup orange juice with 1/2 cup of buttermilk. Sweeten to taste and serve ice cold.

Sunkist Fruit Sherbet (Makes 2 qts.)
Citrus fruit juices make an excellent base for fruit sherbets, combining with seasonal fruits. There is nothing more refreshing with which to top a summer guest meal—family get-together. It's simple to prepare and requires no last minute fussing—always boons to the hostess! Take: 1/4 cup orange juice, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 2 1/2 cups sugar

1 quart milk
1 cup of anyone of following fruits: crushed strawberries, raspberries, apricot pulp, mashed peaches.

Mix and freeze. If mixture curdles it will freeze smooth again. (Good for hand freezer or trays in your mechanical refrigerator)

Fruit Salad Dessert Mixture (serves 5-6)
Here is a basic recipe for a fruit combination which may be served as an appetizer, salad or dessert, depending upon the "trimmings" which adapt it to these various courses. Rather convenient. Mix:
1 cup orange pieces
1/2 cup diced pears
1/2 cup sliced bananas
3/4 cup sliced peaches (or apricots, berries, cherries or grapes)
Sugar or simple syrup to taste
Mix fruits and sweeten. Chill. Serve as:
Fruit cup: 1/2 cup in cocktail glass for first course; 3/4 cup for dessert. Or serve in baskets made of orange peel. This may be topped with orange or lemon ice.
Fruit Salad: Serves 1/2 to 3/4 cup on lettuce covered salad plate, with sweet French dressing.
Fruit Salad Sundae: Top vanilla ice cream with 2 to 4 tablespoons of mixture.
Lemon Tapioca (Serves 6-8) Relished by youngsters or adults and suitable for either; both is this simple dessert with a grand flavor. Take:
1 cup quick cooking tapioca
3 cups boiling water
1/4 teaspoon salt
Rind 1 lemon
Cook 20 to 30 minutes. Remove lemon rind and add:
1 cup sugar; 1/2 cup lemon juice; 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
Chill thoroughly and serve in sherbet glasses.
Orange Meat Salad (Serves 6)
This makes a welcome luncheon dish when you are wondering what to do with the bits from last night's roast! Mix:
2 cups cold roast meat (lamb, veal, chicken or duck)
2 cups orange pieces
Cut the meat into small pieces and marinate in mixture of 6 tablespoons lemon juice, 3 tablespoons salad oil, 1 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Combine orange and meat and serve on crisp lettuce with salad dressing.

Carry on with the newspapers.

Twice As Many Tourists This Year As Last

Conoco Tourist Bureau Sees Rich Harvests For Wide Awake Merchants.

"Virginia Beach merchants who are 'on their toes' and looking for their share of this summer's tourist dollar should reap a rich harvest. REASON: There will be twice as many tourists on the road as there were last summer."

Such is the surprising prediction just released by the Conoco Travel Bureau, America's largest free travel service, maintained by Continental Oil Company, Denver, Colorado.

In a bulletin addressed to the merchants of "Main Street" in all parts of the United States, the Bureau advises them to prepare for the greatest tourist trade in years.

"Dust storms have spent their fury leaving a new top soil, and flood waters have receded," says Joe H. Thompson, director of the Bureau. "As a result of heavy rainfall, America's highways, and particularly the mountain areas, are green in vegetation, and wild flowers are more abundant than ever."

"During the first five and a half months of this year the Conoco Travel Bureau received 115 per cent more trip applications than during the same period in 1934."

"At present, more than 250 carefully trained employees are working day and night shifts in the Bureau's Denver offices. During the early part of June last year the Denver personnel numbered only 126."

"The Conoco Travel Bureau was founded five and one-half years ago in response to the demands of motor-vacationists and everyday travelers anxious to secure accurate, up-to-the-minute information regarding North American highways, scenic regions and travel costs. Each motorist applying for Travel Bureau assistance receives a generous assortment of maps, booklets, cottage camp and hotel guides and special instructions covering every phase of his journey. Even temporary highway detours and choice fishing and hunting areas are indicated. More than 25,000 Conoco dealer stations in 42 states act as branches of the Bureau and are equipped to render additional tourist assistance of a more localized nature."

LYNNHAVEN CLUB AT CAPE CHARLES
Locals Playing Doubleheader
Today After Losing Two Over Week-End.
The Lynnhaven baseball club is at Cape Charles today (the Fourth of July) engaging in a holiday double-header with the strong Cape Charles A. C. nine.
The Lynnhaven week-end schedule is still in doubt, although Manager Charlie Ingram promises fans a good home game on the Lynnhaven diamond Sunday afternoon. The Lynnhaves were scheduled to play Charity the second game of their series on Sunday, but because of the potato harvest now going on, the game
was postponed until a later date.
Lynnhaven is scheduling another game.

The Lynnhavenites ran into a bad week-end during the past week. A scheduled game with the Navy Yard Marines was called off, and the County boys decided to entertain Ocean View at home instead. Ocean View won 3 to 1.
Allen Gettle, 16-year old hurler started on the mound for the locals and traveled six innings,
giving up but five safe singles,
which, however were good for 3 runs. Cecil Sawyer took up the burden in the seventh and finished the game, allowing only 1 hit and no runs. Jack Davis, held the Lynnhaven lads in check for Ocean View. Bucky Allen got two hits for Lynnhaven, while catcher Charlie Tucker, of the Ocean
View nine connected safely 3 times.
On Sunday, the Princess Anne boys moved into the Naval Base stadium, and despite powerful stickwork dropped a 6 to 3 decision to the strong Naval Base Boys Ames, on the mound for the losers, pitched well except for the fatal fourth, when 2 errors, a walk and three hits, allowed all six Boys runs to cross the plate.
Woodward hurried good ball for the Boys. Dick Gallup and Bucky Allen each secured two safe bingles.
The Lynnhaven Cub was sche-

The SNAPSHOT GUILD
SUMMER FLOWERS

Summer offers unlimited opportunities for unusual flower pictures.

ALTHOUGH June 21 is considered the first day of summer, it seems that, as far as the well-known public is concerned, Nature's traffic signal turns to "Go" on Decoration
Day and the season is open for picnics, week-end trips, vacations and all activities closed under the general heading of "Outdoor Sports."
Heading the list of summer activities, however, should be "snapshooting"
for picture taking with the modern day camera. It is much better to have a healthful recreation that may be enjoyed by the young or old, and we might add—rich or poor for today cameras are available at prices to meet the capacity of any pocketbook and good pictures can be taken with all of them.
Another thing in favor of amateur photography as a pastime or hobby is the fact that it is not necessary to be an expert to get pleasing results,
for modern-day cameras and film
have been materially simplified for the snapshotter.
Late spring—and summer—offer
great possibilities for flower and garden pictures, from the first appearance of the colorful crocus through the season to the arrival of the giant chrysanthemum in the fall.
The first rule of flower portraiture is: Avoid harsh lighting. By this, I mean that flowers seldom make good pictures under direct, midday sun.
The light between ten and three in the summer is so intense that you get an over-abundance of chalky highlights andinky shadows. To catch the subtle beauty of the colorings in flowers, it is much better to work under the slanting rays of the sun in early morning or late afternoon.
You will doubtless want to take close-ups of some of the flowers. If your camera will not focus closer than ten feet, or thereabouts, get a portrait attachment (a simple, inexpensive lens that fits over the regular lens). With it you can get very close to your subjects, for striking and beautiful shots.
Here's another trick. To make a particular flower or plant stand out vividly, get a big sheet of gray cardboard and stand it up back of the flower, far enough away so that—if you are using direct sunlight—no
shadows fall on it.
To catch the color values of flowers, you'll need to use the new super-sensitive-panchromatic film. "Panchromatic" means the film is capable of recording, in monochrome of course, a wide range of colors. Your photo dealer will help you select the best film for your special needs, and you will get snapshots to which you can point with pride and say, "I snapped that one."

More Than 100 Are Entered In Cavalier Show
Annual Junior Event Being Held On Cavalier Lawn Today (July 4).
More than 100 entries have been received for the Cavalier Junior Horse Show, which is being held this afternoon, (July 4)
in the Cavalier Show ring on the lawn of the Cavalier Hotel.
Little Miss Ellie Wood Keith,
of Charlottesville will start the afternoon's performance as reigning champion, but she will undoubtedly meet with stiff competition from Sarah Louise Adams, of San Antonio, Texas.
Other well known junior exhibitors will include Alex Calvert, of Warrenton; Susan Butler, of Suffolk; Susan Potter and Pat Thraves, of Virginia Beach.
Senior exhibitors will include Oscar Smith and R. B. Douglas, of Norfolk; Morton Govern, of New York; Taylor Johnson, of Virginia Beach; Miss Tony Darden and Miss Dinky West, both of Suffolk.
The meet was originally scheduled to be for juniors only, but it attracted so much interest that two senior classes, one jumping,
and one five gaited class, were added. The feature children's class will be a bareback event over jumps.
The meet was scheduled to start 2 p. m. today. Almost every one of the 100 entries are pupils of Mrs. Fontaine Maury Thraves,
director of the Cavalier Stables.

There wouldn't be so many strikes, however, if the labor leader's pay stopped, too.—Los of spaciousness.

The new air-conditioned luxury-coaches operated on these trains are roomy; the seats are centered almost five feet apart, and they may be adjusted to any position. A large women's salon, a man's smoking room, and wide windows will also help to make your trip pleasant.
Meals are served in spacious, air-conditioned dining cars. The air-conditioned Pullman cars are equipped with adjustable seats and long, wide berths for restful sleep. Then, too, there's an air-conditioned lounge car to afford a welcome change.
You will enjoy a summer trip on one of these cool, spacious, luxurious trains.

In Days Gone By

Ten Years Ago With The Virginia Beach
News

Widening of the road from Norfolk to Virginia Beach by a four foot shoulder has been definitely decided upon, according to unofficial statements regarded as authentic. The work of widening the highway will probably begin this fall, so that by spring the road will be in better shape to handle heavy traffic expected next summer. The announcement of the improvement causes little surprise, as it is generally considered that the summer traffic of the highway is so heavy as to make it absolutely necessary, to have it widened. Checkers have been at work at various times during the summer season, and their reports indicate that the Virginia Beach Highway is one of the most heavily travelled in the state.

The Misses Ethel and Vera Potter entertained Thursday afternoon, at their home at Maple Run with a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Lucille Brock whose marriage to Dean S. Potter will take place Thursday, August 27th. Those present besides the guest of honor were Mrs. Geo. Boush, Mrs. J. M. Tauder, Mrs. T. J. Cobb, Mrs. L. D. Lindsey, Mrs. Ernest M. Washington, Mrs. G. J. Oliver, Mrs. A. L. Salmon, Mrs. Raymond Brock, Mrs. Preston Ives, Mrs. Harrison Batten, Mrs. Edwin Lindsey, Mrs. J. F. Ingram, Mrs. W. H. Brock, Mrs. Cecil Parker, Mrs. Lucy Gilbert, Mrs. B. F. Owens, Mrs. S. A. Brock, Mrs. Hattie Gresham, Mrs. Harvey Capps, Mrs. William Avery, Mrs. Elmer Brock, Mrs. R. H. Gordon, Mrs. J. Waldo Smith, Mrs. Albert Gornito, Mrs. John Brock, the Misses Minnie Beach, Johnnie and Alice Scuff, Marie Stauder, Mary Casen, Fannie Brock, Beadie Salmons, Hilda Braithwaite, Mary Nimmo, Hattie Gresham, Dorothy and Minnie Avery, Eddie Sprinkle and Ruth Gornito.

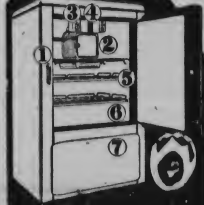

Virginia Beach has acquired over 15 miles of new streets this season in addition to several miles of hard surface roads and streets put in by the town. The 15 miles of streets that have been opened, graded, and improved by the land development companies has aided materially in relieving traffic congestion and at the same time opened up new and beautiful residential sections which no doubt will very shortly be built up, as practically all building sites have been sold.

Saving lives at the risk of his own has been attempted so many times and with such success by John Sparrow that a petition to the Carnegie Foundation for bravery medal has been sent in by interested citizens. His recent heroism in saving the lives of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Walker brought widespread attention to his past deeds, and investigation brought out the fact that he has been the savior of many lives, and had been rescuing people from the surf every summer for years. Coast Guard men said Sparrow was seemingly always there at the right time; often the life guards

CAMERAGRAPHS

Copper tubing which is being generally used throughout the country for replacing worn-out corroded pipes has just been approved in the specifications of the Department of Purchase, City of New York. Recent excavations in Egypt resulted in unearthing Copper pipe that was in service more than 3,000 years ago. It is today in a good state of preservation and could still convey water. The photograph above is a scene of downtown New York, taken from Governors Island.

Popular Dance Team Appearing At Crystal Club

DeCarlos and Granada, From Picture, "Flying Down To Rio" at Beach.

A new and spectacular floor show, featuring that spectacular dance team, De Carlos and Granada, which won fame in the RKO picture, "Flying Down To Rio," is now being shown at the Crystal Club, located on Crystal Lake at 32nd street. The show is to run through Saturday night.

The dance team is only the headliner in the show which features six acts of vaudeville. Another feature is the Lee sisters, direct from the Wardman Park Hotel in Washington, D. C. These comely girls, display terpsichorean talents, superior to any ever seen here. They especially excel in an acrobatic feature.

Music for dancing at the Crystal Club is still furnished by Bill Allersbrook and his popular University of North Carolina band which has been playing their ever since the opening.

Record crowds are expected during the Fourth of July weekend, according to Charlie Gooch, manager.

Mileage Hints

It pays to give the chassis a thorough going over at this season of the year. This doesn't take long and will return dividends in the form of greater riding comfort and decreased wear. You can do it yourself or have it done at a good service station.

Start in by checking the body bolts for tightness. Do the same to the door. A few turns on a screw or a bolt will often remove an annoying rattle or squeak. Clean your upholstery. Brush it thoroughly, remove stains and spots with a spot remover which can be obtained from your service station. Then clean the windows. And while you're at the service station get a can of top dressing and paint the top of the car, or have it done there. This will keep it looking shiny and will serve as a water-proofing and prevent wear.

Go over the entire car and polish all the metal parts. A clean car is not only desirable from the standpoint of appearance, but cleanliness prevents the formation of rust and reduces wear. Every motor car owner can add many dollars to the turn-in value of his car and cut down his maintenance costs by taking a little time to go over it periodically in this way.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell the decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, nervous and no good for anything. What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bodies can't digest it. What is the result? It is the most vital digestive juice in no body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver, into our bowels every day, it grows rancid, and our food decays and 2 pints of our food decays in our 28 feet of bowels. This causes our system all over our body every six minutes.

When our liver is weak and we feel like a whippersnapper, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative, let it be over. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which really start the liver better. It is offered you, don't buy it, use it may be a colored (mercury) pill, which causes teeth, gums and sores in the mouth in many people. ## KASSELS IN AIR HERE JULY 15

Noted Orchestra to Play At Seaside Park For Charitable Organization.

Another "big name" orchestra is scheduled to play in the beautiful Peacock Ballroom at Seaside Park on Monday, July 15.

The orchestra this time is none other than Art Kassel and his "Kassels in the Air," radio broadcasting orchestra, which will appear here under the auspices of the Baldwin Circle of the King's Daughters, a Norfolk organization.

The story of Kassel's career reads like a Horatio Alger novel. He was born in Chicago just after the turn of the century. His family was in poor circumstances, and he had to go to work when he was nine years old. To another child, this might have meant misery—but not so with Art. He peddled newspapers with all the eagerness and energy in him. It was in those days that he gained an intimate insight into people. He likes and dislikes an insight which later was to make his fortune.

Sensing the importance of education, Art worked his way through high school, and while there managed to join the school band, thereby gaining the use of his instrument that the saxophone presented no difficulties. He was almost decided to make music his career.

Then came the World War, and Art was placed with an army band. Here again was the necessity to please thousands, with the valuable experience it entailed.

In 1923 Art Kassel's opportunity came. He had been playing the saxophone with other orchestras in theatres, cafes and hotels. Now he was given a chance to take his five-piece band into a small chop house. For him it was a great opportunity, and he jumped at it. The result was that Kassel and his orchestra went over with a bang.

Opportunities followed thick and fast. One success led to another. In time came the radio. Overnight, Art Kassel and his "Kassels in the Air" became a byword where good entertainment and music were mentioned. Now the Kassel fans are legion.

MISS FALCONER AWARDED FIRST PRIZE IN FARM LETTER CONTEST

Lynnhaven Girl's Entry to Represent Princess Anne in State Wide Contest.

SECOND PRIZE AWARDED TO MRS. W. W. OLIVER

F. W. Cox, Mrs. Louise Ewell and Esther B. Jolly Serve As Judges.

Miss Evelyn Falconer, of Lynnhaven, won first prize in the "Better Farm Housing" Letter Contest for Princess Anne county which was conducted here by the Federal Housing Administration through H. W. Ozlin, county agent.

Miss Falconer's letter was entitled "Is It Worthwhile to Put Work and Money Into Making the Farm House Attractive and Comfortable?" Second Prize was won by Mrs. W. W. Oliver, of Bay Side, who wrote on the "Virginia Farm Buildings and the National Housing Act."

Judges in the contest were F. W. Cox, superintendent of County Schools; Mrs. Louise H. Ewell, FERA director, and Esther B. Jolly.

Miss Falconer's letter will be entered in a similar state-wide contest at Princess Anne county's representative. Her prize winning letter which won for her enough lumber to trim a room and enough paint with which to paint it, follows:

Is It Worthwhile to Put Work and Money Into Making the Farm House Attractive and Comfortable?

4-H Club Camp To Be Held At Fort Story Soon

Enrollment of at Least 150 Expected at Annual Princess Anne Encampment.

Many boys and girls, members of the 4-H club in Princess Anne are making plans to attend the Cape Henry 4-H Camp which will be held in the barracks at Fort Story, Cape Henry, Virginia, August 4-13.

The following have already told the County Agent, H. W. Ozlin, that they will be on hand when the camp opens:

Oceanic Club—Norris Johnson and William Flora.

Credits Club—Leona Etheridge and Tilford Williams.

Charity Club—Mabel Brumley.

Blackwater Club—Louise Carter, Stuart Ives, Ernest Kerekes, and Louise Ives.

Bay Side Club—Grace Ryder.

Kempville Club—Ethel Brown, Frances Phillips and Claudia Alberson.

All club members who have their projects in good shape and records up are invited to attend this camp and other members who are planning to attend are urged to notify their county agent just as quickly as possible.

The cost this year will be $5.00 per member and this will cover board and a walnut stool that each member will make while in camp.

Club members in Norfolk, Hatteras, South Hampton, Isle of Wight, and Northampton are also making plans to attend this camp and it is expected that the enrollment this year will be at least 150, besides leaders and instructors.

Let's Be Reasonable

(AN EDITORIAL)

Let's be reasonable.

One resident of Virginia Beach becomes angry because of a condition which exists or which he thinks exists at the Beach. Failing to get action to please him, he writes a letter to the Governor.

A newspaper in Norfolk, whose editor has suddenly become a reformer, grabs the letter, and ignoring all vice and crime conditions in its own city, enlarges on it, and send out news dispatches to the state and the country, telling of the vice at Virginia Beach and urging that it be stopped.

The result may mean that the 2,000 year-old citizens of Virginia Beach may be forced to seek elsewhere for the means of making a living.

Let's be reasonable.

Virginia Beach is a resort town. It depends entirely upon the resort trade it gets in two short summer months. Undoubtedly, this resort business comes to Virginia Beach for one reason alone—to be amused.

The dog tracks, and other devices and parks serve to amuse these tourists. The citizens of Virginia Beach, as a news story on this page shows, are satisfied with conditions. Real crime is conspicuous by its absence at Virginia Beach. Why not, then, leave things alone.

Let's be reasonable.

The crux of the matter is that the existence of some 2,000 people is now imperiled because a newspaper in a city 20 miles away decided to ignore crime conditions in its own city and turn upon Virginia Beach.

The News, it might be said, has its own personal bread and butter to protect, and is, for this reason, defending its conditions. Let us then listen to a non-partisan, the editor of the Richmond Times Dispatch.

ANNUAL MATCH NAYLOR BAND DAY SATURDAY ON NBC CHAIN

Nine Teams of Girls to Canvass Virginia Beach for TB Association.

Indications are that the annual match day sale of the Princess Anne Tuberculosis Association which is to be held in Virginia Beach on Saturday, July 13 will be a huge success.

Advance sales on matches placed in drug stores and hotels have proved gratifying, and Mrs. W. F. Crockett and Miss Adella Dabney, co-chairman of the campaign are confident that the street sale will prove still more successful.

Nine teams of girls will take part in the sale. The winning team will be the guests of the Association at a motion picture party.

Team No. 1: Helen Smith captain; Cornelia Smith, Elizabeth Reid, Betty May Smith, Margaret Love Smith, and Anne Simmons.

Team No. 2: Joyce Dail, captain; Evelyn Dail, Joan Frank, and Carolyn Dail.

Team No. 3: Mary Trant, captain; Jean Trant, Nancy Rogers and Thura Trant.

Team No. 4: Elizabeth Woodhouse, captain; Dent Cole, Ella Niemann, Martha Woodhouse and Anne Hilliard.

Team No. 5: Dorothy Fisher, captain; Alice Forbes, Nell Webb, and Agnes Webb.

Team No. 6: Betty Stanley, captain; Constance Crockett, Madge Talliferro, and Edna Stanley.

Team No. 7: Elizabeth Callan, captain; Mary Lee, Jean Marie Wilkerson and Miss Jaffe.

Team No. 8: Margaret Singleton, captain; Eleanor Williams, Theresa Williams, Catherine Alford, and Mary Anne Morris.

Team No. 9: Mrs. Lee Pender, chairman; Helen Pender, Harriett Pender, Louisa Kyle and Betsy Kyle.

The entire proceeds will go to the Tuberculosis Association.

Legion Floor Show To Have New Feature

The management of the American Legion club this week announces something entirely different for its regular Saturday night floor show, to be held in the clubhouse on Fourteenth street.

The headline this week will be none other than George Von Schilling, well known and popular piano accompanist who will present a variety program entitled "Melody Moments."

FIRST ANNUAL CONVENTION OF TRIAL JUSTICES HERE JULY 15-16

Attorney General A. P. Staples Scheduled to Speak At Banquet.

GOV. GEORGE PEERY UNABLE TO COME HERE

Colgate Darden and Judge Walter McCarthy Other Speakers on Program.

A. P. Staples, attorney general for the State of Virginia will be the principal speaker at the first annual convention of the Association of Trial Justices of Virginia, which is to be held at the Cavalier Hotel, July 15 and 16.

Mr. Staples will substitute for Governor George C. Peery, who was scheduled to speak here, but will be unable to keep the engagement.

Other noted speakers on the two-day program include Colgate W. Darden, Jr., congressman from the second district, and Judge Walter T. McCarthy, judge of the 16th Judicial District.

W. H. Overby, of Campbell County is president of the Association; Paul E. Brown, of Fairfax County, vice president, and W. Francis Binford, Prince George County, secretary and treasurer. Members of the executive committee include C. H. Wald, Jr., of Warwick, representing District 1; Robert R. Beaton, Norfolk county, district 2; A. Taylor Pitt, Henric district 3; J. Segas Gray, att. Nottingham, district 4; John D. Hooker, Patrick; district 5; J. Callaway Brown, Bedford, district 6; Walter G. Olmstead, Warren, district 7; William Hill Brown, Jr., Prince William, district 8; John W. B. Deeds, Pulaski, district 9.

The purposes of the Association of Trial Justices of Virginia are primarily as follows:

- 1.—To foster a close association among the Trial Justices of Virginia.
- 2.—To promote uniformity of procedure, to improve technique and methods, and to more efficiently administer the laws and perform the duties of the court.
- 3.—To maintain and further develop the juvenile and domestic relations court.
- 4.—To co-operate with the General Assembly of Virginia in the enactment of legislation for the improvement of the Trial Justice Court and the advancement of the general welfare of the Commonwealth.

The first project undertaken by the Association was to submit numerous questions to the Attorney General for rulings and also to the Auditor and Comptroller, with reference to the bookkeeping situation. These rulings have been secured from the state officials, and have been put out in pamphlet form by the Association as to help the various justices.

The complete program for the convention follows:

Monday, July 15

11:00 a. m.—Call to order.

11:15 a. m.—Address of welcome—Mr. Darden.

11:45 a. m.—Address — "The Law's Search of the Truth," Judge McCarthy.

12:00 noon—Committee meetings.

8:30 p. m.—Banquet—Address, Mr. Staples.

Tuesday, July 16

10:00 a. m.—Business meeting: Committee reports, election of officers and adjournment.

CORRECTION

The Virginia Beach News, in its issue of July 4, inadvertently made an error in the advertisement of Aufenger's Norfolk photographer. The ad should have read "Wedding Portraits Live Forever."

Town Officials Also Seem To Be Satisfied With Conditions Now Existing In Resort Town

OFFICE OPENED FOR AMERICAN LEGION MEETING

Ten Drum Corps Coming; Senator Byrd Makes Tentative Acceptance.

With less than two months before 6,000 members of the Virginia Department, American Legion move into Virginia Beach for their annual convention, members of the convention committee have found it necessary to devote full time towards preparations for the meeting.

General convention headquarters have been established in the Legion clubhouse, and Mrs. George Briggs has been installed as official convention secretary, working directly under Fairfield Hodges, convention manager. The new convention headquarters telephone has been installed. The number is 308.

Progress reported includes many number of reservations already made, and a number of acceptances from distinguished guests invited to appear here.

No answer has yet been received from President Roosevelt, but Senator Harry F. Byrd, replied, stating that he would make every effort to come here. Congressman Colgate Darden, and John W. Flanagan have accepted and will make addresses here as will Colonel E. W. Jordan, of the Veterans Administration Facility, Roanoke.

Mr. Hodges also reports that ten American Legion Junior Drum and Bugle Corps have announced that they will be here. The drum corps, each with a personnel of from 50 to 80 boys, will come by special train. They will represent in Bristol, Marion, Wytheville, Tazewell, Galax, Millerville, Radford, Salem, Roanoke and Lynchburg.

Headquarters for the Legion will be in the Pinewood hotel, while the Auxiliary will use the Courtney Terrace.

Demonstrations Of Canning Are Scheduled Here

Miss Eva Minix to Conduct Classes Under Auspices of VERA Garden Program.

Canning demonstrations for both colored and white people in the county have been arranged by Mrs. Mary Phillips, VERA Garden Director. The demonstrations will be given by Miss Eva Minix, representing the Kerr Glass Manufacturing Company, and will demonstrate the use of their new Vacuum seal jars which require no rubbers.

Miss Minix is demonstrating in connection with the VERA Garden Program but the general public is invited to her demonstration. Dates for demonstrations announced today follow. All demonstrations will begin at 2 p. m.

July 30—Nimmo—Church Hall.

August 1 — Virginia Beach — School building.

No Word Received From Governor Although Norfolk Papers Quote Him as Saying He Will Communicate With Beach Authorities in Regards to Law Enforcement.

POLITICIANS AND MINISTERS HESITANT ABOUT TALKING FOR PUBLICATION

General Consensus Is That Any Attempt At Strict Law Enforcement In Regards to Gambling Will Prove Death Blow To All Resort Business at Beach.

Virginia Beach hotel owners and managers were almost unanimous today in issuing a verbal protest against any attempt to interfere with the law enforcement at the Beach as regards any amusement device or concern at the resort. Town officials were more reticent in expressing an opinion, but almost all of them seemed satisfied with matters as they now stand.

The matter came to public attention, when Thomas C. Flynn, Virginia Beach resident wrote a letter to Governor George C. Peery, stating that the Cavalier Kennel Club, recently opened dog racing track was sanctioning gambling. Norfolk newspapers took up Flynn's cudgel and printed the letter, quoting at the same time someone who they claimed as being "close to the dog track" as saying that if the track was closed, other so-called gambling places on the beach would also be closed.

Governor Peery in replying, stated that he was only concerned with law enforcement, and would communicate with Virginia Beach officials to secure information on the subject.

He had not done so late Thursday night. Mayor Roy Smith, of Virginia Beach, was reticent to discuss the matter today, and said he could make no reply to Governor Peery until he had heard from and knew exactly what he wanted. He did however issue a statement, which will probably give an idea of what his reply to the Governor will say.

OPEN CHAMPION TO APPEAR HERE

Cavalier Beach Club Orchestra Broadcasts on National Hook-Up Twice Weekly.

Sam Parks, Jr., of Pittsburg, newly crowned open golf champion of the United States will appear at the Cavalier Country Club here on July 28, playing in an exhibition match with Jimmy Thompson, nationally known professional, who is sometimes called the California "siege gun" because of his long driving ability.

Announcement of the match was made this week by Bob Tunstall, sports director of the club.

So far, Mr. Tunstall has not secured opponents for Parks and Thompson, but he is making plans now to invite Chandler Harper, former State amateur champion, who recently turned professional, and Jack Isaacs, professional on the Peninsula to compete here.

Before coming here Parks and Thompson will compete in the St. Paul open, one of the largest summer open events. From here they will continue on a summer exhibition tour.

Parks will be making his first visit to this vicinity, but Thompson, although still comparatively a youngster, is well known in this vicinity. His father was a golf professional in Richmond ten years ago, and Jimmy made an appearance in Norfolk to play in the State open tournament.

The newly scheduled exhibition match is another golfing plum for Virginia Beach, which has already seen the Middle Atlantic tournament and a match featuring Walter Hagen, Ky Lafoon, Henry Picard and Craig Wood.

DELEGATES NAMED

Convention delegates to the State Legion convention which meets at the Beach in September have been announced by the Legion Auxiliary as follows: Mrs. Henry Woodhouse, Mrs. J. C. Cornick and Mrs. A. L. Barco. Alternates are Mrs. George A. Williams, Mrs. J. F. Woodhouse and Mrs. W. F. Crockett.

His statement follows: "Virginia Beach is exceedingly free of serious crime. The law violations here consist largely of petty misdemeanors and a very few of those, when one takes into consideration the great influx of people during the summer season and the great cosmopolitan population of this rapidly developing and popular resort.

"Virginia Beach has a good and efficient police department and is endeavoring to enforce all laws fairly and appropriate to the circumstances and conditions, and shall cooperate with all law enforcement officials of the State of Virginia to attain their end."

Paul W. Ackles, Jr., Commonwealth's attorney, also told the News that he had not yet heard from the Governor, and that as far as he knew officially, there was no law violation at Virginia Beach.

"If I receive orders to investigate the dog track or any other place at Virginia Beach," he said, "I shall do so. But until I receive such orders, I have nothing to do with the matter."

Willard Ashburn, town attorney, stated that the matter did not come under his jurisdiction, while H. L. MacLennan, Chief of Police, stated that he followed orders, and pointed to the records, which showed no major crimes of any kind at the Beach this season.

Those members of the Town Council, who could be located, also expressed ignorance of any gambling at the Beach. They stated, however, that they had no complaint to make of any amusement device at the Beach, and felt that any attempt at closing or removing them would prove financially disastrous to Beach business.

Members of the ministry, also proved reticent, and no comment could be secured from any of those contacted.

Hotel managers and owners, however, were almost unanimous in responding, and with but one exception, were unanimous in urging that the Beach be left as it is, and that the dog track be allowed to run.

Their statements to the Virginia Beach News follow:

Sidney Banks, managing director of the Cavalier Hotel, said all my recent experience, I have never seen a place where gambling is so rampant as here. (Continued on Page Five)

AS OTHERS SEE OUR BASEBALL SITUATION

By Bill McCormick
(Washington Post Sports Department)

This is an editorial advocating a law against "enterprising young newspapermen."

Being generally classified in that category by those who don't know his tremendous capacity for writing on the job, the writer should be one of the first to oppose such legislation. And so we were until we encountered the Virginia Beach's young and enterprising Mr. Benjamin Warrman. Therein lies the story of a sudden switch in political allegiance.

It seems that no sooner had the writer arrived in the Tidewater Area on a vacation (ha, ha!) than Mr. Warrman popped into the office to spill out his plans for a couple of weeks of hilarious mixing of blondes, booze and bunnies.

"Listen," insisted Mr. Warrman, who had arisen at the unprecedented hour of 7 a. m. to meet us on the boat from Washington at 8. "Listen, you're down here for a vacation, but let's make it a businessman's holiday. Suppose you look over our local sports situation and tell us what you think of it."

Mr. Warrman's remarks were accompanied by Mr. Warrman's most engaging smile (labeled A-1, inducer of sportswriters-on-a-vacation smile). Under the circumstances, what could I do? I did—and that explains why I am sitting here pounding the mill just exactly as though I were laboring for my regular employer instead of trying to become accustomed to inhaling large gulps of pure ocean on Mr. Warrman's ocean.

Getting down to business—and very serious business so we can meet out to that beach—let it be known instantly that our disapproval today will be on the subject of local baseball teams.

It seems, from what I can gather from the Virginia Beach News sources and my own "Ear-to-the-ground operative No. 642" that sometimes young guys down here are not inclined to rally too loyally to the financial support of the local, or sandlot, teams. For which I say "Fie" or "Shame on you."

Dear, kind readers, whenever you go out to watch those boys on the Lynnhaven team or the Charity team do nine innings or more, please remember that it is only through your support that they will be able to continue.

"Why should they continue?" you may well ask.

Because, they're more liable than not to put your locality on the big-league map; it's logical, isn't it?

Remember that Lefty Grove was a product of a county team on the Eastern Shore of Maryland—a section that might never have become known in national sports had not the great pitcher started his career there.

Remember too that the Ferrell Brothers—Weekey and Rickey—first started to scoop across the baseball horizon in a sandlot team in North Carolina.

Think also of the other baseball teams who started in just such places as the Lynnhaven and Charity Teams. Think of the free advertising they have given the localities in which they first started their diamond careers—and think of the opportunities they have given leading citizens from those localities to swell and expand their chests at the mention of their diamond prowess.

These things alone should make local teams worthy of their hire, but consider also that those guys see a real, honest-to-goodness baseball game every time those boys take to the greenward. The writer has had annual passes good in all parks in all associations for more years than he cares to recall.

In all those years, the passes have been used only when needed to obtain admission to a park where the boss thought there was a good story.

That's how much I think of big league baseball. But, if ever there was a more confirmed addict of sandlot or semipro baseball, he hasn't been discovered. The sandlot boys play with a certain reckless abandon—a certain something or other that makes their efforts much more entertaining from my viewpoint than the outlay of a Babe Ruth or Al Simmons at the bat in a big money contest. I'll pay to see a sandlot or semipro game before I'll go in to see a big league game on a duet.

And to you baseball players, you fellows who may some day develop into such good players that you'll be performing in the big time where I won't ever see you again, let me say just a few words. Keep it.

Your idea of success is to get into the National or American Leagues. My idea of success is to play or watch sandlot baseball. You stick to your job—and I'll stick to mine. In time, if you pass up the swimming, the golf, the tennis and other counter-attractions that tend to lure you away from your baseball careers, you'll get in the big league—and then you'll be satisfied.

In the meantime, I'll stick to my job—rather, pleasure—which is watching sandlot games and trying to spot prospective greats—and I'll be satisfied.

Who could ask for more?

AN INDICTMENT

Of False Economy Affecting Safety On The Highways

This article used editorially by the writer in the Virginia Beach News by G. Leslie Hall, President of the Tidewater Automobile Association.

"The Virginia Highway Department, under the most excellent supervision of Commissioner Henry G. Shibley, has constructed a system of roads which is a credit to the State of Virginia and constitutes an investment of approximately One Hundred and Fifty Millions of Dollars—more possible by the Tax and License of the Motorist Public.

"The appalling loss of life and property occasioned by automobile accidents is directly traceable, according to the Safety Conference convened by Governor Peery, May 15th-16th, to several outstanding causes, viz., speed, carelessness, drunken drivers and physical imperfections.

"To the Motor Vehicle Department has been entrusted the duty of maintaining these thousands of miles of traffic lanes, and enforcing as far as may be possible, the many excellent laws and restrictions for the protection of law-abiding motorists and pedestrians.

"It is respectfully submitted that the appropriations to the Motor Vehicle Department are inadequate for the functions to be performed, and in thus unwisely subscribing to a program of false economy, the State of Virginia must assume a liberal share of the responsibility for the deplorable condition which pertains.

"As important in the scheme of progressive development of the State as the Highway Department is conceded to be, of equal importance—if not even greater—is the proper functioning of the protecting and regulatory duties and activities of the State Motor Vehicle Department.

"With a force of one hundred patrolmen, the road mileage is too great to be effectively policed. Physical limitations must be recognized. The remuneration of those men is inadequate, especially to those with families, to support them in a degree of reasonableness. Especially is this so in the face of the rising costs of necessities—food—stuffs alone have risen at least 34 per cent.

"The natural result is that the Motor Vehicle Department is more or less of a temporary training school, furnishing trained men for the various municipalities, in need of such services.

"It is most essential that in order to ensure permanency of a trained force to patrol the Highway, adequate remuneration for the type of position—which carries a large element of personal danger at all times—must be established.

"It is contended—and the reasonableness of the contention should be easy of establishment—that an added force of at least two hundred patrolmen should augment the present personnel of the Motor Vehicle Department, on a wage scale of not less than One Hundred Dollars per month—certainly a higher rate would be more in reason.

"With such a corps of trained men patrolling our Highway, speed, drunken driving and a large element of carelessness can be checked and regulated. To even a law-observing motorist, the sight of a 'white car' automatically releases the pressure of the accelerator, while at the same time giving him a feeling of security and protection.

"Cost naturally enters into the consideration of the foregoing. Two hundred additional patrolmen would entail an annual outlay in salaries of approximately a Quarter Million Dollars; an increase in pay for the one hundred already employed, will add another Twelve Thousand Dollars; equipment, etc., will probably run the item up to Three or Four Hundred Thousand Dollars.

"What of it? The Motorists of Virginia, and their guests, are contributing under Eighteen Millions of Dollars annually for highway construction and maintenance, and the proper regulation and supervision of their investment. In addition to serving our local motoring public, it is conservative estimate that between Fifty and Seventy Millions of Dollars are left annually in the State by tourists who use those same roads.

"And this does not contemplate a diversion of funds from the purposes for which levied, viz., the Highway system. Nor is it suggested that such an augmented force be employed for other than Highway policing, except in cases of riots and similar emergencies. Division of Vehicle Department activities is a diversion of Highway funds not contemplated under the Law, and should not be tolerated.

"Haven't the tax-paying motorists a right to suggest, and even demand that adequate funds which they supply be used in such an important function as the Motor Vehicle Department performs? If those entrusted with the distribution of these funds have innocently, or deliberately failed to make proper provision for the policing department, then is it in order that the failure be corrected, and at once.

"Again, what of it? It is estimated on reliable authority that due to the existing conditions, the one hundred thousand motorists in the State who carry insurance, are paying Ten Dollars per unit more than they would under normal conditions; One Million Dollars in excess insurance premiums, largely caused by inadequate road police forces! If it costs a half Million Dollars annually to have such an adequate force, and conditions are bettered to the extent of reducing insurance costs, the motorists of the State will be benefited a full Half Million Dollars over and above the operating costs.

"If Virginia to build an elaborate system of Highway at the expense of the motoring public and then turn loose a bunch of speed artists and potential criminals without proper supervision to jeopardize the lives and property of law-abiding drivers, defeating the purpose for which the Highways were constructed? And shall the Motorists of Virginia calmly submit to such a condition, tying the hands of our most excellent Motor Vehicle Department, and thereby making the State a laughing stock to the deplorable orgy of death and destruction?

"Is it conceivable that the tourists of the Nation, who are visiting our historical and other shrines in ever increasing numbers, with annual expenditures in the State of an estimated value of Seventy-five Millions of Dollars, will continue jeopardizing their lives and property unless drastic steps are taken to remedy the situation?

"If such spineless apathy continues to exist, then indeed are the Motorists of Virginia unworthy to be called the offspring of the Mother of Presidents!"

MATCH SALE

Periodically, the Virginia Beach News resorts to its editorial column to appeal to its subscribers to aid this charity or that one in a campaign.

The Virginia Beach News is a great believer in charity, and does not hesitate to lend a hand to any worthy charity when possible.

This week, the News calls your attention to the annual match sale of the Princess Anne Tuberculosis Association, which is to be held at Virginia Beach on Saturday.

These matches put up in an attractive folder, bearing the seal of the TB Association will be sold on the streets by attractive young ladies. Already similar folders are on sale at Drug stores at the Beach.

The entire proceeds derived from the sale, will be used by the Association, for the prevention and cure of Tuberculosis in the County.

The Association—has already done much good work to prevent the spread of the disease, and with additional funds will be able to do much more. Every thing accomplished by the Association removes the fear of Tuberculosis infection in your own family, just a bit further away.

Matches are useful articles. Buy some on Saturday, and help the TB Association, while helping yourself.

Book Sampler

"Fathoms of Glory" has been called probably the most distinguished novel of the summer. It is a war story. The setting is the Western front; the characters are French and their officers. Their general has before him a chance to win the Legion of Honor by taking a German position. On paper, at the estimated cost of thirty-five per cent of his men, the position may be taken. Only the human element, long worn down by daily horrors, has been left out of consideration. The attack fails. Scoundrels are found; their paths of glory lead to waiting graves. That such occurrences have happened is attested to by the author, Humphrey Cobb, in a note.

"Salute to Aphrodite" is the story of Martin Delaney, an Irishman who lived in the days of the "Fenian" trouble. Delaney is a man without fear, without morality of any sort, a complete beast. He gets himself a wife by the expedient of killing her father. And yet is his conscience so clear that one is compelled to unwilling admiration. The historic period is incidental, but the people are made clear—Delaney's finer-grained wife, Delaney's mother, a complete rapscallion, the free thinking priest, and lesser lights. Rearden Conner's increased vitality of characterization is to be admired. But the fine appeal of "Shake Hands with the Devil" has been lost in this book; it can only be enjoyed by those of strong stomach.

"The American Tallyrand" is a biography of none other than Martin Van Buren, who rose from pol-boy to President, and became the father of American practical, which some call dirty, politics. Holmes Alexander presents a graphic picture of Van Buren's administration. Jefferson, Madison, Hamilton, Burr, Monroe, and hosts of others march through the pages, giving added meaning to a little-noted section in Presidential history.

As Others See It

VIRGINIA DOING FINE WORK

(The Garden Times)

Virginia has a state chamber of commerce that is doing a wonderfully effective job in bringing to the attention of the world the advantages possessed by "The Old Dominion."

The organization, among other activities, publishes a quarterly magazine that is a gem. Printed upon fine paper and beautifully illustrated, this publication gives a most graphic conception of the indescribable charm of Virginia and no one can look upon it without experiencing a desire to visit the state.

The Spring number features recreational points in Virginia and the task is performed with fine appreciation of scenic values. Historical values also are emphasized and the work as a whole is outstanding as an example of skillful exploitation.

The Virginia organization works for the whole state and it is unfortunate that this state, as well as others in the South, have not adopted an equally effective means of letting the world know of its riches.

Not only should every Southern state organize its works of development upon a statewide basis, but the states themselves should act cooperatively in presenting the South's advantages to the world. It is a field that offers enormous potentialities for good and is one that has been too long neglected.

By unity of effort, the Southern states could raise their receipts from tourists hundreds of millions of dollars, and the thing should be done. It is cash business, and may be had by intelligent action, such as is being displayed in Virginia.

MORRISSETT ON OLD-AGE PENSIONS

(Bristol Herald-Courier)

C. H. Morrissett, State Tax Commissioner of Virginia, told the State Retail Merchants Association in annual convention at Ocean View that terrific cost to Virginia may result from the application to the State of the old-age pension law passed by Congress. Declaring that "we must make haste slowly in considering this old-age pension law," Mr. Morrissett said the tendency would be to expand the provisions of the law to make its application constantly wider. He pointed out that there are approximately 118,000 persons in Virginia over the age of sixty-five and eligible, so far as the age limit is concerned, to the Federal-State pension.

"If all those eligible by virtue of their age should qualify for the pension," Mr. Morrissett continued, "it would cost the State of Virginia $21,000,000 a year on the basis of the $15 a month payment by the State and an equal amount by the Federal Government." He did not believe that all of those eligible by reason of age would apply for the pension but suspected the majority of them would. And he suggested that the imposition of a sales tax would be one of the most likely means by which this "huge expenditure" would be met. The only way the State could meet the issue, he added is to add to the taxes of the people of the State.

Mr. Morrissett declared he was not speaking against the old-age pension plan. He will not be accused of having spoken for it. Certainly he said nothing to encourage support of the plan and it is to be feared that he voiced the sentiments of official Virginia. In the first place, he estimated the number of people in Virginia over the age of sixty-five at 118,000, which estimate may be correct; then he calculated that for the State to pay each of these persons $15 a month would cost $21,000,000 a year, which may also be correct; and then he intimated that if Virginia adopted the pension plan it would meet this "huge expenditure" by imposing a sales tax, to which he knew the retail merchants would be addressing were strongly opposed.

The people of Virginia should bear in mind that it is not proposed to pay a pension to all persons over sixty-five, but only to those who can not support themselves or have no relatives who can take care of them. Surely Virginia should wish to do something to help these helpless old people. Estimates that have been made in informed quarters place the number of such unfortunate at a few thousand and the cost to the State at some $3,000,000 a year. That is about the amount of profit Virginia is making out of its liquor business.

On The Beach

By BEN WAHRMAN

We were looking at a newspaper in the barbershop the other day, and the first thing we noticed was that this guy Winchell, get other big shots to write his column for him when he wants to rest.

"What the hell," says we, "what's this guy Winchell got that we haven't got?" And so we look around and there's Dick O'Brien, Dick O'Brien, in case you didn't know it, you ignorant, is a red-headed sports writer for the Washington Herald, who knows more about the fight game than Stumpy Jacob's cauliflower ears.

"Dick," we says, "Since you're vacationing at our Virginia Beach, write us a column will you?" "Hell no," says Dick.

And here it is.

Huey Long is no kingfish, there are no ducks to be bought and I'm no editorial writer.

And why the ambitious editor of the Virginia Beach News, Mr. Ben Wahrman singled you truly out to blab all over the editorial page of this paper this week is something I haven't quite figured out.

So Ladies and gentlemen, I will begin this epic by declaring that everything looks like its going to be alright again.

The Democrats are in, the Republicans are trying to get in and the whole darn gang of 'em are trying to keep the old Louisiana Kingfish out.

If Huey were here at Virginia Beach right now, I'll bet a half dozen Cavalier Hotels that you would go to the dogs.

I went to the dogs myself last Monday night. The promoters took me for a cool five potatoes, a quart of booze in other words five American dollars. That's a lot of money in any dog's life, but I liked it.

I dare say that when the boys in the Capital City get wind of this dog racing business at Virginia Beach, the butcher, the baker and the other Virginia Beach Burgomasters are in for a little boost in salary.

Up in Washington the boys go, in their off moments, a sport called betting on the gee-gees. These gee-gees run, sometimes at Bowie, sometimes at Laurel and sometimes at Havre De Grace.

And whenever the barrier is raised you will find a lot of money around sunk on this and that one. Then during the Summer they don't run the horses up there because it's too hot and it always irritates the customers to drop their bobs when it's hot.

But the boys are always casting around for a place to and on something to lay a wager or two. So if they knew what was going on down here, the weather tomorrow will be fairer and much clearer.

I was very much surprised to learn, however on my return to the Beach this year, that the business of scrambling ears, sometimes known as the boxing business is now extinct at Virginia Beach.

I was talking to a member of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday and he explained that the Chamber was attempting to eliminate all foul odors around the Beach proper, so I suppose that's one reason why you don't have the boxing business any more.

But while we are on the subject of boxing, I must tell you about Max Baer and how he got married off to that Mary Ellen Sullivan girl two weeks ago in Washington.

Mad Maxie sure is a persistent old cuss. He just stuck around until that girl said yes and then when I tell you that she wasn't sure she was going to marry the former heavyweight champion of the world until the very minute she walked into the parson's office, I am telling you no lie.

I was asked by my city editor of the Washington Herald to drop Max a visit at the Sheraton Hotel the night before the thing came off and here's what he said: "Yeah I'm going to get married. Go ahead, tell 'em that. But I'm not certain the girl in question will have me. We met tonight at a secret rendezvous and she told me she would give me an answer tomorrow morning."

So bright and early Maxie went to get the license the next morning and the girl went to work at the Willard Hotel, where she was the hostess in the coffee shop. She got to thinking it over and finally when Maxie put the old question and the old press, so to speak on her, she barked back:

"O. K. Let's go. I'll go home and get my things and we'll be off to the races."

So the big bad Baer took his little mama Baer away and nary a soul ever, ever saw them again. Well practically never.

And until this time next year, I wish you all two chickens in every pot, a ham sandwich on Thursday night and a hangover Sunday morning.

Ever Thine,

DICK O'BRIEN

Church Notes

Special services were held last Sunday morning and evening at the Virginia Beach Methodist Church. At the morning service Dr. J. T. Hosman, of Norfolk, delivered a moving sermon on the church as the household of God. Richard Carroll and Robert Pretlow, also of Norfolk, were pleasing soloists. The Protestant ministers of the Beach took part in the evening service and many members of their congregations were present. The auditorium was filled to its capacity, some of the congregation having to take seats in the Sunday School wing. V. M. McGowan, pianist with Pete Underwood's Orchestra, played for the congregational singing, accompanied a well sung solo by Rev. L. W. Meschika and a beautiful number sung by a quartet composed of Mrs. Walter Sims, Mrs. Richard Carroll, Richard Carroll and Robert Pretlow, all of Norfolk, and gave an inspiring interpretation of the Largo from Dvorak's "New World Symphony."

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell the decay coming out of our mouth and call it breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything. What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bile can't digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless a pint of it is flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and all of our food decays in our 25 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.
When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whipped team, don't use a mouthwash or take a hammer. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it. It may be a colored (scurvy) pill, which makes teeth, gripes and sends the victims to the sunny South. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—Dr. J. C. Carter, C. L. C.

Dr. W. Archer Wright, Presiding Elder of the Norfolk District, made a stirring plea for Christ-like individuality in the address of the evening.

The new altar and chancel arrangement, as well as the attractive color scheme of the renovated auditorium, elicited many comments of approval.

Rev. B. B. Bland will preach at both services next Sunday, July 14. The sacrament of The Lord's Supper will be administered at the morning service.

Rev. W. G. Workman will preach at the Oceana Methodist Church next Sunday Morning; his subject will be "Crash or Cross?"

The Vacation Church School now in progress at the Oceana Methodist Church is meeting with gratifying response. The attendance this week has averaged over thirty pupils a day. The Primary Department, under the direction of Misses Elizabeth Scott and Hazel Briggs is studying children of other nations in a course entitled "Children of One Father." Miss Margaret Lawson is leading the Junior group in the study of "The Land Where Jesus Lived," and Mr. Workman's class of Intermediates is working on the history of the church and its place in the affairs of the day. The school will run through next week. The Intermediates and the Junior Boys are constructing a volleyball court on the church grounds.

A card and garden party for the benefit of the Galilee Episcopal Church is to be held at Seldon Hall, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. S. Grandy from 2:30 to 5:30 p. m. on Wednesday, July 24.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper is to be delivered by the Rev. Joseph B. Clower, Jr., of the Virginia Beach Presbyterian Church, in place of the regular sermon at 11 a. m.

The Rev. Joseph B. Clower, Jr., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church has returned to Virginia Beach after a two weeks absence. His first week was spent at Massanutten Springs, where he attended the Young People's Conference. During his second week's absence, he was at York, S. C., where he served as best man at the wedding of the Rev. C. Orlan Davis, of Norfolk.

Summer Meals

The same old essentials go unchallenged. Oh, a little less meat perhaps, and for the overweight child a little less bread and butter, bacon, and potato. All children can do very well without candies, pastries, and, especially, soda pop or so-called "tonic." By the way don't let that name "tonic" mislead you. It's far from being anything of the sort. Instead, try a drink of pure cold water or cool milk. There's real refreshment.

Pass up your old beliefs about summer diets. Most of them were only superstitions without a grain of scientific backing. The needs of the body don't change so very much with the seasons. Heat isn't necessary as it is in the winter, therefore the suggestions to reduce sugars and starches. But the energy and health requirements don't change.

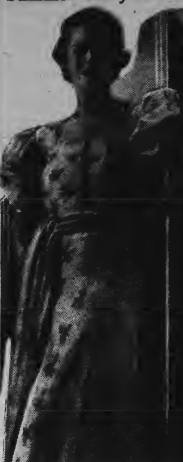

The same quart of milk is needed, although good ice cream may account for a part. Green vegetables, fresh fruit, tomatoes, a little meat or fish, some egg, some bread and butter, and there you are, winter or summer.

"Air Conditioned" Whiskey Warehouse Now Being Built

Among interesting reports of recent out-of-town building activity is one from Louisville, Kentucky and concerns the well-known Brown-Forman Distillery Company, an independently owned and operated institution located in that city. Plans have been approved and ground broken there for a 15-story warehouse said to be the first of its kind ever constructed in America. This warehouse will be famous in the aging of such famous straight Kentucky whiskeys as Old Forester, Bottoms Up, and others manufactured by the Brown-Forman Company.

Brown-Forman is claimed to be one of the first distillers to recognize the importance of temperature control in the proper "aging" of whisky and the new warehouse is so constructed and equipped that positive temperature and humidity control is possible throughout the entire structure at all times.

Another feature of especial interest in the new construction is that it is to be absolutely fire-proof and so scientifically engineered that it probably will carry the lowest fire insurance rate of any whisky warehouse of its size—50,000 barrels—in the country.

LOW COST MAINTENANCE AND HIGH RESALE VALUE

WHAT other car offers you so sound an investment as the new Ford V-8? Its first cost is as low as it is possible to make it and give you a high quality, modern automobile with the comfort, roominess and safety features—the performance, dependability and economy of the Ford V-8.

Upkeep on the Ford V-8 is slight. First, because it is built to last a long time. Second, because Genuine Ford Parts and Service are priced so much lower. Third, because the Ford policy of exchanging factory reconditioned units—even to the Ford V-8 engine—further reduces maintenance while keeping the car at peak performance.

The soundness of your investment in the Ford V-8 is again proved by its high resale value. The public itself has set a high resale price on Ford cars—the market for used Fords is always good.

Drive the new Ford V-8 and remember, as you thrill to V-8 performance, that this is the most economical car to operate Ford has ever built.

Theater Previews

AT THE BAYNE

Paul Muni plays the part of a coal-miner in his latest picture, "Black Fury," which takes place in the mining regions of Western Pennsylvania. Karen Morley plays his sweetheart. This picture will be shown today and tomorrow, July 12 and 13.

As the great lover and gauchero of the Argentine plains, Warner Baxter co-stars with Ketti Gallian in Fox Film's new thrilling romance, "Under the Pampas Moon," which tells the story of a carefree, hard-riding, handsome gaucho who mixes romance with thrilling adventure. This picture is scheduled for Sunday and Monday, July 14 and 15.

The feature for Tuesday, July 16, at the Bayne theatre will be "The Cowboy Millionaire," starring George O'Brien. He is presented as a rough-and-tumble cowboy who had to contend with a clever crook in the world's largest city, in which he is ably assisted by Evelyn Bostock and Edgar Kennedy.

"The Informer," RKO-Radio's dynamic screen drama of a renegade's ordeal, will be shown Wednesday and Thursday, July 17 and 18. Victor McLaglen gives his most powerful dramatic characterization in the most astounding drama the screen has ever known!

AT THE ROLAND

Today and tomorrow, July 12 and 13, this theatre presents Irene Dunne in "The Age of Innocence." The setting is that of the staid and socially prominent sector of New York City of the sometimes "gay nineties." John Boles is cast as a lawyer who falls completely in love with Miss Dunne.

Aline MacMahon and Guy Kibbee are co-starred in "While the Patient Slept," the murder mystery to be shown Sunday, July 14. Meet the most amazing character in all detective fiction. . . Nurse Sarah Keate, the favorite sleuth of a million mystery readers faces 1935's most desperate killer in Mignon G. Eberhart's famous story of murder in the bedroom!

The story of a college gridiron hero who fled the institution with his pockets filled with stolen jewels is told in "Gridiron Flash," the picture scheduled for Monday and Tuesday, July 15 and 16.

Baby LeRoy and W. C. Fields, the Hollywood feudists, are together again in Fields' newest starring picture, "It's a Gift," coming to the Roland Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, July 17 and 18. The film is the story of a small-town grocer with a yearning to grow oranges.

Picnic days are glamorous days—days when we seek sandy shores—good fishing spots and shaded country roads. It is quite true that there are few pleasures of the summer season that can compare to the picnic. In partaking of the picnic feast to-day, we share in that contentment known to those who have and always shall follow the open road.

There was a time, not so long ago, when picnic days were rare days; in fact, you could count them on three, maybe four fingers—the Sunday School picnic. Fourth of July family reunion, then Labor Day when a final farewell was given to the summer season. What picnics they were!

Just good community gatherings. All of three days were required for food preparation, hamper collected and numerous committees assembled for weeks in advance to arrange for chartered street cars, tables and special entertainment. Then on the picnic day, small Joe's wagon was borrowed to draw the large laundry basket down to the street car. The basket would be filled to brimming with everything from large containers of baked beans and potato salad to small tooth picks.

As each member of the family would go out the front door, there was a small parcel to be toted along.

No wonder those picnic days usually meant headache days to Mothers!

To-day, Mothers are usually the greatest advocates for picnics. They are our most informal plans for offering entertainment. With a motor at the side door and the refrigerator stocked with a week's supply, one can assemble a lunch in no time. The most important question is: will you carry it hot, cold or in combination. There are numberless suggestions but here are just a few to get your imagination wound up and give you that come-out-of-the-house urge.

Meat

Chicken, friend brown, chilled and wrapped by portions in waxed paper; cold sliced ham, corned beef, chicken, roast beef and spiced sausages when sliced nicely can be made into sandwiches at the picnic or served with a salad.

Sandwich Suggestions

Chopped egg and celery, sliced egg, minced egg, minced ham and celery, salmon and celery, tuna fish and celery, pimiento cheese, cashew spread, cream cheese and jelly, cream cheese and olive, cheese and nut, peanut butter and banana, peanut butter and bacon, ground peanuts.

Salads

May be carried on picnics very successfully if they are thoroughly chilled before packing in tight containers: Mixed Vegetable, Potato, Waldorf, Cottage Cheese and Pineapple, Fruit, Baked Bean, Slaw.

Beverages

Iced tea, lemonade, grapeade, cocoa, coffee and rootbeer grapeade.

Sweets

Cookies, tarts, apple jacks, brownies.

Rootbeer Grapeade

3 c. water
1 tsp. rootbeer extract
2 tsp. sugar
5/8 c. grape juice
1/4 c. lemon juice

Dissolve the sugar in the rootbeer extract and water. Add the fruit juices. Chill thoroughly.

2 sqs. chocolate
1 cup sugar
2 eggs beaten
1 tsp. vanilla
1/2 cup walnuts chopped

Sift flour, measure, add baking powder and sift again; melt and blend butter and chocolate. Combine sugar and eggs, add chocolate mixture beating thoroughly; flour, vanilla and nuts. Spread in a greased pan and bake 30' for 35 minutes.

Note: The table cooker or casserole which is insulated will carry a regular meal, a stew, fish chowder, pot roast or whatever hot food you wish to serve, miles away from home. Remember the insulation which will keep hot food hot will keep foods cold if the cooker is thoroughly chilled to start with and the food put in it is cold.

Hotel Owners Issue Protest

ing or gaming is conducted as cleanly and as satisfactorily as at Virginia Beach. While all of us may not entirely approve of some of the devices operated, we find that it is absolutely necessary in order to compete with other resorts. Our guests expect to find certain gambling activity here and they ask for it. We have never yet received any complaints in regard to the gambling going on."

W. H. Sterling, Jr., Princess Anne Hotel. "I cannot see why any complaint in regard to gambling should be made. The dog track is being operated on an option basis, while the slot machines here are all licensed by the State. It would be very unfortunate if the State should step in and attempt to close the Beach places. Amusements are necessary in a resort."

V. E. Hodgson, The Breakers. "I favor the retention of any gambling which may now be going on at the Beach. Without its amusement facilities, the Beach would lose its summer trade upon which it depends for its year-around existence."

Robert B. Tunstall, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, and sports director of the Cavalier Country Club. "Without amusement facilities, the Beach would be dead. Put an end to the alleged gambling now going on and you kill Virginia Beach as a resort."

Mrs. Mary S. Payne, Arlington Hotel (Headquarters State Convention, B. Y. P. U.). "As individuals, Mrs. Glover, comanager of the hotel, and myself are opposed to gambling, but we learned from the failure of prohibition that it is practically impossible to regulate the conduct of others in matters that affect only themselves.

"The majority of visitors to Virginia Beach seem to want to gamble, and if we do not let them have what they want here, they will go to some other place where they can get it, so, commercially, I believe we should not deny our guests all forms of gambling."

Miss Virginia Leggett, (Manager, Avalon Hotel). Virginia Beach should not be restricted in its games of chance. Other resorts have them and they excite the crowd and entertain them. I am in favor of the retention of the dog track and other forms of gambling."

Mrs. Corinne Mosby, (Owner of Beach Plaza Hotel). Personally I am opposed to gambling, but I have seen enough to know that you cannot stop it. Other resorts thrive and if Virginia Beach is to keep thriving we must go along with our competitors. Last night many of my guests attended the dog races and they returned thrilled and very well entertained. I think this all goes to keep visitors coming back to the Beach.

Mrs. W. H. Robbins, Bell Cottage. "If any form of gambling is to be prohibited, I think it all should be. If all gambling is prohibited, Virginia Beach might just as well close up as a Summer Resort. Personally, I do not feel qualified to try to regulate the personal conduct of others."

William H. Noel, (Manager Chalfonte Hotel). Anything that entertains and amuses guests at the Beach I am heartily in favor of. I think the dog races and other forms of gambling attract a sporty crowd and makes for a more prosperous Beach. I think the restriction of gamblers here would be nothing less than disastrous. Those that do not like to gamble have the privilege of remaining away from these places. Those that like to take a chance once in a while are at liberty to do so.

E. W. King (The King Cottage). "I am satisfied with Virginia Beach the way it is now and don't believe we should make any changes."

Mrs. Mary Latham (Owner Latham Hotel). I favor the retention of all forms of gambling that are now on the Beach. I can't see how it hurts anything here.

Mrs. J. W. Modlin (Martha Washington Hotel). "One form of gambling cannot be barred unless all of them are barred. Such action would be disastrous to the Beach. I believe the entertainment now being given visitors has proven very, very helpful to business here."

Mrs. Dolly Skinner, (Manager Newcastle Hotel). I am firmly convinced that the Beach must have even more attractions than gambling if it is to keep alive. I personally do not enthuse to gambling, but I have enough business sense to know that at Virginia Beach, the dog track and other gambling forms are good business. But give us more attractions.

Mrs. Robt. W. Dail (Ocean Terrace Cottage). "I do not think we should be put in the position of being lawbreakers, yet we must give visitors the amusements they want if the Beach is to be successful. Under the circumstances, I feel that now is the time for a little adjusting of our laws to fit the needs of the community."

Paul Devlin (Princess Pat Hotel). "Our hotel being so far removed from the scene of action, I do not believe the prohibition of gambling would affect us greatly, but I know that a number of our guests attend and enjoy the dog races and other places where gambling is permitted. If our guests enjoy it, I do not see why they should be denied the pleasure."

Miss E. H. Grav, (Manager Roanoke Cottage). As far as the dog track is concerned, I don't see how they can stop it from running and allow other gambling houses to continue in business. Personally I think the dog track helps attract visitors here and I endorse it.

Mrs. Myrtle Welborne (Spotswood Arms). "I am strongly opposed to gambling in any form. I think it should all be barred in Virginia Beach. I do not tolerate slot machines in my hotel and think it very bad that children should be subjected to so much gambling. I think the Beach can exist without any form of gambling being permitted here."

Mrs. Frank Traflet (Traflet Inn). "I haven't given much thought on the economic aspects of prohibiting gambling here, but I feel personally that our guests play games only for amusement. Never have I had a guest here who gambled excepting as a pastime and since it is our duty to provide visitors with amusement, I see no harm in permitting gambling."

Mrs. Lucy Wells Roberts, (Manager Shoreham Cottage). Let the dog track stay open and close up the people who are against it. Let everything run. I'm for everything."

"Periodically, over a period of years, complaints have been received at the Governor's office of gambling at Virginia Beach. Dr. John Garland Pollard adopted stern methods to wipe out the practice, with indifferent success. The latest revelation from the beach is that residents and visitors are afforded the opportunity to risk their money on dog racing, an innovation at the resort. Thomas C. Flynn has complained of this condition to Governor Peery, saying he had taken the matter up with local authorities but had received no encouragement. The dogs continue to race and the customers buy "options" on them.

"Gambling in any form is, of course, contrary to the laws of Virginia, although, in its more refined guests, it probably is not very repugnant to a majority of citizens. Certainly, the House of Delegates at the last session did not think so, for it passed a big providing for parliament betting. However, it is the sworn duty of the police to break up gambling if it comes under their ken. Similarly, the Governor, if the matter is brought to his attention, must take up the cudgels against it.

"We confess, however, that it is difficult for us to become excited over alleged conditions at Virginia Beach. Dog racing is enjoyed by tens of thousands of sportsmen in other sections of the country, especially at Atlantic City and the Florida resorts. No charge of immorality can be laid against it, per se. The sport, in itself, is quite as innocent as horse racing or even bird shooting.

"Attendant gambling, of course, if there be such, is another thing. The State long ago outlawed this pastime, and its verdict is still on the statute books. Scarcely any one, however, is so naive as to believe that gambling, in one form or another, does not flourish in pretty much every corner of Virginia. "It is agreed, we think, that some very righteous organizations give card parties and hold raffish matches for the benefit of their coffers."

"Virginia Beach has become progressively popular as a resort. It draws visitors not only from the State but from many sections up and down the Atlantic Coast. These people go there for bathing, recreation and amusement. The last-mentioned element is quite as important as the other two. Dog racing, no doubt, is a leader among the amusements."

So you see the News, and the Virginia Beach residents are not the only ones who feel that conditions at Virginia Beach should not be changed.

The existence of 2,000 people depends upon the retention of the present amusement system at the Beach. Let's not let personal animosity interfere with anything as large as that.

Let's be reasonable.

TO ABOLISH TO FOUR VERDICTS

(Petersburg Progress-Index)

Senator Norris has introduced a resolution proposing to amend the Constitution so as to prohibit the Supreme Court declaring an act of Congress unconstitutional by a five-to-four decision. The proposed amendment reads:

The Supreme Court shall have original and exclusive jurisdiction to render judgment declaring that any law enacted by Congress in whole or in part is invalid because it conflicts with some provision of the Constitution; but no such judgment shall be rendered unless concurred in by more than two-thirds of the members of the Court, and unless the action praying for such judgment shall have been commenced within six (6) months after the enactment of the law.

It is not likely that the resolution will be adopted by congress at the present session. It is inconceivable that it should meet with serious opposition. Decisions of the Supreme Court reached by a bare majority are never well received by the country. This is especially true when the question involved is one of the constitutionality of a congressional enactment. The fact that the recent NRA decision was unanimously reached undoubtedly caused less protest from the country.

We require that the verdict of a jury shall be unanimous. It is no more unreasonable to require that the verdict of the Supreme Court, as to the constitutionality of an act of congress shall represent sent at least the opinion of the court.

CAVALIER KENNEL CLUB PROVING HUGE SUCCESS

Although in operation less than a week, the Cavalier Kennel Club, featuring greyhound racing has already proved a huge success.

The new club, located at 23rd street between Mediterranean and Baltic, was opened Saturday night, with an attendance of approximately 5,000. The attendance was slightly less than that on Monday night, and on Tuesday night, the track was closed on account of an electric storm. On Wednesday night, however, another record crowd packed the track, thus assuring it of a successful season.

At present, under the general management of Dick Johnson, nine greyhound races, featuring some of the fastest greyhounds in the country are being run. The races start at 8:15 p. m. and the final race is usually run by 11 p. m.

The entire affair is carried off each night with all the pomp and ceremony of a Kentucky derby. The dogs are first brought into the paddock and weighed in, and then stand there for inspection, each with its own personal, uniformed attendant. After a short inspection period, the attendants, led by Patrol Captain Joe Osborne parade the dogs on the track before the spectators, and then before the judges stand, where the muzzle of each dog is carefully inspected.

The dogs are then put into the starting box, where they wait preparatory to the start of the race. The electric rabbit is then started around the track, and as it reaches the starting box, it is opened the dogs are released, and the race is under way.

The entire establishment, costing $30,000 was built in less than two weeks. At present the plant consists of a huge covered grandstand, seating 2,500, a nicely laid out track, a huge gravel covered area in front of the grandstand, also for spectators, kennels for the dogs and a paddock. Option windows, and offices are also included in the rear of the grandstand, while on the roof is a press box and announcers booth for the public address system being used. The judges stand is placed across the track directly in front of the grandstand.

Since Virginia does not have a pari-mutuel law, there is no gambling on the races, but the management has arranged a system of options, which allows the spectator a chance to make money by picking a winning dog.

Before each race, the spectator is permitted to buy an option ticket on any dog in the race. His ticket may cost him $2, which serves as a deposit on the dog he chooses. If he desires, he may add what ever is necessary to make up the purchase price of the dog, and thus become its owner, regardless of how it finishes in the race. If, however, he prefers to redeem his option, at the close of the race, he may do so. If his dog fails to finish in the first three however, his option is valueless unless the dog is purchased. If it does finish near the front, the option becomes worth more than the $2 paid for it and may be redeemed for the sum named by the owner of the dog.

The officials for the track include Mr. Johnson, general manager; Walter Vincent, assistant manager; W. J. Stoughton, presiding judge; Cliff Sanford, assistant judge; Tom Hanes, timer; Clint Blair, racing secretary; Howard Holmes, paddock judge; W. F. Johnson, breeder's secretary; Louis Pfeil, kennel master; Art Joyce, scale clerk; Eugene Le Mire, lure operator; Joe Osborne, patrol captain; Art Joyce, starter; Victor A. Gerstleff, handicapper and Sam D. Nelson, form chart.

In addition about 60 Virginia Beach and Norfolk people are employed at the track.

CHARITY WINS NUMBER FOUR

Red Jackets Trim Seaboard; Three Games On Tap This Week-End.

The Charity Red Jackets won their fourth consecutive victory last Sunday, taking the strong Seaboard Red Sox club into camp by a 10 to 1 score. This week-end, the ambitious club will attempt to add three more to the list with an entire home game schedule.

On Saturday, the Charity club entertains the New Ghent Aces, while on Sunday, they battle first with Princess Anne, and later with the St. Brides combine.

The Red Jackets have improved considerably in the last few games, and are now well on their way to regaining the supremacy they once held in Princess Anne county. Several new players have been added, and the squad is now in shape to finish the season in fine style.

Sunday's game was featured by the good all-around playing of the entire Charity outfit. Pete Waterman led the hitters with a home-run drive and three singles, while Edward Smith, newly acquired addition to the line-up hit safely three times. In addition, both boys contributed fielding features.

Murden hurled for the winners, giving up but six hits, and whiffing eleven batters.

NEW INVITATION FOR ROOSEVELT IS PLANNED BY LEGION OFFICERS

President Will Be Urged to Review Parade in Event He Decides Not To Speak.

NATIONAL COMMANDER PLANS TO BE PRESENT

Tentative Program For Four Days Released; Prominent Figures to Address Groups.

President Roosevelt will be asked to reconsider the invitation tendered him some weeks ago to speak at the annual convention of the American Legion, to be held in Virginia Beach early in September. It was learned at Convention Headquarters here yesterday.

Lawrence Lockwood, commander of Princess Anne Post 113, and Fairfield Hodges, general chairman of the convention committee, will head the local delegation on their trip to Washington.

The suggestion has been made that the President utilize his yacht for a trip into Virginia waters during the convention, arriving here at any time that will suit his convenience. Mr. Will it be necessary that he address the convention, members of the executive committee pointed out, and, to that end, he will be invited to review the parade on Saturday afternoon, should he decline the new invitation to speak.

Belgrano to Attend

Frank Belgrano, present national commander, of Indianapolis, and Henry Stevens, former national head of the American Legion, of Warsaw, North Carolina, will attend the convention if possible, it was learned. Both Legionnaires have set the date on their calendars and will be in Virginia Beach for some few of the meetings if other pressing business permits. Sgt. Earle D. Gregory, formerly of Chase City, and now located in Tuscaloosa, Alabama, Virginia's most distinguished World War hero will attend the four-day convention as the guest of the convention committee. Sgt. Gregory holds more distinguished service medals than any other Virginian who saw service in the European conflict.

Convention headquarters for the Legion will be established at the New Pinewood Hotel. Auxiliary headquarters are scheduled for the Martha Washington. Most of the meetings of the two groups will be held in these hotels, although other affairs are planned for the Cavalier, the Virginia Beach auditorium and the Tally-Ho Club.

Program Released

According to the tentative program released yesterday, the convention will be called to order Wednesday, September 4 at 9 a. m., with the registration of all convention representatives. Committees of the State Department will meet during the day, and the opening session's activities will be brought to a close with the annual Department dinner dance, which is scheduled for the Cavalier Beach Club.

Addresses by prominent members of the Legion, reports of committees and the introduction of distinguished guests will consume most of the second day. Governor Peery is expected to speak on this day. It is to be noted that the U. S. National Employment Service; the Hon. John W. Flanagan, member of Congress from the ninth Virginia district; Col. E. W. Jordan, manager of the Veterans' Administration Facility, of Roanoke; and Raymond E. Mahan, Veterans' Placement Representative for Virginia, are scheduled to speak on this day.

W. Queen Elliott, Department Adjutant, will present cups and trophies during the afternoon. (Continued on Page Eight)

Mac Frazier Boomed To Head New FACA

T. McCall Frazier, of the Virginia Alcoholic Beverage Control Board and a regular visitor to Virginia Beach, will be recommended by nationally known dry leaders to President Roosevelt as logical appointee to the chairmanship of the new Federal alcohol control organization proposed in a bill now pending in Congress.

Frazier's backers have communicated with heads of a foundation which has made a nationwide survey of the liquor problem in the United States and with Senators Glass and Byrd, who with other senators will go to the President in his behalf, if the bill is passed.

LEMPKE IS HELD ON HIT-AND-RUN INDICTMENT HERE

Edward Dodge, Resident of Beach For Thirteen Years Is Killed In Accident.

The hearing for George F. W. Lempke, 43, of Ocean View, on charges of manslaughter and hit-and-run driving growing out of the death of Edward Dodge, 72, of Virginia Beach, last Sunday night was continued last Tuesday night until tonight by Justice E. V. Gresham. Mr. Dodge was knocked down at Thirtieth Street and Atlantic Avenue about 8:30 o'clock by an automobile which witnesses assert failed to stop immediately after the accident. Mr. Dodge, suffering from a skull fracture and fracture of the right leg, was taken to a Norfolk hospital, where he died shortly after his admittance.

Herman Johnson, of Charleston, W. Va., and M. Miller, of Lynchburg, chased the speeding car. They told the police they caught the hit-and-run driver twice and asked him to return. According to their version, he promised to do so, but instead sped away without giving his name. Johnson and Miller furnished police with the license number of the alleged hit-and-run machine, and the car was located Monday morning at Lynnhaven by Officer Guy Barnes. Lempke was arrested soon afterwards, and was identified by the Commonwealth's witnesses as the man to whom they had talked.

Bond for the defendant was set by Justice Gresham at $1000, and the trial will be held in Kempsville. Attorneys Fred C. Abbott and Harry H. Kanter, of Norfolk, have been retained by Lempke. Mr. Dodge was a native of Ohio, and had made his home at Virginia Beach for the past thirteen years. Surviving, beside his wife, Mrs. Tenah Dodge, are one daughter, Mrs. Charles Shaw, of Virginia Beach; three sons, Charles Dodge, of Norfolk, and Robert and Joseph Dodge, of Virginia Beach, and six grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at the Gregory Funeral Home, in Norfolk, by the Rev. B. B. Bland. Many local persons attended, and the numerous floral offerings were beautiful. Burial was in Riverside Memorial Park. Pallbearers were H. E. Whitehurst, W. Cason, W. H. Hayman, C. Capps, W. Tarr and O. Turbyville.

New Floor Show For Crystal Club

Following the holdover engagement, by popular demand, of De Carlos and Granada, dance team from the RKO picture, "Riding Down to Rio," and the Les Sisters, Charles Gooch, manager of the Crystal Club, announces another stellar floor show for next week, beginning Sunday night. With the exception of such popular holdovers, there is a complete change of shows each Sunday. The new bill will feature the Palmer Sisters, Roberta Tetley and Bob Gibson.

Although heavy clouds shut the moon from sight of this section during most of the hour and forty-minute period of its eclipse brief interval of clarity revealed to interested spectators fleeting pictures of what happens to the moon no more than once each half century. Early evening promises of a clear night after several days of relentless downpour were dissipated at about 8:15 the hour of the lunar eclipse's beginning, and it was not until close to the midnight hour that the interesting big show of the heavens revealed itself to the watchers of Princess Anne County.

Speaking simply and forgetting the language of the scientist, an eclipse of the moon is caused by the earth passing between the sun and the moon, which in turn casts a shadow on the moon. We are able to see the moon because of the sun's rays shining on the night's visant, and, when the earth interposes itself between the two bodies, the shadow so cast on Lady Luna causes her to be lost to view. An apt illustration of what actually happens can be had by passing the hand in front of an electric light and noting the movement of the shadow cast by the hand on the wall or floor. The sun is constantly shining on the earth and the earth, therefore, is always casting a shadow some-where into space, but it is only on rare occasions that the sun, moon and earth are in correct positions so that the earth's shadow sweeps across the moon to obscure it so completely as was the case on Monday night.

Sections more favored by ideal atmospheric conditions than this saw the moon as a copper-colored ball—the result of refraction of the sun's rays, particularly the long red ones which give color to sunset and dawn, by the earth's (Continued on Page Five)

CAVALIER SHOOT SET FOR AUG. 2

Ranking Amateur and Professional Talent of State to Compete in Tourney.

Attracting a field of approximately eighty amateur and professional shooters from all sections of Virginia, the Thirty-sixth Annual Tournament of the Virginia Trapshooting Association will open its two-day meeting at the Cavalier Gun Club on Friday, August 2nd. Present acceptances indicate one of the largest tournaments in the history of the club, with the ranking talent of the Old Dominion participating in what has grown to be one of the South's most important trapshooting contests.

J. C. Guenver, expert shot of the Dupont Powder Company, will cash the shoot, which is open to residents of the State and to those clubs associated with the State Association. Valuable trophies and cash prizes will be awarded to the winners of the various events.

Listed on the program are the Virginia State five-man team race, the Virginia State doubles championship, the handicap championship, the singles championship, the all-around State championship and the two-man team race. Prizes are to be offered to non-resident shooters.

Champions of last year's events and winners of previous tournaments have expressed their intention to be present at the opening shoot. Among these, according to gun club officials, are C. B. Slick, of Winchester; Dr. L. G. Richards, of Roanoke; R. I. Bell, of Norfolk; Homer Wilson, of Richmond; and Albert Buttle, of Petersburg. Other names equally well known in this field will compete for the handsome prizes over the modern Cavalier layout, regarded by many authorities as among the finest in the country. Last year's shoot was notable for the presence of Walter Beaver, grand American champion and one of the real crack shots of the world. Shooters of ability will have been invited to attend this year's tournament.

MANY NOVELTIES TO BE INCLUDED ON NEXT WEEK'S RACING PROGRAM

Parking and Seating Conveniences Installed by Officials Of Cavalier Kennel Club.

MUTT, MONKEY NUMBERS TO FEATURE MEETINGS

Twenty-Five Kennels Participating in Nightly Events; 400 Dogs Quartered Here.

With track activities sufficiently well under way to indicate a successful initial season, officials of the Cavalier Kennel Club are bending every effort to make the remaining programs among the most outstanding offered at any one of the nation's major tracks. Many parking and seating conveniences already have been completed, and a series of novelty numbers is assured at an early date, according to R. M. Johnson, manager of the kennel club.

Erection of the imposing entrance has added materially to the beauty of the setup, while the cutting through of the eight-foot aisle through the grandstand as a convenience for spectators has won wide approval. Within the next few days the front seating and stairs will be canvassed in case of rain.

So cordial has been the public response to the two-dog monkey races, staged this week for the first time, that the management is now negotiating for an eight-dog combination. This type of novelty was used for the first time several seasons ago on the Florida tracks, eliciting wide approval and adding to the color of the nightly spectacle.

Another feature to be introduced on the Virginia Beach track is the multi-race, in which local dogs of any description or breeding pursue the elusive rabbit in place of the now familiar greyhound. Owners will be off on this home-grown talent as on the regular events, and valuable cash prizes will be awarded the owners of the winning dogs.

According to Mr. Johnson, who has had considerable experience with this type of novelty race, no more than eight dogs out of each one hundred can be taught to break from the box, with small dogs, terriers, bulls and the like turning in the best performances. Trials will be staged over the course for all dogs entered by their owners, and those which qualify will be entered in the regular race.

Another feature recently introduced is the staging of schooling races over the track between seven and eight o'clock, just prior to the calling of the first race. All dogs brought here to race must have two such schooling races to their credit prior to their entry in (Continued on Page Eight)

MISSOURI WOMAN WINS PRIZE AS BEST RURAL CORRESPONDENT

Who is the best country newspaper correspondent in the United States? The award, announced today, goes to Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Mahoney of Oas, Missouri. She is the only newspaper correspondent in a village of 27 inhabitants, and she writes her news for the Weekly Republican of Fomyshe, Missouri, which has a circulation of 875 among the farmers of the Ozark hills.

Mrs. Mahoney was selected out of 1581 rural correspondents nominated for a prize given by Wheeler McMillen, editor of The Country Home, a national farm magazine published in New York. As winner, she receives a silver trophy, $50 in cash, and a trip to New York City.

Other prizes go to Mrs. Stella Westfall, Tonawanda, Colo.; Mrs. J. W. Peterson, of the El Cajon Valley News, Calif.; William Furnage, of Troy City, Indiana; Davis Tuttle, Lenox, North Carolina; Deborah Whitaker, Mason, New Hampshire; Sara Green, Glen, Georgia; Marie Brock, Roanoke, Alabama; Mrs. Rita Hargis, Cherokee, Okla.; Mrs. Mary and Frank Foster, Moberly, Missouri; (Continued on Page Five)

Paralysis Rumors Vigorously Denied By Investigating Body

Giving the lie to persistent rumors of a possible infantile paralysis outbreak in Virginia Beach, prominent members of the local medical profession this week completed a survey which shows not one single case yet detected within the town's limits. Further, say the members of the investigating committee, the Beach has been singularly free this season of all forms of illness, with the result that Virginia Beach is one of the most healthful places in the United States.

Records carefully kept through the years lend credence to this most recent report of healthful conditions. An equable climate and isolated atmosphere, coupled with a pure water supply and strict supervision of sanitation matters, combine to produce surroundings which insure good health and ideal living for those who reside, whether permanently or as transients, in this garden spot of the Atlantic.

MATCH DAY SALE RETURNS PLEASE

Over $91 Realized By Nine Teams of Tuberculosis Association Workers.

In spite of inclement weather, proceeds from the first annual match day sale, held last Saturday by the Princess Anne Tuberculosis Association in Virginia Beach, netted the grand total of $91.13, the final checkup revealed. Bottles placed in hotels as constant reminders of the needs of this worthy charity brought in an additional $8 during the week.

So gratifying was the public response to their appeal for financial assistance that the sale will be made an annual affair. Mrs. W. F. Crockett and Miss Adella Dabney, co-chairman of the campaign, announced this week. Little doubt was expressed that an even larger sum could have been realized from the street sale had the rains of the day been delayed until the conclusion of the workers' efforts.

Team No. 6, captained by Betty Stanley, captured high honors with a return of $23.84. This team was composed of Madge Taliaferro, Edna Stanley, Connie Crockett, Jane Kornegay, Ruth DuVal and Celia Atwater. Miss Atwater, it is interesting to note in passing, along raised $13. The winning team will be entertained at a theatre party at the Bayne Theatre next Monday afternoon.

Other team captains and the totals collected were as follows: Helen Smith, $7.32; Elizabeth Callan, $22.72; Elizabeth Woodhouse, $9.26; Anne Simmons, $12.56; Dot Fisher, $5.20; Joyce Dail, $3.87; Mary Trant, $3.10, and Mrs. Lee Pender, $3.25.

Cape Henry Road Action Is Delayed

A preliminary conference on relocating a section of Route 60 between Ocean View and Virginia Beach in order to detour the Port Story area, through which the present highway runs, was held Wednesday in the offices of the State Conservation and Development Commission in Richmond. No definite conclusion was reached by the conferees.

A meeting in this area next Tuesday has been arranged to consider the selection of the most suitable route. The meeting was attended by state officials and by local residents interested in the new route.

WARRENTON MEN TO STAGE POLO AT RIFLE RANGE

Captain Kirkpatrick, Prominent Three-Goal Player to Supervise Local Activity.

Latest of the national sports to make its appearance on the Beach this season is polo, which is to be played on a field now being developed on the rifle range, at the south end of the town. Sponsored by the Warrenton Polo Club of Warrenton, Virginia, the first inter-club match will be staged on Saturday afternoon, July 27.

Captain C. P. Kirkpatrick, captain of the Warrenton polo team, was in town this week to make the necessary arrangements for the housing of the club and to supervise the laying out of the playing field. He was assisted in his survey by Bob Tunstall, manager of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Before returning to his home, where he will join his fellow players in a series of matches with the Marshall polo team, Captain Kirkpatrick spoke enthusiastically of the game's possibilities here and of the playing field itself. "The level ground covered with Bermuda grass," he said, "and the sandy soil affording good footing for the ponies should make for fast polo in this section. Virginia Beach will be the only seashore community between Naragansett and Miami that offers polo. With the finest stock farms in the world located in Virginia, within a comparatively short distance of Virginia Beach, there is no reason why polo should not thrive here."

Captain Kirkpatrick, a three-goal player of wide reputation, heads one of the fastest combinations in the country. He and his team mates have run up an impressive string of victories over various army teams in the vicinity of Washington and Baltimore, as well as decisive wins over the strong Greenbrier club of White Sulphur Springs and other local units. Playing with him on the team that will represent Virginia Beach in the coming games are Robert Phillips, Howard Fair, E. Kenneth Jenkins and R. Gould Shaw, all of whom are nationally known in this sport.

General William Mitchell, storm centre of the aviation world for some years, will referee the first polo matches to be played here on the afternoons of the 27th and 28th. Captain Kirkpatrick stated before leaving for Warrenton, Kirkpatrick is General Mitchell's former aide and a personal friend of America's foremost advocate of preparedness.

The first series of games will be played between the Warrenton Club and the War Department team from Washington, rated as one of the fastest combinations in the Capital section. Other teams of equal calibre will be brought here on successive weekends.

Those sponsoring polo on the Beach are interested in the formation of a wholly local team, and contacts now are being made with local residents who have played polo at one time or another. Purses and equipment will be (Continued on Page Five)

BONNEY FREED OF CHARGE OF DRIVING DRUNK, MAYOR MAY ACT

Candidate for Commissioner of Revenue Enters Conclusive Denial to Police Action

COMMITTEE OF COUNCIL VIEWS MATTER CLOSED

Popular Sentiment Indignant At Unwarranted Arrest, Discipline Held Necessary.

Woody Bonney, of Oceana, candidate for Commissioner of Revenue of Princess Anne County, was cleared of the charge of drunken driving, referred by motorcycle officers G. L. Barnes and A. E. Kinner, by Police Justice E. V. Gresham in the Municipal Court last Tuesday night. Dismissal of the case, which was anticipated by the many spectators who thronged the court, ends an incident which raised a storm of protest throughout the county against the officers who made the arrest.

According to the testimony of the policemen, who with Arthur Barco comprised the Commonwealth's list of witnesses, Bonney drove his automobile while under the influence of ardent spirits on the night of July 11 between Thirty-first and Thirty-sixth streets on Atlantic Avenue. His breath gave every evidence of drinking, they asserted, and he was not in complete command of his faculties.

"Framed," He Charges

Considerable interest and testimony centred about Officer Barnes' assertion that Bonney told him at the time of his arrest, "You are not doing a thing but trying to frame me." Bonney substantiated this testimony while on the stand.

A long line of witnesses, including Mayor Roy Smith, Harry Holland, the jailer and Bonney's three companions of the night, appeared for the defense. Testimony adduced under direct and cross examination supported the statement of the accused that he had had but one drink—and that a highball several hours before the time of the arrest—and that he was driving his automobile with the utmost caution. Each witness repeated the defense's claim that "Mr. Bonney was as sober that night as he is right now." Mayor Smith testified that "he could see no excuse for the arrest."

Case Dismissed

Summing up the case of his client, Willard Ashburn's sole argument centered upon the thought that he would prefer to believe the arresting officers in error rather than guilty of an attempt to frame a man of opposing political belief, the charge made during the course of the testimony by Bonney. Police Justice E. V. Gresham dismissed the case without comment, following the recommendation of dismissal made by Paul W. Ackis, Jr., Commonwealth's Attorney.

Popular sentiment applauded the action of the justice.

Council Committee Queried

In an attempt to determine what course of action, if any, would be followed by the town officials in reprimanding the offending officers, Mayor Roy Smith and the members of the Council's police committee were questioned. The committee is composed of Stanley Smith, chairman, Roy Barnes, brother of the arresting officer, and William F. Patton.

Members of the committee chose to regard the matter as closed, the two members contacted, Smith and Patton, stating they could see no cause for further investigation on the strength of the evidence submitted at trial. Mayor Smith was out of town until yesterday and, when interviewed, he made the following statement:

Mayor's Statement
"I have been out of town during the ensuing time and have not had the opportunity to be present at the trial. I am, however, in the utmost sympathy with the police officers." (Continued on Page Five)

 does not insure good government
 except it be the voice of a well-
 informed and well-intentioned
 people."

"FRAMED"—OR IN ERROR

"If Your Honor please, the facts produced from the testimony of the witnesses show either that Woody Bonney was 'framed'—as he has charged—or that the officers making the arrest were in error as to the defendant's condition. There can be no other alternative. Charitably speaking,
 we prefer to believe the latter."

So did Attorney Willard Ashburn sum up the case of his client
 last Tuesday night in Judge Cres-tian's court.

However, unfavorable the attitude of the NEWS may appear,
 we refuse to go along on such a premise. A citizen of this county since the time of his birth, Woody Bonney's conduct has been that of a gentleman, wholly devoid of public censure. Seeking public office—a course prompted by the insistence of his friends—he has maintained during the early months of his campaign an integrity of purpose and a determination to refrain from injecting the type of invective into the campaign that so frequently offends
 the average citizen. Nor, indeed, has the course of his life been changed so radically as to bring him in conflict with the law on such a charge as last week was lodged against him.

Obviously, Mr. Bonney was not drunk nor was he under the influence of liquor. His handling of his automobile, as reported by reliable witnesses, in no way ran counter to the law. There was no excuse for his arrest; there was no reason for his incarceration in the local Baiter.

Why, then, was Mr. Bonney arrested?

Officers G. L. Barnes and A. E.
 Kinnear, who made the arrest,
 could offer no substantial testimony in support of their actions.
 Barnes remembered chiefly the defendant's charge that "he was being framed"—a charge not disproved, and certainly not the type of utterance which shows possession of a state of inebriation; Kinnear, when the record was heard,
 and his arrest regarded, could only say that "many a drunk had talked up when he saw the bars"

—a statement that was as un-gracious as it was unfitting an officer of the law.

In face of the testimony and the actions of the arresting officers, the NEWS maintains that along disciplinary tactics are in order. The arrest of an innocent man and the absence of ordinary excuses—for Mr. Bonney was denied the privilege of communicating with his friends until after the steel doors had closed behind him—even without the political implications, mark the offending officers as far from perfect examples of what the citizens of this town expect from those charged with the enforcement of local laws. Mr. Kinnear's conduct may be cited as particularly reprehensible.

If we read aright the Mayor's brief statement, the case is not closed, even though his police committee of the Council may choose to regard it so. Further investigation is not needed, we believe, but we offer additional facts on this matter until Mayor Deal has determined upon his course.

course of action. For his refusal to consider the case a closed incident, the citizens of this county will tender him a hearty vote of thanks.

THE NEWS has no quarrel with those who take serious their responsibility regarding law enforcement. The NEWS, however, will continue to fight those who exercise the power vested in them
 by the community in such ways
 as are derogatory to the community. Those who follow such a course have no place on the roster of our police department.

MR. POLLARD AND THE BEACH

The Hon. John Garland Pollard,
 one-time Governor of Virginia,
 raises his voice this week in a demand for a greater centralization of power in the hands of the Old Dominion's chief executive.
 Speaking on the current subject of gambling and using the Virginia Beach situation as a springboard for his argument, the present chairman of the Veterans Appeal Board would vest in the governor power to remove from office any local official found guilty of inefficiency in the execution of his duties. Only by such measures can the State statutes be adequately enforced,
 he argues.

With roads and schools directly
 under the control of the State,
 nothing remains to the local community except its own law-enforcing agencies. In an ideal setup, where political chicanery and wholesale inefficiency did not prevail, the centralization of these agencies might well be to the advantage of all concerned, but practical experience has not brought such a verdict. To eliminate further the wishes and sentiments of the people must be concerned by taking from them
 the constitutional right to select and to try their own officials can be viewed as nothing more than a further digression from the principles of democracy upon which we are presumed to stand.

No form of government experimented with in the history of the world has yet surpassed the city-
 state of Athens, wherein the lowest citizen was given the right to express his opinions and to make known his desires. The township form of public expression makes the basis of the Massachusetts Colony, was nothing more than a reiteration of this very real democracy, and it was upon that foundation that our own government was supposed to function.

Changing conditions, it has been argued, have taken us far afield from this ideal, but not so far that this latest balloon of Mr.
 Pollard's will find a warm reception in the minds of those who still believe in the theory of home rule. Local government, with all its shortcomings and faults, is yet more responsive to the will of the people for whom it is supposed to function than could be the centralized, almost tyrannical form such as the ex-governor proposes.

In a Commonwealth as diversified as Virginia, the impracticality of such a move is readily apparent. Here at Virginia Beach, for example, is a condition not met elsewhere in the state. This is a resort community, where the success of local business enterprise depends largely upon outside patronage, upon the whims of those who come as tourists or vacationists. While this is by no means an argument for flaunting
 state laws elsewhere enforced, a certain tolerance must be expected
 if the patronage which we seek
 is to continue to be our lot.

If we read public sentiment correctly, the majority of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne county residents approve of the tolerance which has characterized the greater portion of the recent administrations' rulings relative to Beach activity. Vice and crime have not flourished here, and those who know their resorts are quick to acknowledge the complete absence of those factors of lawlessness so frequently associated with summer playgrounds.

So, to Mr. Pollard's overzealous proposal, we have but this
 to say: Let Virginia Beach alone.
 The people of this community and their duly elected officers have not been and are not now in revolt
 —open or otherwise—against any action of the State Code. They are building here a resort community of which all but the most fanatic may be proud, a community which each year adds to its prestige on a nationwide scale
 as a vacationland where pleasure predominates, and where the whole family may enjoy itself,
 without fear of moral rain; if they are liberal in their views, it is the liberality of tolerance, and they shall be the first to prosecute
 those who, under the guise of cooperation, flaunt the standards which here prevail.

True, Virginia Beach is no camp meeting ground, but it is far from the Sodom and Gomorrah which its enemies have characterized it in their repeated attacks.

PARI-MUTUEL BETTING

The American people are a gambling people by instinct and growing more so all the time.
 They will participate in every known game of chance regardless of the odds. Gambling has been outlawed in so far as possible in almost every State in the Union, with the result that many new methods have been developed, methods that can be carried on under cover and for small amounts such as the "number racket." These restrictions have had the same effect as the prohibition of alcohol. Tell one that he shall not, and he will make a particular effort to do so. In addition, the undercover methods adopted have made the gambling more accessible to the youth of the nation. Also millions of dollars are going out of this country annually on sweepstakes and lotteries.

It seems high time that the people of this State should recognize these facts and advocate legalized gambling, strict control and revenue producing by taxation. Apparently the liquor control act is working satisfactorily
 and producing large revenues.
 Horse racing and dog racing are good, clean sports enjoyed by all,
 but unfortunately are not successful financially without some element of gambling. Pari-mutuel gambling is the fairest of all methods. It will satisfy the desire of a large portion of people. It can be controlled and can be made to produce large revenues to the State. It will break up a large portion of the undercover and the petty gambling, just as the sale of legal liquor has broken up a large portion of bootlegging.

Why not insist that the next legislature pass an act recognizing pari-mutuel gambling, under a local option if you like?

PLANNING

We hear a great deal these days
 about plans. Will Rogers says
 "Everybody has a plan," and he says he has a plan, too. His plan is to have "fewer plans," especially to have "fewer planned economies."
 The Federal Government is full of plans. It has a plan for everything of which an army of highly paid Federal officials can concoct;
 these plans are to regulate everything and every body. No man or woman is to escape, no business is to have the privilege of managing its affairs as the exigencies of the occasion may suggest. All business is to be managed by decrees promulgated by some bureaucrat in Washington, with some individual whose only success in life has been in securing the job
 he holds with the Government.

Voltaire once wrote that he "had no patience with those who wished to rule the world from their attic homes, yet were unable to regulate their own families."

In the final analysis all of these plans may be boiled down to just one idea—A socialized centralization of government at Washington, and this in the name of the Democratic party. Since the foundation of the Democratic party
 until now, it has always stood for the opposite belief; States Rights and a Federal Union of States under a written constitution with limited powers. The regularly constituted agents of the Democratic party met in convention at Chicago in 1932 and there rewrote a declaration of these principles, which are binding upon all loyal Democrats until their next convention is held in 1936.
 Upon this declaration of principles it nominated a leader to carry out its platform. If no other pledges had been made to the American people, the nominee upon accepting the leadership bound himself to carry out that platform, but he did more to tell that—he flew to Chicago to tell the convention and the American people that he stood 100% square
 upon that platform.

Through the campaign following, the leaders of the party, including the nominee for president, reiterated these pledges, and upon the faith of the American voters
 that the party would keep faith
 with them as it always had done,
 we gave them power to make good their promises. We will not discuss at this time the broken faith.
 Everyone has his or her idea upon this subject. We will call attention, however, to this statement
 recently published which in substance was that the President administered Congress not to consider the question of its constitutionality, but to pass the Guffey Coal Bill, and this in the face of a solemn obligation by all clothed with the duties of office, to support and uphold the constitution of the United States.

The so called "New Dealers"
 have inaugurated a vast number of policies and plans alien to our institutions and heretofore American thought. They have challenged those who demur to offer something better, that our old institutions have miserably failed
 and we have no remedy—no plans.
 In the first place we deny that our Government under the constitution has failed. Secondly, we have plans—the best of plans—simple plans that have made our country and our government a towering success, our people the most prosperous on earth. Those plans are to obey our basic law,
 live up to the traditions of the past, and the people will take care of themselves and the government as well.

 (Poetry World)

It soon shall be forgotten when I'm gone
 That I once lived and played my little part
 Upon the stage of life—that in my heart
 I knew the stir of romance that is born
 Over the boom of youth some early morn.
 But life has taught me that the taste is tart
 Of ripened fruit that spoils before the cart
 Can carry it to market. So forlorn

In hope of hope that never seems to break
 With youth or age—yet goes on to the end
 Hoping and groping for some future scope.
 For life is like the slithering of a snake
 That eats its tail—a circle that must bend
 Back on itself—yet, even so, we hope.

PEACE OVER OLD BREASTWORKS

(On Shenandoah Mountain)
 Sound was keeping a quiet tryst
 With leafy children of the hills;
 Its gentle whisper softly kissed Needles of pine and trickling rills.
 And yet a stir of something tall
 Was climbing toward a sunlit crest,
 Where silence like a golden rail Covered old breastworks facing west.

Greenish of light stood astir
 Colors ridged yielded to the sun,
 While Peace with banners streaming wide,
 Flung her message: the heights
 are won!

DEBRIS (Chicago Tribune)

Where is the love of yesterday—
 The love that made me see
 A blooming rose in every bush,
 A nest in each green tree?
 A wind that comes, a love that goes,
 Leave ruins in their wake;
 A heap of stones where homes
 have been,
 A heart about to break.

MANY TIMES SINCE THEN (From Epitaph)

Summering at that same lake and mountain then
 Were wild birds, nameless and without number.
 Summer and that day's light were about done.
 And we lay beside the lake. Do you remember?

And you were saying how some Frenchman drove Right at the heart of all the infernal bore
 With a ripping epigram to the effect that love Always meant more to the one than to the other.

And I thought the observation
 much less than acute.
 And had half forgotten it already; but at that moment
 One of the wild birds rose, darkling note
 Against the sky that still was faintly illumined.

And where there was only a snow-
 bank or a windowshade.
 Many times since then, I have thought that I saw the grey-ing

Late sky of that evening moment,
 and the wide
 Black lake below, and the little black form flying.

BONNEY STATES HIS CASE

Editor, Virginia Beach Weekly:
 Because I have every respect for your fearless non-partisan attitude, and because I further believe your champion fairplay and square shooting, I am going to ask that you extend me the courtesy of your valuable space and make this letter public.

You may already be acquainted with the fact that I was tried in Justice Gresham's court last Tuesday night on a trumped up charge of drunkenness, preferred
 by two Virginia Beach policemen,
 and that the preponderance of testimony verifying my sobriety at the time of arrest was so overwhelming that the case was dismissed immediately following the testimony.

So much for the cold facts constituting the legal aspects of the issue.

The point I want to bring out set forth in this letter is that my arrest was absolutely unjustifiable, (as exemplified by the testimony of Mayor Roy Smith,
 Mr. Simmons the town jailor and Mr. Harry Holland who emphatically testified that my condition was that of cold sobriety) and I cannot reconcile the extreme unfairness on the grounds of error
 of judgment on the part of the arresting officers. It is not interesting to suppose that two men in the capacity of officers of the peace could be so utterly mistaken and unable to differentiate between a drunken man and a sober
 one, when it is virtually their business to decide these things accurately, or to have at least some semblance of fact or suspicion at the time of their action. Understand me, I am not making a flat accusation, but the fact that I am a candidate for office, and election time is seriously near, it seems to me, (and scores of others who attended the trial) that the coincidence had a sinister background, and is the product of tawdry political machination.

If, in all charity, I publicly exonerate these arresting officers, and accept the situation as merely unfortunate for me, there is little consolation to be found in light of the damage this condemning publicity has given to my campaign, unless I am afforded the opportunity to bring before the good people of Princess Anne County
 the actual facts, as substantiated
 by responsible, reputable citizens of the County, and in that connection I appeal to you for the necessary medium of supplying this refutation.

I think the good folk of this County will agree with me that to sit supinely by and be sacrificed
 on the altar of political intrigue or official stupidity (it is one of the other) would reflect weakness
 on my part, and I reserve the right to refute the allegation.

I have kept my campaign clean,
 and will continue to do so, and I deplore the necessity of cheap-ing it to this extent, but I cannot allow the stigma that was placed upon me, (and undeniably refuted in court) to go unchallenged in the minds of people in this County
 who were not in court.

Thank you for your kindness.
 R. W. BONNEY

Editor Virginia Beach News:

Last Summer I became enamored
 with your great Virginia Beach
 I rented a nice house on the water, and with my family prepared to "play around" and listen to "what the wild waves were saying." After a delightful residence of two weeks the "light and water" went out off and I believe a mind-reader could not in-agine why we were thus afflicted
 —My neighbor informed me of the "deposits" — required, and that should be made (over the jail) at your Treasurer's Office.
 A very courteous gentleman there gave me all information, and I readily complied with it.

Why not have Cards printed,
 that the owners of houses could give tenants "light and water"
 when the house is going to be with the "darkness and third"
 that follow ignorance of the rules
 —if "deposits" are not made.

Virginia Beach is the place to make everybody happy—Why not educate the "Tenant" that he may not "flee away" with the light and water bills unpaid?
 March seems to be the correct time to secure a Cottage for the Season and count on several of us to be on hand in time.

At The Water's Edge

By DON SEIWELL

The introduction of dog racing
 and polo to the Beach this season
 adds to the entertainment program of the local resort community two features which must,
 in the long run, react favorably
 upon all business enterprises located here. With the funds over the first year subiding and the majority of residents and visitors hopeful that the State will not interfere with the kennel club's plans, interest is focused on the novelty events which have been announced and upon the selecting of those dogs most certain to romp home on the heels of the rabbit.

As the track has brought to the Beach a representative crowd of racing devotees, so will a lively brand of polo coax to the confines of the town those whose star is horsemanship. Heretofore, these people have been inclined to avoid Virginia Beach, for their most important amusements were lacking; with a quality track and interesting polo assured them, their patronage may be counted upon as a certainty.

We do not mean to predict a constant overflow of business because of the two agencies, but as bathing attracts some, as the Casino lures others, so will each new means of bona fide entertainment widen the appeal of Virginia Beach as a place where vacations may be spent in healthful surroundings and in time-filled activity. Hotels, amusement centres and business must necessarily profit from any increase in patronage, and such, we believe,
 is constantly on the up-grade.

Fortunate, indeed, are the patrons of the Cavalier Stables that the mounts they ride are neither of the construction nor the color of the poor beast that guards the southern approach to the Cavalier grounds. One of Virginia Beach's few works of art, this cross between a Chintheque pony and an aboriginal mustang, has been the butt of tourists' jokes since first he assumed his position as an advertisement for M. S.
 Thayer's polo stables.

Today this unmanly beast stands as living proof that art is not dead and that the desire for embellishment still smolders in the heart of some unknown artist,
 for in his new regalia of black and red stripes he holds forth as some unearthly variant. Not even the winged Pegasus could vie with him for peculiar makeup, and the gayer zebra is colorless beside him.

Is he, perchance, so disguised

to make possible his entry on the local dog track? Horse he never was, and, in his new dress, there is none that could tell him nay
 should he decide that the track
 was his true stamping ground.

News of a proposed thirty-six hour return flight from New York to Dublin in a plane to be known as "Miss Virginia Beach" was bruited about the Town this week
 by those who sponsored the flight and by the young aviator, Charles Foley, prominent flier and inventor of Dublin, Ireland. According to the story, the cooperation of local business men had been secured on the promise that the plane would carry the local name.

The flight, to be made through the sub-stratosphere at an average height of 25,000 feet, would consume twelve hours on the eastward leg, Mr. Foley estimated.
 After eight hours of rest in Dublin, the return flight would be undertaken, with Floyd Bennett Field the western objective. Besides cementing Irish-American relations by this gesture of goodwill, it was Mr. Foley's thought to show the practicality of Dublin
 as a transatlantic port for aviation activities.

The advertising value to the Beach of such a proposal cannot be doubted, whether the flight be wholly successful or not. However, with the return of the young
 "Irish Lindbergh" and his manager to New York without any word of their return here, we expect that the incident is closed.

The most apparent need of the Beach at this time, as we see it, is the prompt establishment of an efficient tourist and information bureau. By far too many visitors are leaving this section because of inadequate information as to what is going on and where they may find the type of recreation most appealing to them.

The establishment of such an agency would contribute a distinct service to the business interests of the Beach, and the cost—considering the benefits which would accrue from its proper organization and handling—would be as slight as to make its immediate promulgation easily practical.

No more fitting agency exists,
 we believe, for the sponsoring of such a valuable setup than the evolving Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce. To those charged with the establishment of a program for the young organization
 we would commend this suggestion.

seems to be fairly unprejudiced,
 and so we gain another—not very pretty—picture of ourselves.

As Others See It

UNEMPLOYED TOTAL GROWS

(Newport News Daily Press)

More than nine million dollars has been spent by the Federal government on "relief and reconstruction"
 during the past 18 months.
 When this program was undertaken President Roosevelt announced that he hoped to put four million idle men back to work during 1933. At that time the National Industrial Conference Board estimated that there were 9,644,000 persons out of work. Now the same board estimates that there are 9,711,000 unemployed in the country.

If these figures are correct, it is obvious that in spite of the pumppriming of business, and in spite of the jobs which the government has created, the number of unemployed has increased. These

Rotary Convention Planned For Spring

Should present plans of the local Rotary Club materials, District 56 of Rotary International will meet in annual convention at Virginia Beach next spring, Dr. R. G. Barr, president of the Princess Anne unit announced yesterday. Fifty-six clubs comprise the membership of the district, which embraces all of Virginia save Washington county.

The convention, which will extend over three days, is scheduled to meet on or about May 11th. Approximately one thousand Rotarians will attend, Dr. Barr stated.

In order to insure the success of the convention, officers of the Virginia Beach club have enlisted the support of the Chamber of Commerce and will confer within a few days with a committee drawn from the membership of the Norfolk organization. The officers believe that a more comprehensive program can be arranged with the support of these two interests, both of which have signified their intentions to support the convention bid of the local chapter.

R. B. Taylor heads the local committee in charge of arrangements.

The Scout's Trip

Preparations were being made for the annual hiking and camping trip of the Boy Scout troop. Food was the chief topic of discussion.

Some boys were worried about the amount they would have to carry, but the others had different ideas.

"We don't need to carry much," they said. "There are farms near camp and along the road we're taking."

"That's right, fresh vegetables and milk. Nothing better than that. The farmers have butter too, and we can get bread at the village store."

"What about the milk," asked one boy. "Will it be safe?"
"Sure it will," replied one who seemed to be posted. "Some of the farmers pasturing their milk at the farm and the other farms are approved by the state inspectors."

"Wait until you see those dairy barns," added another. "they're as clean as a kitchen. And you won't find any diseased cows either. The state is very strict. You'll drink milk all right, a quart every day. That's what I'm going to do."

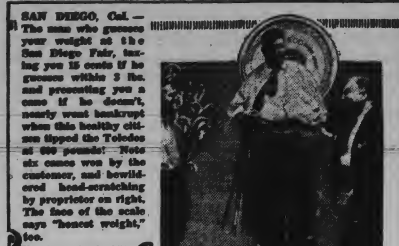

"Peas and string beans will be ready, and young carrots, lettuce, and tomatoes. Boy! I can taste them now. Berries for dessert. Some eggs from the farmers and some bacon and meat from the store. We're all set. Let's go!"

In his next article Dr. Ireland will discuss the problems of touring, especially when children are along.

CO-OP MARKETS' BIRTHDAY TO BE FETED IN TENN.

Goodlettsville, Home of Initial Venture, to Observe Day With Celebration.

A national celebration of the 57th year of cooperative livestock marketing will be held tomorrow at Goodlettsville, Tennessee, the birthplace in 1878 of the cooperative marketing movement in America.

Speakers of national prominence including Claude R. Wickard, chief, corn-hog section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration; Governor Hill McAlister of Tennessee; Edward O'Neal, president, National Farm Bureau Federation; Lloyd Nickels, president, Livestock Producers Cooperative Commission Association, Cincinnati; Sam Guard, editor of the Breeders Gazette, Chicago, who suggested the celebration, and many others will appear on the program.

Governors, extension directors, state commissioners of agriculture and farm organization leaders of the Southeast and Middle West have been invited. Over 100 lambs will be barbecued to feed an expected attendance of 5,000 people. A feature of the celebration will be an educational meeting and rally on the AAA corn-hog program which will be addressed by Mr. Wickard during the afternoon.

The first Goodlettsville wool and lamb club in 1878, and the beginning of cooperative livestock marketing in the United States, has proven the bulwark of a vast new marketing movement that has spread to every other phase of the farming industry, saving American farmers millions of dollars annually.

The Goodlettsville Wool and Lamb Club, which had its origin because of dissatisfaction among local producers over weights and prices paid by wool and lamb buyers visiting the community.

What is the yardstick for a cigarette...

Take mildness for one thing—how does it measure up for mildness?
Chesterfields are milder—not flat or insipid, of course, but with a pleasing flavor.

Then take taste for another thing—does it have plenty of taste?
Chesterfields taste better—not strong but just right.

In other words, They Satisfy—
that's my yardstick for a cigarette.

TIMELY SUGGESTIONS FOR THE PEACH SEASON

Peaches have at last come to us in a great abundance. We can have them in combination with everything from cream to pie crusts, and never have to figure whether the family budget can afford them. They are one of the delicately colored fruits which are more easily worked into party and guest dinner combinations than the harsh colored huckleberry, blackberry, and watermelon. Peaches really help considerably in breaking up a monotonous summer diet.

If you have not started on your 1935 peach campaign get going now with these timely suggestions:

Peach Cobbler
4 cups firm sliced peaches
1 cup sugar
¼ cup water
Enough pastry for a deep baking dish

Slice peaches in usual slices, moderately thick. Make a syrup of the sugar and water; boil for three minutes; turn the peaches into the syrup and cook gently until tender. While peaches are cooking prepare the pastry. Line sides of baking dish with pastry; lift the peaches out and line the of navy blue triple sheer crepe with accessories to match and her flowers were a shoulder corsage of gardenias and lilies of the valley. She had as her maid of honor and only attendant her sister, Mrs. Myrtle Hayden and the bridegroom had as his best man his brother, Hiram McKee, of Rye, N. Y.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. McKee will make their home in Cincinnati, Ohio.

spices (tied in a bag). Cook until mixture is thick and clear. Remove spice bag. Pack into clean, hot jars and seal immediately.

Fresh Chutney

4 quarts peaches
5 cups vinegar
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup sugar
¼ lb. raisins
¼ lb. white mustard seed
2 ounces scraped ginger root
1 ounce red peppers
1 ounce garlic

Peel peaches and remove stones. Add 2 cups vinegar to each 4 quarts peaches and cook until soft. Add another cup of vinegar, ½ cup chopped onion, ½ cup sugar, ½ lb. raisins, ¼ lb. white mustard seed, 2 ounces scraped ginger root, 1 ounce red peppers and 1 ounce garlic. Mix ingredients well and add 2 cups vinegar. Boil mixture 15 minutes. Pack into clean, hot jars and seal at once. Peach chutney may be used as ketchup.

To Peel Peaches For Pickles

1 tsp. red seal lye
1 gal. boiling hot water
Put lye into the water, keep at boiling point. Dip 5 or 6 peaches in at a time for a minute, more or less, remove, drop into a pan of cold water, rub off the skin or peeling with a coarse cloth. Change the cold water occasional.

ly if many are fixed, and use fresh water. Also rinse the cloth as it takes a rough cloth to remove skins. A wire strainer makes a good receptacle with which to dip peaches.

Do not ice or chill peaches—they are much sweeter when kept from the ice. However, keep in a cool place. For seasonings use cinnamon and lemon juice.

Do you have your electric oven canning chart yet?—If not—write to the Home Service Department, Virginia Electric and Power Company, Norfolk, and it will be forwarded to you free of charge.

Novelty Coif for Newport Breezes

New York-Paris Fashions

THIS youthful and simple coiffure designed by Dumas is called Newport Breezes and, being both neat and casual, seems to live up to its name. The smooth, brushed-back-from-the-forehead effect is accented by the little bandeau of Pyralis in rick-rack pattern which comes in various color combinations, including pastel shades with white. It serves not only as a smart touch of color but as a practical device for keeping the coiffure in place.

PREDICTING ROOSEVELT'S REELECTION

(Bristol, Va., Herald-Courier)
Senator Gerald P. Nye, Progressive of North Dakota, was a speaker recently at the Institute of International Relations at Nashville, Tennessee. In an interview before the address he talked some politics and expressed the opinion that President Roosevelt will be reelected next year. "Nothing on earth can defeat Roosevelt and the Democrats if his program goes through on the complete scale that it is planned," Senator Nye said. He declared there is not an outstanding Republican candidate, naming Mills of New York and Vandenberg of Michigan as the most likely prospects. Calling the recent "Grass Roots" conference of the Republicans "pretty much of a flop," the Senator added that he thinks the Old Guard of the party is "thoroughly resolved that all they need to do is let the New Deal discredit itself; but I think they have another guess coming."

In other words, as Senator Nye sees it, the Republican leaders are waiting for the New Deal to break down, and they will wait in vain. In that he is probably correct. There is increasing opposition to the Roosevelt policies in Congress but it comes mostly from Senators and Representatives who have not really been in sympathy with those policies from the first. Believing or hoping that the President is losing his popularity with the people, these Senators and Representatives feel encouraged to come out into the open against Administration measures. But a goodly majority of both Houses continues to stand by the Administration and the President usually manages to get what he wants from Congress.

Senator Nye says nothing can prevent Mr. Roosevelt's reelection "if his program goes through on the scale that it is planned." We believe he might have gone further and said Mr. Roosevelt will be reelected whether his program goes through on that scale or not. If the program is not carried out in full and successfully it will be because of opposition in and out of Congress, and our own opinion is that the people properly will hold the opposition and not the President responsible. We are further of the opinion that this opposition, particularly in Congress, is mistaken in its theory that Mr. Roosevelt is becoming weaker with the people, despite its efforts to weaken him.

The people did not elect Mr. Roosevelt President by an overwhelming majority both of the popular and the electoral vote because they thought he was a conservative in politics and would give them a conservative Administration very much like that which they repudiated when they elected him. Nor did the people go to the polls two years later and give the Roosevelt policies an emphatic endorsement in Congressional elections in which the New Deal was the outstanding issue because they were disappointed with those policies or with the President. Nothing has happened in the eight months since the Congressional elections to indicate that the Administration has suffered a public confidence by reason of the criticism to which it has been subjected. The critics are having their inning now. The people will have their again next year.

It is
After all these years even the most disinterested veterans are calling it the bonus of contention.

Theater Previews

AT THE BAYNE

Marlene Dietrich is cast as a beguiling senorita in Paramount's "The Devil Is a Woman," which comes today and tomorrow, July 19 and 20, to this theatre. Cesar Romero is cast opposite the blonde charmer. The story tells of a woman whose beauty robbed men of their senses and whose faithlessness broke their hearts.

"One New York Night," the M-G-M picture which opens Sunday, July 21 for a two-day run, co-features Una Merkel and Franchot Tone. "One New York Night" is a mystery-comedy, the action of which transpires entirely in a large metropolitan hotel, where several interesting people from various walks of life become innocently involved in the crime.

Patricia Ellis and Larry Crabbe furnish the romantic interest in Paramount's new Damon Runyon comedy, "Hold 'Em Yale," which comes Tuesday, July 23 to the Bayne Theatre. It's a story of Runyon's famous Broadway "citizens" and what happens to them when they tangle with society girls and football players.

George Raft is starred in Dashiell Hammett's "The Glass Key," which comes Wednesday and Thursday, July 24 and 25 to the Bayne Theatre. In his first really hard-boiled role since his triumph in "Scarface," Edward G. Robinson, Claude Rains and Rosalind Keith support Raft in this mystery thriller.

AT THE ROLAND

Today and tomorrow, July 19 and 20, the Roland Theatre presents "The Captain Hates the Sea," a Columbia picture featuring Victor McLaglen, John Gilbert, Alison Skipworth and Wynne Gibson. The mad voyage of a madcap company of heart-breakers, safe-crackers and gleam-chasing lunatics!

The feature scheduled for Sunday, July 21, is "Pursued," a new film drama of British North Borneo. Rosemary Ames, Victor Jory and Russell Hardie have the principal roles.

"Dangerous Corner" the RKO-Radio picture featuring Virginia Bruce and Conrad Nagel, will be shown at the Roland Theatre Monday and Tuesday, July 22 and 23. The story is a house of lies that fell with a mighty crash.

Wednesday and Thursday, July 24 and 25, the feature attraction at the Roland theatre will be the thrilling melodrama, "Woman in the Dark," featuring Fay Wray and Ralph Bellamy. The conflict between a daughter and her parents who don't approve of the man of her choice, is given a new and dramatic twist in this great crime story by Dashiell Hammett, author of "The Thin Man!"

EQUAL RIGHTS

(Northern-Virginia Daily)
At a regional meeting of the National Women's Party in Atlantic City, New Jersey, recently resolutions were adopted urging equal rights before the law for both men and women, equal pay for equal work, equal domicile, property and guardianship rights, and equal alimony in divorce cases. Equal! Think of it, ye husbands, fathers, brothers and sons. The fair and generally un-fair tyrants who have ruled you since Eve forced Adam to take a bite of her apple are going to have some rights of their own. Freedom! Hallelujah!

Now you will be able to collect "heart balm" when the wealthy daughter of the sauer kraut king tries to renege on her promise to marry you, and if she keeps the promise you can later sue her for divorce and collect alimony. And you will get equal pay for equal work. Can you imagine getting money as easily as women get it? Moreover, when you get on the witness stand in court you are to have all the consideration and advantages shown to the cutest thing with the innocent eyes and the shapely—uh—contour, who in injured accents tells the jury how she has been deceived and mistreated by some cruel male brute. You can take your shoes off in the living room, spill tobacco on the floor and forget to drain the water from the bathtub. Equal rights! Hoors!

Sounds good, sisters, but it can't be true. That sort of thing may suit a few women who went to college and read about it in books and magazines, and a few men who pride themselves on being liberal and broadminded, but the rank and file of us are just the plain human beings that God made long time ago and has been worrying along with ever since without trying to turn us upside down and inside out. Men are just men and women are just women and you can't mix them up like that. When old Gabriel

Mahoney, we count it the best of all submitted because it is simply and beautifully written, without straining for effect; it is friendly and objective; it doesn't slobber over as do so many reporters who attempt interpretative reporting. Mrs. Mahoney introduces her own comments here and there, but always sparingly and with balance.

"What we called for in the terms of the contest was: The work of born writers and understanding reporters who knew news without having to be told from a desk, and who are possessed of a sense of values which detects the great in the small."

"Country" correspondents are grand people, by and large. They have something to tell this frantic, hastening day and age.

"The country correspondent is the forgotten man of American letters. Novelists, poets, playwrights, historians, reporters for metropolitan newspapers—all these have prizes to which they may aspire. But the country correspondent has heretofore had no such opportunity for recognition."

"These prizes were offered in the belief that such recognition is more than merited. We do not expect to unearth any great author, although many great authors have come from the ranks of the country correspondents. But we do expect to call greater attention than ever before to the excellent writing that comes from the farms and small towns, and is published in the local columns of the country newspapers."

"It is a simple, honest sort of writing, reflecting the wholesome flavor of life in the country."

blows his horn they are going to be the same kind of men and women that God made in the first place plus a little knowledge, a lot of funny clothes and a good many little sins they have picked up here and there. You can't make men of yourselves and you might as well quit trying. You'd be sorry if you did. As for equal rights, they ain't no such thing.

Mileage Hints

IT is a mistake for the motorist to assume that the coming of warm weather makes undesirable the use of a premium motor fuel. Many motorists who have successfully used the premium fuels during the cold weather go back to the regular fuel with the first signs of spring, in the belief that the regular fuels will give them as good performance in spring and summer as the premium fuels.

This is decidedly not the case. Premium fuels are every bit as desirable in the warm weather as in the cold weather. They will give more efficient performance in summer as well as in winter. The outstanding features of a premium fuel are quicker starting, faster warm-up, more rapid acceleration, lowered gum content and a more even distribution of fuel to all cylinders, and, in the case of one fuel, the use of a patented solvent oil which dissolves gum, resinous and asphaltic deposits off valves, pistons and rings, thus insuring less carbon deposit, complete piston seal and positive valve seating.

All these properties are just as much to be desired in hot weather as in cold weather. Moreover, the higher anti-knock quality of the premium fuel and the fact that it requires virtually no choking, thus preventing gasoline seepage which washes oil off the cylinder walls and pistons, is a year-round feature. Motorists who have found premium fuels satisfactory in the winter should continue to use them in spring also.

ECLIPSE OF MOON SHIES FROM AREA

atmosphere and bent into the umbræ. Scientists determined that the moon entered the earth's shadow at a point 226,000 miles in space, with the black cone of shadow extending another 534,000 miles beyond this point.

Dr. Clyde Fisher, curator of astronomy at the Museum of Natural History in New York City, said the unusually long eclipse—it lasted from 9:15 until 2:43 a. m.—was due to two phenomena. At this time of the year, he explained, the earth is closest to the sun at any point in its orbit, nearly 1,000,000 miles closer than in the winter. Also at the time of the eclipse the moon is almost on full meridian, midnight during a full moon.

Another interesting feature of the eclipse, Dr. Piet Van de Kamp of the Leander McCormick Observatory in Charlottesville pointed out, was the big break in the heat wave on the moon, with the mercury bounding from that of the temperature of boiling water to minus 100 degrees centigrade. This was due, the scientist explained, to the lack of water vapor on the moon, which acted as a blanket or trap to permit most of the sunlight to come through to the surface below but to let only a small fraction of the resulting heat escape.

During the partial phase, which lasted about an hour, Dr. Van de Kamp continued, the temperature fell from that of boiling water to minus 100 degrees centigrade, while during totality another drop of some ten degrees took place. During the last partial phase the temperature returned rapidly to the boiling point.

For the earth as a whole, eclipses of the sun are much more frequent than lunar eclipses in the ratio of four to three, but in any one place lunar eclipses are much more numerous, owing to the greater area in which they are visible. 1935 has been a big year for eclipses, there being five of the sun and two of the moon during the year. Of these, only two could be seen in this area, a partial eclipse of the sun on February 3 and the total eclipse of the moon this week.

With plans to take care of two indigent patients at a sanatorium, to further health inspection and to make active war on the menace of tuberculosis, the Princess Anne County Health Unit, of which Mrs. Chas. T. Ingram is chairman, will start a membership campaign, Sept. 7th, to raise funds to carry on their health crusade through the county.

The Galilee Episcopal Church, located at 18th street on the waterfront, has plans for a new church building, and members of the congregation are working to raise funds to finance the new construction. Rev. T. L. Ridout, rector of the Galilee Church, has announced that it is too early yet to make definite predictions or to set a date for the building to begin, but the congregation is at work, and the various church organizations are raising funds as rapidly as possible with which to finance the construction. Bazaars, chicken dinners, and the like are popular ways of raising such funds, and the Ladies' Guild are helping to swell the treasury by similar schemes.

The LUXURY of Cleanliness

ON "The Pocahontas" and "The Cavalier"—ultra-modern Norfolk and Western trains—you may now wear the most delicate and expensive summer clothes while traveling. These two completely air-conditioned trains, operating between the Midwest and the Virginias and Carolinas, are permanently sealed against dust and dirt. Even the air you breathe is clean, pure and fresh.
The "best word" in rail travel cleanliness is found in the Norfolk and Western's new air-conditioned luxury-coaches, with their rotating, reclining seats; women's salon; and, men's smoking room. Cleanliness features the air-conditioned diners with their famous cuisine, the air-conditioned Pullmans, with their spacious berths, and the air-conditioned lounge cars, equipped with easy chairs, magazines, and writing tables.
You will experience a new thrill in summer travel on these two trains—and you may wear the lightest clothing with perfect safety.

4-H CLUBS SPUR HOUSING PLANS

Cooperating With Federal Group in Presenting Modernization Program.

Four-H clubs throughout the country are co-operating in presenting the Federal Housing Administration's program to rural residents.

Each club is appointing a housing representative or a committee, and more than 100,000 pamphlets suggesting work which may be accomplished by the members have been distributed among extension workers and local leaders. The local leaders familiarize themselves with the Housing program in order that they may present it intelligently to club members and residents of the community.

Suggestions for 4-H clubs made in the pamphlet distributed by the Federal Housing Administration include the planning of dairy barns, milk houses, hen houses and fences and judging of various farm houses by club members.

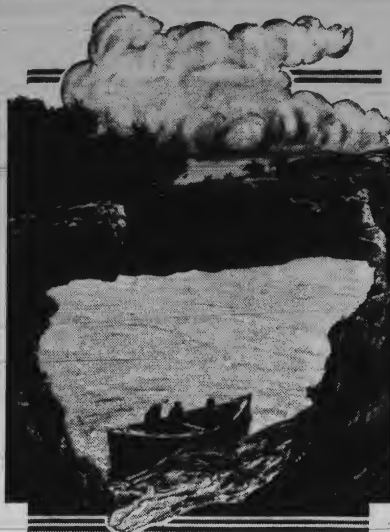

Coincident with the 4-H club program, farm representatives of the Federal Housing Administration are contacting officials of county fairs to arrange for space for housing demonstrations on their programs. More than 1,000 such fairs are to be held throughout the United States during the months of July, August and September. In some instances, 4-H club members will assist in staffing these booths.

In communities where fairs are not being held, farm bureau picnics and field days are planned, as well as tours when farmers visit neighbors in a group and inspect various crops. The farm representatives also plan to present housing programs on these occasions.

Readers of the Virginia Beach News may secure individualized trip services without spending a cent—even for postage—merely by writing the Conoco Travel Bureau, Continental Oil Building, Denver, Colorado, stating where and when they wish to go.

NATURE BUILDS BRIDGE

THIS fine natural example of cantilever bridge construction is to be found a few miles from Tobemorey, a picturesque fishing village at the northern tip of the Bruce Peninsula in the Georgian Bay district of Ontario. The village and contiguous area are popular as a vacation spot and as fishing grounds for lake trout, black bass, pickerel and speckled trout.

A STRANGE STAND

(Newport News Press)

Henry G Shirley, State highway commissioner, says that the general fund of Virginia is indebted to the highway fund for more than eight million dollars because of money spent for work relief on the roads of Virginia. He thinks that the State should reimburse his department.

This appears rather strange logic. From it one might infer that Mr. Shirley has failed to build roads with the money in question.

But for the fact that large numbers of the unemployed were given work on the roads, Mr. Shirley unquestionably would have found his road appropriations materially curtailed. The people, by and large, realized several years ago that too large a part of the State's revenues was being spent on the highways and there was a widespread demand for curtailment.

About that time, however, the unemployment problem became acute, and Mr. Shirley's department was able to retain the funds in question by pointing out what was being done in the way of work-relief. Now Mr. Shirley wants the State to turn over to him another eight million dollars.

About as much chance of getting it as the proverbial snowball enjoys.

TELEPHONE CALLS AND NEW PHONES GAIN IN TOWN

Daily Average of 2700 Calls Per Day Reported by Local Office of C. & P. Company.

Telephones and telephone calls showed substantial increases during the first six months of the year at Virginia Beach. A net gain of 928 telephones is reported, with a daily average of 2700 calls, which is seven percent over the number made for the same period last year, according to N. H. DuVal, manager of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia.

Norfolk telephone users now make 265,000 daily originating calls, or an increase of four percent over the daily average made last year. Telephones were increased here by 458 during the first six months of this year. Portsmouth telephone users make 47,000 calls daily, or an increase of one percent over the daily average last year. In this office 73 telephones have been added to the system during the six months period, making 5385 now in service. Suffolk, it is reported, is served by 2062 telephones, from which originate 14,000 calls daily, with an increase of one percent over the same period last year. At Newport News telephone calls are 33,000 daily, or seven percent more than the daily average of last year. This office has shown an increase of 168 telephones, making 5157 now in operation. At Hampton, there is a daily average of 16,000 calls, a two percent increase over last year. This office shows a net increase of 137 telephones, with 3775 in operation.

In Virginia, a net increase of 3572 telephones operated by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company is reported during the first six months of the year, from which 1,100,000 telephone calls originate daily, or eight percent more than the daily average of 1934. The company now operates 146,238 telephone stations.

For the Bell System as a whole the net gain for the first six months was 201,000 telephones, an increase of 189,000 during a similar period last year. The semi-annual statement issued by President Walter S. Gifford of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company shows that there are now about 13,500,000 Bell System telephones in service, which is about thirteen percent below the maximum telephone growth in 1930. Toll and long distance messages during the first six months throughout the country as a whole show an increase of one and three-fourths percent over the first six months of last year.

Parks, deady accurate through the fairways and on and around the greens, will participate with Thomson in a half-hour exhibition of driving and shot-making prior to the beginning of the forenoon.

PARALYSIS SCARE SHOWN BASELESS

ported in North Carolina and later observed on its death-dealing march through certain isolated spots in Virginia, has touched but lightly on the eastern part of the state. Leading medical authorities now believe the epidemic under control, though residents of the infected areas are still urged to exert the utmost caution in exposing children to possible dangers in public gathering places.

The public service contributed by the investigating body should go far toward quieting fears of those to whom the unfounded rumors have been voiced. Virginia Beach and its environs have escaped completely from the nation's children, living up to a deserved reputation as a place where health and good fellowship meet at the water's edge.

The report, signed by Doctors H. F. Dormire, Cora Z. Corpening, W. L. Taylor and R. W. Woodhouse in collaboration with Sidney Banks, F. E. Turin, Edward M. Hardy, R. C. Tunstall, B. G. Porter, Roy Smith, Mayor of Virginia Beach; and R. G. Barr, is printed here in its entirety. WHEREAS it has come to the attention that rumors are abroad that it is not safe for visitors to come to Virginia Beach on account of the possibility that Infantile Paralysis may be contracted at the Beach.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that a statement be isa regular course event, and the names of the dogs being so schooled will be announced in the nightly programs.

The close of the coming week will see an approximate four hundred dogs quartered in the vicinity of the track, the maximum number to be brought here this year. With the individual kennels varying from ten to thirty dogs, it is estimated that not less than twenty-five racing groups will participate in track activities. Most of the dogs now here are kept in the modern kennels recently erected at Oceana.

High attendance figures continue to be the order of each night, with an enthusiastic crowd cheering on the dogs in each of the nine races which are run on every program. The thrill of the sport nightly spreads into more distant communities, and hotel and cottage owners report an increased business during these weeks over the same period of previous years. The lack of "fixing" and crookedness, commonly associated with racing in the minds of many, has impressed most of the visitants, none of whom has voiced disfavor with the procedure insisted upon by the management.

Due for publication, to the effect that not one single case of Infantile Paralysis has been detected at Virginia Beach and that IT IS ABSOLUTELY SAFE FOR VISITORS TO COME TO VIRGINIA BEACH, AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that public statement be made to the effect that VIRGINIA BEACH IS ONE OF THE MOST HEALTHFUL PLACES IN THE UNITED STATES on account of the equable climate, its idyllic atmosphere and its ideal location on the Atlantic Coast, and BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the traveling public be informed that every possible precaution will be taken at all times to protect the health of the community and its residents, transient and otherwise.

FRANK BELGRANO ACCEPTS BID TO ADDRESS LEGION ON SEPTEMBER 6

National Commander Will Attend State Convention, He Writes Committee.

AUXILIARY PRESIDENT WILL ATTEND MEETINGS

Program for Annual Session Added to By Committee During Past Week.

Frank Belgrano, national commander of the American Legion, will arrive in Virginia Beach, Friday night, September 5, and will address the state convention here on the following afternoon, it was learned yesterday at convention headquarters in the American Legion clubhouse. Mr. Belgrano's acceptance of the speaking invitation adds one more national figure to the imposing program now nearing completion under the guidance of Fairfield Hodges, general convention chairman, and his associates.

Heading the speakers who will address the Legion Auxiliary will be Mrs. C. E. Carlson, national president, it has been announced by Mrs. S. M. Simpson, president of the local auxiliary. It is expected that Mrs. Carlson will spend several days here as the guest of the convention committee.

Wiener Boast Announced

Additional features listed on the general program by the committee include two early morning wiener roasts and beer parties, to be given on the beach in front of the local clubhouse by the officers and members of the Princess Anne post. The first party is scheduled for midnight, September 5, and the last, for 1:30, Friday morning. Convention delegates and their wives have been invited to attend both frolics. Friday evening, at 7 o'clock, the Post Commanders' dinner will be held in the New Pinewood Hotel. One of the highlights of the annual state convention, this social meeting of the post executives of the Legion is eagerly anticipated by those invited to attend.

According to the tentative program arranged for the Legion Auxiliary, the morning of September 4 will be given over to the registration of delegates at the Martha Washington Hotel, convention headquarters. The noon-day luncheon meeting will be presided over by Mrs. Richard B. English, of Richmond, Department Child Welfare Officer. In the evening, the annual dinner-dance will be held at the Cavalier Beach Club, to be followed by the Grand Military Ball and the State Beauty Pageant.

Thursday will find the convention in full swing, with a varied list of meetings scheduled throughout the day, some of interest only to the auxiliary, others to be shared with the legionnaires. Among the speakers are listed Mrs. Simpson, president of the local unit; Homer L. Challaux, director of the National Americanism Commission; Mrs. Ernest B. Flahburn, and other prominent members of the State organization. The day will be brought to a close with the 40 and 50 cent, and the department grand ball.

FERA Director Calls For Sewing Aids

Mrs. A. E. Ewell, FERA director for Princess Anne County, advises that her organization is in need of sewing machines for the sewing rooms in which women are employed to make winter clothing for the needy children of the county. Those lending sewing machines in regular use to this worthy charity will receive them back in good condition when the present work is done.

The public is asked to cooperate with Mrs. Ewell in the movement of the good work of this group.

Mutt Race To Be Made Weekly Track Feature, Officials Say

Legion Decorator Not Yet On Beach

According to American Legion convention officials, the decorating committee awarded the contract to handle all local street and business house decorations for the convention will not arrive in Virginia Beach for another week or ten days. This statement was made yesterday to quiet rumors that a company now soliciting business here had the official contract.

A percentage of the proceeds paid to the official decorators will be returned to the Legion treasury, it was learned. Business men are asked, therefore, to await the arrival of those properly credited by Princess Anne Post 112.

VIRGINIA BEACH DAY SPONSORED AT FORD PLANT

Mayor Smith Heads Delegation Which Inspected Production Facilities.

Heading a delegation of leading Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County citizens, Mayor Roy Smith was the guest of honor at the Ford Motor Company's "Virginia Beach Day" tour of the company's assembling plant in Norfolk last Tuesday afternoon. Officials of the company, who arranged the inspection, supervised the local men's four-hour visit through the plant and the exhibition now being featured at Ocean View.

Beginning the day in the receiving department, no single operation of the plant was overlooked. Many comments of a pleasing order were heard of the efficiency of the office personnel and plant workers, of the many labor-saving devices installed throughout, of the orderliness and facility with which the individual parts were combined to produce the finished automobile.

Three hundred cars per day is the present output of the plant, the officials stated. Production had been stepped up to an average of more than four hundred cars during the first five months of the year in the Norfolk plant, but the usual seasonal slump had brought the number of completed cars back to the plant's maximum for an eight-hour shift. In all, an approximate two thousand men are now employed.

Canning Program Here Next Friday

A demonstration in modern food preservation methods, to which the general public is cordially invited, will be held in the Virginia Beach School building on the afternoon of August 1, at 2 o'clock, it was announced this week by Mrs. Mary E. Phillips, garden superintendent for Princess Anne County. The demonstration will be conducted by Miss Eva Minix, representative of the Kerr Glass Manufacturing Company, and Mrs. Phillips.

Miss Minix will present the new vacuum seal can sponsored by her company, which requires no rubber rings. The new packing process is simple to use, Mrs. Phillips explained, and the results from their use have been most successful.

A demonstration of drying garden products, such as carrots, beans, corn and other soup vegetables, will be given by the garden superintendent. This simple method of preserving foods for winter consumption is now widely used throughout the county, with uniform success.

The Virginia Beach meeting is sponsored under the FERA garden program for Princess Anne County.

Feature Handicaps Are Planned for Tonight and Tomorrow's Cards.

Because of the tumultuous reception accorded the staging of the "mutt" race by the public last Tuesday night, officials of the Cavalier Kennel Club announced this week that the feature will be made a regular part of each week's racing program. No single presentation offered during the present season attracted such wide interest or aroused such enthusiasm, it was reported, and the clamor for more such novelties will be heeded.

The money races, also popular with the average track-goer, will be staged twice weekly, on Monday and Saturday nights. R. M. Johnson, track manager asserted. Other feature handicap races, with handsome silver prizes awarded to the winners, are now being arranged by the management.

Tonight there will be staged on the local track the Reserved Refining Company handicap, a 5-16 mile event, which is set for the eighth race. A beautiful sterling silver trophy will be presented to the owner of the winning dog.

Tomorrow night's handicap race will be sponsored by the Virginia Military Institute Alumni Association, also a 5-16 mile event. The association has secured a silver cup for the winner.

New dogs are arriving each week for participation in the races. Mr. Johnson continued, adding that the track is attracting nationwide publicity. Leading greyhounds from all sections are now kennelled here, and the nightly racing card, carrying ten races, puts winning dogs in competition from start to finish. Approximately four hundred dogs are now here, the maximum number which will be allowed on the track during the present season.

Attendance at the track continues to improve nightly, the officials asserted. Length of the present racing season will depend largely upon the public acceptance of the daily cards.

PRICE TO ENTER PRIMARY IN '37

Lieutenant-Governor Is Expected to Oppose Representative Burch.

Announcing his candidacy for the governorship subject to the 1937 Democratic primary, Lieutenant-Governor James H. Price early this week stepped into the picture as a logical and likely successor to Governor Peery. Said Mr. Price:

"I have no statement to make at the present time further than to say that I am going to be a candidate for Governor in the 1937 Democratic primary. "At the proper time I shall make a formal announcement and submit to the people of Virginia my views on problems confronting the State."

Although Mr. Price has been known to the rank and file voters as an organization man, because of his support of Byrd, Pollard and Peery, it is anticipated that the Byrd-Glass machine will line up behind the candidacy of Thomas G. Burch, of Martinsville, congressman from the fifth Virginia district. This assumption is based upon the fact that for nearly six months organization stalwarts have been sounding out campaign key men as the fitting successor of Governor Peery.

It is difficult to forecast possible sentiment almost two years hence, but the entry of Mr. Price into the campaign promises to the state one of the most spirited primary fights held in the Old Dominion in many years. With no overbalancing issue—now facing the State and with the national picture likely to change in the interim, the chances of any candidate seeking public favor is probable, at best. Much, it is believed, will depend upon the Byrd organization's stand upon the Roosevelt policies and upon the people's acceptance of his position. (Continued on Page Three)

GAMING CHARGE AGAINST JOHNSON RULED INVALID; NEW CASE LOOMS

Manager of Kennel Club Absolved of Connection With Gambling at Track.

OPTION SELLER, BUYER ARRESTED BY OFFICERS

Option System Due Added Hearing Before Gresham Next Tuesday Night.

Although the gambling charge against R. M. Johnson, general manager of the Cavalier Kennel Club, was dismissed last Tuesday night by Police Justice E. V. Gresham on the grounds of inconclusive evidence, the furor over the option system and its relation to the gaming laws of the Old Dominion has not yet subsided. Further hearings on the matter are scheduled for next Tuesday night, when Ed. Auker, of Princess Anne County, and R. W. Atwood, of Virginia Beach, go to trial on a similar charge as that on which Johnson was absolved.

"I am not going to pass on the question of whether or not there is gambling going on at the race track," Justice Gresham told the spectators last Tuesday night over the protest of attorneys arguing both sides of the case, after the three-hour hearing. "The one question under this warrant is whether or not Mr. Johnson is guilty as charged. There is absolutely nothing in the evidence to connect him with any gambling. The charge against him is dismissed."

Asks New Arrests

"If you want a ruling on gambling at the track," the local judge continued, "arrest the men who are selling and buying the options and bring them before the court and I'll pass on it. As this case now stands, there is not a jury in the world that would convict this defendant and I don't propose to render a decision that has no possibility of being upheld in a higher court."

Additional warrants against officials of the Atlantic Greyhound Breeders Association, option sellers, and the Virginia Beach Greyhound Owners Association, option buyers, will be sworn out in the next few days, it is reported. Defense attorneys Willard Ashburn (Continued on Page Five)

BOARD TO SEEK FEDERAL FUNDS

Additional Office Space Needed; Poor Relief Voted by Supervisors.

Meeting in executive session in the Princess Anne courthouse last Monday morning, the Board of Supervisors of the county discussed a series of routine affairs, voted poor relief to several of the county's indigent and adjourned, after a short session, until the next regular meeting in August. Those attending the session were M. W. James, chairman, George W. Dawley, W. R. Payne, M. C. Mackfield, W. F. Huggins, Paul Akins, Commonwealth's Attorney, and Sidney Kellam, treasurer.

In the interim, the board voted to investigate the method of obtaining funds from the federal government for the purpose of building additional office space on the courthouse grounds. Extension of county activities in recent years, it was argued, make such a step necessary at this time.

Poor relief was voted to Sarah A. Hartley, Willie Ives, Miss Charlotte Waterfield and James Owens colored, upon the recommendation of the several directors.

A bill for $180 rendered for the transit labor project was ordered paid to the Mosquito Control Commission, the federal group that has done much to eliminate the mosquito nuisance from the county.

Institute Theme Will Centre On Rural Life Of Tomorrow

Land Policies and Farm Income to Be Dealt With by Economics Section.

The future of agriculture and rural home life will be the two main concerns of the Institute of Rural Affairs at Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, July 30-August 1, inclusive. The general theme of the Institute is "Adjustments Affecting Rural Life."

Land policies, farm income, foreign markets, and the agricultural adjustment program will be dealt with by the economics section. Population trends, the farm home, parenthood, rural rehabilitation and self improvement through dress, coming under the standards of living section, will be of interest mainly to home demonstration club members.

The State Farmers' Institute will devote itself in the afternoon sessions to information on problems of production in vegetable gardening, animal husbandry, dairy husbandry and horticulture. Evening sessions entertaining

CHAMBER FUNDS ARE COLLECTED

Tunstall Heads Drive Seeking Cooperation of Hotels and Merchants.

Although the funds needed to place the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce upon a substantial footing are slow in coming in, considerable progress has been made in their collection during the past week, it was announced yesterday by Bob Tunstall, manager of the Advertising Board, of Norfolk, and other members, of the local unit, Tunstall will continue the campaign throughout the rest of the summer, hopeful that the chamber will be functioning adequately within a few weeks.

Contributions from hotels and cottages have been reckoned on a basic valuation of $2.50 per room. It was agreed that this was a fair way to apportion the burden of the chamber's expenses and it is upon this basis that the fund-raisers are working. Merchants are asked to share the burden to the extent which they believe possible.

Latest contributors to the fund include the Cavalier Hotel, the Elmswood, Waverly, Seaside, Fogland, the Cleaner, Snapp's Hardware, Roland Cafe, Eddy's Shoe Repair Service, Fuel, Feed and Bldg. Supplies Co., and Bar's Drug Store.

$39,400,000 IN LIFE INSURANCE MONEY PAID TO VIRGINIA CITIZENS

Virginia policyholders and beneficiaries were paid $39,400,000 by life insurance companies in 1934, according to a special compilation by the National Underwriter, weekly insurance newspaper.

Virginia ranked 19th in life payments among all states while it is 21st in size of population. The per capita payment in 1934 was $16.15.

Richmond Leads Cities

Richmond led Virginia cities in life insurance payments in 1934 with $4,535,000 compared to $3,753,000 in 1933, or a 21 percent increase. Richmond ranked 35th among all cities in the country. Norfolk was second in payments in 1934 in Virginia with $1,966,000. Roanoke came third with $967,000 followed by Portsmouth, $478,000; Petersburg, $466,000; Danville, $444,000; Lynchburg, $432,000; Newport News, $374,000; Alexandria, $357,000; Suffolk, $149,000; Charlottesville, $141,000; Staunton, $137,000; Wytheville, $134,000.

VIRGINIA CITIES SPONSOR AUTUMN TRAVEL PLANS

Celebrations Will Call Attention to Scenic Areas of Old Dominion.

Approximately twenty communities throughout Virginia will unite this autumn in staging the Virginia Autumn Travelogue, beginning September 25 and running until October 19, it was definitely determined at a meeting in Richmond of the central committee, which is headed by Governor George C. Peery. The event will include a number of statewide tours, tours offered by local communities cooperating in the movement and a series of events of local nature tied into the statewide program.

These events will include the Tobacco Festival at South Boston, September 25 and 26, the Piedmont Dairy Festival at Manassas, September 27, the Shenandoah Autumn Festival, September 29 through October 3, at Staunton, the University of Virginia Engineering School Centennial, University of Virginia, October 2, the Southwest Virginia Autumn Festival at Marion, October 7 and 8, the dedication of Stratford as a national shrine, October 12, the anniversary celebration of the Cornwallis Surrender at Yorktown and others.

However, the principal theme of the Autumn Travelogue will be traveling through the scenic areas in Virginia to historic destinations. Economy and history are to be combined in a campaign to interest visitors in coming to the Old Dominion at a season when the weather is ideal and the autumn beauty of the state is at its best.

POTATO GROWERS TO BE PAID IN FULL BY CAPPS ORGANIZATION

Chief Creditor Agrees to Delay Action in Event Farmers Are Paid.

INDEPENDENT AGENCY MARKETING PRODUCE

Over-Production Viewed As Cause of Present Situation in County.

Potato growers in Princess Anne County owed money by the G. W. Capps Produce Corporation, will be paid off in full, R. B. Douglas, of the Smith-Douglas Company, Inc., of Norfolk, informed the NEWS office late yesterday. Mr. Capps, when interviewed by telephone, stated that the affairs of the company would be straightened out not later than Tuesday, July 30, at which time the growers would have checks for every cent owed them for potatoes delivered to the corporation of which he is president and treasurer.

Other officers of the produce company, as registered in the Princess Anne County courthouse, are P. E. Kellam, vice-president, and Richard B. Kellam, secretary.

Action Taken by Creditors

Indication that all was not right with the Capps Corporation first became apparent about a week ago, when growers in the southern section of the county were informed that their potatoes could not be marketed through the previously existing channels. At that time, it was understood that the corporation would be forced into involuntary bankruptcy by action of the Smith-Douglas Company, largest of the Capps' creditors, but such action has been forestalled, at least temporarily, and may not be taken. Farmers contemplating such action refrained from filing their petitions at the instance of a committee of the creditors.

According to reliable information, the Smith-Douglas Company agreed and recommended to the other creditors that the growers be paid in full for the produce delivered to the marketing organization. The fertilizer company also agreed and recommended that 45 cents be paid on every dollar owed on trade accounts, other than their own. What was left with the growers and trade concerns satisfied, would accrue to Smith-Douglas, an amount estimated at from 30 to 45 percent of the full amount owed by the Capps Produce Corporation.

Important Creditors

Listed among the more important creditors, other than Smith Douglas, are the Royster Gunne Company, the Norfolk and Southern Railroad, the Bemis Bag Company, the Farmers Manufacturing Company, the Foreman-Derrickson Veneer Company, and the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company.

This arrangement was made, it is understood, to protect the growers—who already have taken a bad beating because of the drop in potato prices—and to continue the Capps company in business. If its affairs can be ironed out satisfactorily, whether the Smith-Douglas organization will continue to back the local concerns for another year is, at this date, largely a matter of conjecture.

Independent Agency Acts

Potatoes not marketed by the Capps group because of the suspension of activities were marketed by an independent agency. At this time, most of the crop has been harvested and marketed, though more potatoes are on hand than needed during the season.

The Capps Corporation is being full of continuing in business, Capps asserted. It is his hope that the farmers and growers the section are anywhere in a continuance, and the affairs of the corporation are now being whittled into shape by private action.

The threat of bankruptcy of Guy Capps, president of the corporation, which was the subject of this section, has been averted. (Continued on Page Five)

VIRGINIA IN THE NEWS

Tourist figures compiled during recent years by agencies interested in such data show that the Old Dominion stands well to the fore among her sister commonwealths as a travel attraction. Long eclipsed by the more populous and, formerly, more aggressive states that border the north Atlantic, the historic shrine and natural wonders that lie within her confines today are unfolding their tales to an ever-increasing number of people, bringing untold thousands of dollars to the business of the state and spreading the story of America's foremost commonwealth hither and yon.

Virginia Beach, as one of the state's most interesting spots, has dominated a large portion of this news, and the results have made themselves apparent to all who choose to look. The tale of its splendid beaches, hotel accommodations and amusement facilities has reached into the far corners of the nation, sponsoring an interest which has meant much in dollars and cents to the continued, progressive development of the resort community, bringing here a representative group of quality vacationists whose efforts today are making Virginia Beach one of the most cosmopolitan centres on the entire eastern coast.

It could be quite impossible to credit any single agency with the bulk of this worthwhile promotion. Hotels, cottages, amusement interests and private citizens have contributed much through the twin mediums of advertising and publicity; the good offices of the Norfolk-Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce are due much for their cooperation and support; the State Commission on Conservation and Development, by means of its publications, booklets and maps, has aroused an interest quite beyond calculation; and the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce has, since the time of its organization, rounded off the picture begun by the others.

We are reminded of the worthwhile efforts of Col. LeRoy Hodges, Robert Nelson and their associates of the State Chamber by the appearance of the latest issue of "The Commonwealth," the magazine of Virginia business sponsored by this progressive group. For several years this quality publication has been broadcasting a concise story of the possibilities and realities to be found within the state, frowning on the usual publicity baloney and confining its remarks to facts which speak for themselves. In the current issue, as in many of those already published, Virginia Beach has not been forgotten.

"Norfolk's Shore Resorts" is the title of the article written by Francis H. Turin, manager of the Advertising Board of the Norfolk Chamber. Graphically depicting the charm of the forty miles of beaches which surround the area, both with the written word and by means of well chosen pictures, the tale of Virginia Beach finds a splendid raconteur.

Such efforts on behalf of this community are not easily forgotten, and to those responsible for their accomplishment the NEWS would proffer the hearty thanks of those who, without a mouthpiece for their appreciation, are nonetheless sincere in their gratitude for such constructive promotion.

PRICE AND THE GOVERNORSHIP

Announcement of the candidacy of Jim Price to succeed Governor Peery in the 1937 Democratic primary comes as no surprise to the many friends of the popular Lieutenant-Governor, however much the statement may annoy the Byrd-Gale organization, frequently referred to as "the pure in heart." His long years of association with the political affairs of the Old Dominion, his earnest, conscientious efforts in behalf of the average citizen and the reputation for sincere performance which has accrued to him during these years mark him as the outstanding candidate of the Virginia Democracy.

The NEWS has no quarrel with Thomas G. Burch, reputedly the candidate of the Virginia senators, nor with the political aspirations of J. Sinclair Brown or Thomas W. Olin. These men have performed nobly in the handling of their offices, but we cannot regard them as possessing the outstanding capacities and capabilities which are to be read into the record of Mr. Price.

However strong the potential opposition of the Byrd machine may be to his candidacy, Mr. Price is in no sense to be regarded as an "anti-machine battler." Looking back over his career, we find the contrary to be true, for repeatedly he has assumed the lead in vote-getting while organizing tickets. It was Mr. Price who handled the Byrd amendments to the Virginia Constitution in the House of Delegates, where he served seven terms and three times headed the House Democratic caucus. It was Mr. Price who steered through the Workmen's Compensation Act and subsequent amendments; the Constitutional amendments growing out of the Prentiss report, and several measures sponsored by the Virginia Bar Association.

Popularly, his strength is greater than of who now aspire for the governorship. Since his college years, when he was president of his class and a leader in fraternal affairs, James H. Price has maintained an exceptionally wide acquaintance with Virginians in all walks of life. Particularly is he well known for his activity in fraternal organization and social welfare work, where he has earned a national reputation. His wide acquaintance with and understanding of state government add to his qualifications for the office which he seeks.

Should Jim Price's candidacy precipitate the expected organization opposition, it is our belief that the organization is in for a deal of trouble. Its ramifications no longer are so wide or so strong as was the case five years ago, and its crossing of a popular figure commonly regarded as one of its key workers will not be taken lightly by the populace.

The NEWS commends the candidacy of Mr. Price, extending to him our heartiest support and good wishes for his success.

As Others See It

A HEALTHY GAIN

One of the great blessings we are going to get out of this depression—if we ever get out of this depression—is the changed view point of youth toward work. Today the 2,000,000 youths coming out of our high schools and colleges every year are generally glad to take any job they can get, and don't turn up their noses at all jobs. American youth has learned to appreciate the value of a job.

Of course, American parents were, all along, to blame for the attitude of American youth toward manual labor. The average parent sent his boy to high school and college so he wouldn't have to work as hard as his father had worked. It was instilled in the mind of the boy that an education was a magic formula by which he could escape toting his hands in the world's work. That idea was exploded a good many years ago when our high school and college first began to turn out more White Collar jobs than there were White Collar jobs for their graduates. But most people shut their eyes to the depression. The great depression has caused a healthy awakening.

Through this new appreciation of the value of a job and the dignifying of manual labor will come a new America in which educated workers in every phase of industry should solve our labor and social security problems. Straight thinking on these and other problems has been difficult because the education have been imbued with the mistaken notion that they had nothing in common with the less privileged member of society who had a job but no high school or college diploma. Which reminds me that Old Man Buck Duke began to realize late in life that educated men and women were essential to the operation and progress of the technique of modern civilization. He set aside millions for the endowment of Duke University to train Duke teachers, Duke preachers, Duke doctors and Duke technicians. The old man would turn over in his grave if he could but know that what he actually endowed is a great university that is turning out armies of social-minded graduates to go into Duke school rooms, Duke pulpits, Duke hospitals and Duke industries and spread the enlightened gospel of the very social democracy which Mr. Duke despised.

QUEEN BESS AND FERA

Back in 1905, the poor law from the case of Elizabeth began to be thin. A royal commission was appointed in London to recommend reforms in the British system of dealing with unemployment and human distress. The commission worked until 1909 and issued a report which has been called an encyclopedia on pauperism. It indicated Queen Elizabeth's plan on the following counts:

- Excessive administrative personnel;
- Lack of close relationship between relief administration and other branches of the government;
- Lack of uniformity of application;
- Tendency of administrators to give relief without plan or purpose;
- Want of proper investigation of applicants;
- Absence of any system of friendly restorative help to persons on relief;
- Lack of co-operation between charity and relief administration;
- Too much reliance on relief;
- General rise in expenditure without corresponding efficiency of administration;
- Want of sufficiency of control and continuity of policy by central authority;
- If this summary were published on the front page tomorrow with no reference to its source, how many people would consider it critical of the Elizabethan plan and how many would think it applicable to any American federal emergency relief administration?

THE GOING FEVER

The philosophers say the American people are too intensely influenced by the "going fever." According to this philosophy, men and women should spend much time in meditation and quiet home pursuits. They should find satisfaction in sitting on shady porches, elevating their minds with poetry and listening to the messages that singing birds and blooming flowers are supposed to communicate to the waiting soul. The American mind is not much given to philosophy. Motion comes nearer satisfying the national temper. When vacation time comes, some who can find the time and price contemplates going somewhere.

It does not always gain by this change of scene. It might remind one of the words that William Shakespeare put into the mouth of Touchstone, famous character in "As You Like It." Said Touchstone: "Ay, now I am in Arden; the more fool I. When I was at home, I was in a better place; but travelers must be content."

As the travelers of 1935 try to sleep on trucks, as they fight mosquitoes on swampy rivers, as they consume soggy pie, many of them will say "home is a better place."

The going fever is not necessarily harmful. The active American mind needs change. If it goes along in one furrow of activity, it tends to lose energy. It wakes up the spirit to see new states and cities.

If you go merely for speed, to see how many miles your motor will come to be able to say you have been here or seen that thing, your travels have limited value. But if you come home with a new perspective that had tended to grow sluggish, if "going places" has put some "go" into your daily step, the going fever is a vital force.

A DISGRACE TO THE SOUTH

An astonishing verdict of acquittal has just been reached by the North Carolina court which tried several former convict camp officials, who had in their custody two Negro prisoners whose feet had to be amputated. These officials were cleared of all blame in the matter, the jury having apparently believed the argument of the defense that it was the fault of the convicts themselves that they lost their feet.

The two prisoners were serving short terms. For alleged insubordination they were "hunked up" in solitary confinement in dark cells for nine days from eight to ten hours daily, handcuffed to the bars of the cells with their feet shackled to the floor. Although the thermometer went down to 11 degrees above zero for a portion of the time, and it always was unusually cold, there was no heat, except from a dilapidated stove which went out frequently.

Owing to the shackles on their feet, those members swelled, and they had to take their shoes off and stand unshod on the cold concrete floor. In order to keep the shackles from pressing too hard on their swelling feet, the men placed strips of cloth under the metal. Soon the swelling was such that the cloth was forced deeply into the flesh.

After being subjected to this torture—there is no other word for it—nine days, the men were given solitary confinement for three more days, without being "hunked up." Subsequently in the prison camp, their feet grew steadily worse. The gangrene was diagnosed as "crystals," and salve was rubbed on the rotting flesh. Finally it became clear that the feet of both men would have to be amputated, to save their lives, and the operation was performed in the prison hospital at Raleigh.

That is the undisputed record of what happened. Yet the court gave the indictment charging "feloniously torturing and maiming" and dismissed the charges against two of the five defendants. The other three were brought to trial on a charge of "neglect of duty," a misdemeanor, and assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill. Since it was clear to everybody that no such assault had been committed, the only charge, for all practical purposes, was the misdemeanor, and the prison camp officers were not even convicted of that.

Naturally there has been an outburst of indignation in North Carolina over this denouement. A columnist calls it "shameful, disgraceful, sickening." A leading editor declares that the verdict "fails miserably to satisfy the most elemental promptings of a decency which is outraged when two human beings utterly within the power of the State are so far neglected that their feet freeze to within eyeshot and calling distance of adequate medical attention."

Certainly it seems to us that such a verdict is nothing short of a travesty upon justice. About 10 days ago, a legislative investigating committee in Georgia reported that conditions in one of the convict camps in that State are even more dreadful than Robert E. Burns said they were in his description of Georgia chain gangs. Now comes a North Carolina court with a refusal to punish any one for the loss of the feet of two prisoners in one of that State's prison camps, although the men were subjected to terrible torture over a period of nine days. Such things as these are a disgrace to the South.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

TIME TO BURY PREJUDICES

The leaders of the Massachusetts Women's Relief Corps of the G. A. R. show a relentless worth of a better cause and a sectionalism that should be opposed in attacking the proposal to erect a monument to General Robert E. Lee in the Arlington National Cemetery. It is a safe assumption that their stand would not be upheld by the thousands of survivors that fight against Lee.

Lee was a great American, a great soldier and a gallant gentleman. Northerners join with Southerners in admitting that Lee was one of the rare Americans worthy of standing in the company of the great first President.—New York Herald Tribune.

This rebuke to the Massachusetts Women's Relief Corps and this Tribute to General Lee by the Northern newspaper which is also a Republican newspaper will be applauded not only by the Mason and Dixon Line but in all sections of the country. For to the great body of the American people the War Between the States is over, notwithstanding an occasional bugle blast of sectional hatred from a few irreconcilables both in the North and in the South. The Massachusetts Auxiliary of the Grand Army of the Republic protested that there should be no monument in Arlington Cemetery to General Lee "or any other traitor." Some of the Daughters of the Confederacy have had caty things to say about leaders of the Union cause in the Sixties. If the Daughters feel that the Massachusetts women have been properly reformed, they should also feel that what the Herald Tribune says to those women applies with equal force to themselves. Seventy years after the war they "ought to be able to bury their prejudices."

Book Sampler

There is a "reader fear" that books written by office-holders on affairs of public interest are nothing more or less than so much campaign talk. "Back to Work: The Story of FWA" by Harold L. Jakes might very well be. But it isn't. In the midst of political firing and back-firing, this book is a sane accounting of the steward of three billions of dollars to the tax-payers of how their money has been spent. In the first chapter Secretary Jakes gives an inside picture of the first days of President Roosevelt's administration, and gives an interesting account of his own appointment as Public Administrator. From then on organization and appropriation comprise most of it; there is little controversial matter. The book is a valuable social document, and will be after 1936.

An actor is one of the most colorful political dramas on this continent was Rosa E. King. The young Englishwoman visited Cuernavaca in Mexico in 1905. Later she returned, a widow, to the same spot and became a hotel-keeper in a four-hundred-year-old house. Shortly after, revolt was raised against Diaz, president-dictator, and Mrs. King's life became an exciting uncertain matter. Revolutionary leaders—Zapata, Madero, Huerta—visited the hostelry because friends—enemies of the proprietress. Because she lives utterly untroubled by them, Mrs. King has written an exciting first-hand account of events that shook Mexico two decades ago. "Tempest over Mexico" is an interesting book, and a surprisingly delightful one.

Now a word of warning and a word of praise for John Steinbeck's novel, "Tortilla Flat." It is a mighty fine story about some half-breeds who live in a district of a South California town. The half-breeds are utterly natural, and for the most part joyfully printable. "Imagine" characters that might have been handled in the Caldwell vein, turned over to Robert Nathan—and you don't have light reading for the maiden aunt!

For loan of these three books, apply to your local library or the Extension Division, University, Virginia.

BOOKS FOR CHILDREN

Among the more popular books being read this summer by the youthful visitors to the Virginia Beach library are the Shirley Temple edition of "The Little Colonel" by Ann Fawcett Johnston; "Marjorie at Seaside" by the Carolyn Wells; the "Honey Bunch" series, by Helen Louise Thorndyke; and "Marjorie's Vacation" by Carolyn Wells. Boys' preferences are for "Cary Grayson," Dawson's popular character; the "Tom Swift" adventures, by Appleton; and "Billy Smith, Secret Service Ace," by Sainsbury.

At The Water's Edge

By DON SEIWEL

Nothing is more interesting to the student of modern English than the consideration of those slang expressions which crop up over night and secure an immediate grasp upon the consciousness of the American people. Later students of the modern culture will learn more of the inherent characteristics of this age from current writings than from any investigation into other fields of activity, for the speech of the time reflects as nothing else the mood and the tempo which animate its people.

Thus, when the learned Dr. Vintally grabs his hair and rates those who subscribe to the current "okey-dokey" as persons whose mental age is less than that of a child of six, he betrays—professor-like—his total non-understanding of one most definite characteristic of this era, that of unbounded enthusiasm and childlike faith in a mystical, if not mythical, future cycle of prosperity. That the average American may be down and still not out is nowhere better illustrated than in the mischievous words during these lean years. "Truly does 'okey-dokey' 'take the cake!'"

It was not so many days ago that we ran into another expression, which, though its use was to eliminate the users from the Doctor's six-year-old class, portrays still another side of the modern youth, the unforgotten lightness with which he rushes into formerly permanent relationships. They had come to the Beach, she said, to "pitch woo!" and the expression was such a novel one that we failed to grasp its import. "Courting" is a word gone from the modern dictionary, it is as obsolete as the homed proposal made on one knee—of an earlier year, and the youth of today "pitches woo" as easily as he "threw the ball" ten years ago. It may still be a mark of school-book culture to shudder at the very mention of such expressions, but the lifeblood of the nation courses through the speech of the young couple who admit unashamedly the purpose of their stay on the sands of this resort.

Moral considerations, when confronted or confounded by temptations economic, seldom maintain their balance in this hectic age, but Thomas C. Flynn—who first saw the dog track as a palace of merriment—is made of much firmer stuff. On his own testimony, Mr. Flynn visited the Cavalier Kennel Club on its opening night, certain that the new venture had no place in Virginia Beach. The better to understand the workings of the popular night rendezvous of the local vacationist, he purchased three options at a total cost of eight dollars.

He knew nothing of racing dogs, he confessed, not even the names of those who choose to run, but he had a hunch that No. 4 would win. It was on that dog that he placed one of his options; and his dog won. Another hunch action brought another win, two out of three, and Mr. Flynn walked away from the park—morally as indignant as when he entered—$22 winner! Mr. Flynn has not returned to play further hunches, nor does he expect to, for his is the leading voice raised in demand that the track activities be brought to an end. Somehow, however much we admire his moral fortitude, we feel deep down inside that Mr. Flynn would be an ideal companion on those nights when we take a lone two dollars to the track. The race track habits might have found in him an even more profound oracle than our good friend, the Railbird.

This, too, happened at the track.

She had placed her two dollar option on a white dog, the first time she had ever done such a thing in her life, for this was a first view of a track. The race was under way before she realized it, and anxiously she strained her eyes to follow the course of her favorite.

"He's way ahead of the others!" she screamed into her escort's ear, as the dogs hit the stretch on the far side of the track. "He can't lose now."

Her escort looked a bit confused, took another searching look at the benches dogs, then shook his head. "No he isn't," he muttered, "no he isn't."

But he girl knew; she could see him coming up the home stretch. Hysterically she grabbed the coat of her companion, hanging on as though her life depended upon it.

Then, the race was over, almost as quickly as it had begun, and the young thing knew the worst. She had forgotten the rabbit—and it had been upon his furry presence, also white, that her eyes had been glued!

Readers Write

To the Editor: Many people have but little knowledge of the duties of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Princess Anne County, and some of these people are of the opinion that any person, regardless of apprenticeship, education or training, could acceptably perform the duties of Clerk. Some of us, who take no part in the cliques and factions of politics in this county, be own property in it, and are citizens who work hard, and are, therefore, interested in a proper keeping of the records, have thought it well to inform the residents of our county of the importance of having a capable man as Clerk.

There are nearly eight hundred laws on the statute books of Virginia governing the manner in which a clerk must perform his work. These laws are largely of a permanent nature, and many of them have been on our statute books since the foundation of the State. The object of these is to have the records kept in such shape that succeeding generations may learn by an examination of the records in the Clerk's Office all matters which vitally affect their lives and property. Accuracy and a knowledge of the law are necessary, therefore, in performing such work as issuing marriage licenses, qualifying administrators, executors and guardians; writing the orders or judgments entered against persons convicted or acquitted of crime; and writing the orders and judgments pertaining to suits for money. The one doing this work must be able to understand and apply the laws of the State governing the performance of these acts.

The Clerk is the keeper of all the records by which we hold title to our property. Not only must he copy and properly index deeds, but he must make and index maps or plats, and must keep the records in such shape that lawyers examining titles, yet the title to your property can be traced to the Commonwealth of Virginia. But for the accuracy of the records it would be impossible for the property owners of this county to establish title to their property.

Another important function of the Clerk is the copying of wills. The foregoing deal with what might be termed some of the permanent records of the Clerk's Office. There are so many other duties he must perform that space precludes our enumerating all of them. Their accurate performance means a saving of much time, trouble and money to those who for some reason or another find themselves in the Court of the County of Princess Anne, or its Clerk's Office. The Clerk must properly record and index all agreements, audits, contracts, charters and reports of guardians, executors and administrators; must figure and collect delinquent taxes; issue marriage, hunting, trapping and fishing licenses; issue excursions and garnishments; prepare papers for the Supreme Court of Appeals and do many other acts too numerous to mention.

While much of the manual and detail work is done by the assistants in the Clerk's Office, yet it is obvious that the head of the office must be able to supervise, direct and coordinate the work in accordance with the laws of Virginia.

We feel, therefore, the citizens of Princess Anne County should weigh very carefully the aptitude, training and education of any person who is a candidate for the Clerkship, for to his industry and training we entrust much that concerns us in one way or another.

Canning Supplies Being Distributed

Canning supplies, furnished by the FERA have arrived in Princess Anne and are now being distributed to those gardeners unable to meet the expense of such supplies. Mrs. Phillips announced yesterday. Included in the shipment sent to the county are 16 gross of new vacuum sealed jars, 16 gross of extra tops which fit any mason jar and 24 gross of extra rubber rings for the old type jars.

Approximately twenty-five percent of the gardeners have been taken from the relief rolls, largely because of the productivity of their gardens under Federal supervision. Local officers are closing such cases as rapidly as possible, and it is believed that a considerable extra percentage will be dropped from the rolls before the advent of the fall season.

Lynnhaven To Play Charity On Sunday

The Lynnhaven baseball club will meet the strong Charity nine on the Lynnhaven field Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. Lloyd Murden is expected to do the pitching for Charity, with Melvin Kite behind the plate. Boots Ames or Bill Turner will twist for the local team, and Archie Caton will receive.

Working behind the Sawyer-Caton combination last Saturday afternoon, at Smithfield, Lynnhaven lost a hard-fought game to the hometown team by the score of 5-0. Sunday afternoon, however, they defeated the Brambleton Tigers in a double-header, 18-7 and 18-0.

Archie Caton starred for the home team with five hits. Sunday school, 10 a. m.; preaching and morning worship, 11 a. m. Sacrament of the Lord's Supper every second Sunday.

SOAP BOX RACES GET UNDER WAY IN 53 CITIES: MANY COMPETE

Thirty-five hundred boys took part in Detroit last Saturday first qualifying race of the All-American Soap Box Derby.

The day's contests launched a national program of juvenile hill-coasting which will bring together in competition 100,000 boys in 53 cities in the next three weeks and will end with the running of the championship final at Akron, O., August 11.

The event is sponsored by Chevrolet Motor Company in collaboration with a leading newspaper in each of the cities. Major prizes consist of a $2,000 four-year's scholarship in any state university or college the winner selects, a Chevrolet Master de luxe coach for second prize, and a Chevrolet Standard coach for third.

More than 3,000,000 spectators, it is estimated, will watch the city races and the championship event.

Winners in each of the competing cities will be sent to Akron as guests of the sponsoring newspaper and will be entertained and banqueted there as guests of Chevrolet.

The finalists will arrive in Akron Saturday, August 10, in time to see the city race there and to acquaint themselves with the steeply graded Tallmadge avenue hill, on which the final will be run.

The course, to be closed to traffic for a distance of two miles by order of Governor Martin L. Davey, of Ohio, will be flanked by temporary grandstands.

Graham McNamee will broadcast the race over a coast-to-coast network, and four major newspaper companies will photograph the event. Celebrities expected include Babe Ruth, Jimmy Braddock, "Wild Bill" Cummings, Grantland Rice, Paul Gallico and Damon Runyon. A press dinner for visiting newspapermen will be held Saturday night, August 10, at the Mayflower, followed by a dinner to the Derby contestants and award of prizes Sunday night.

In addition to the major awards the C. F. Kettering Trophy will be presented to the builder of the best constructed and designed car. An upholstery company will give another trophy for the best upholstered job, each contestant will be provided by Fisher Body Corporation with a "turret top safety steel helmet," and M. E. Coyle, president and general manager of Chevrolet, will give each city champion a silver trophy.

About the only similarity between any two of the home-made Derby racers will be that they will have four wheels; save the exception, everything is wide open to the boy's inventiveness to develop a vehicle that will glide freely, steer easily and hold together. The only restrictions are limits on size weight and stipulations that the cars must pass rigid inspection for safe construction, steering and braking.

The race is under rules laid down by a technical committee of well known automotive and racing authorities headed by Harold Blanchard, chairman of the technical committee of the American Automobile Association contest board, and technical editor of Motor magazine.

The newspaper informs, teaches, entertains.

"I ENJOYED the Snapshot Guild article last week very much, for taking snapshots of my children is almost a hobby with me," wrote a reader. "I was hoping, however, that you would tell mothers how to include themselves in the picture with their children," she continued.

Perhaps others are interested in this subject. The self timer is a most fascinating little gadget and almost hums in its operation. It is an inexpensive accessory that fits over the metal bellows or plunger, at the end of the cable release, which you press to take a snapshot with a folding camera. It cannot, however, be used unless the camera is fitted with a cable release.

Here is how it works. First you locate your subject in the finder and at the same time plan the space you will occupy when you step into the picture. Suppose you want to take a picture of Jane sitting in your lap as you read to her. You will have to have the camera on a tripod, table or something solid. Locate the chair in the finder—and be sure you can see all of the chair, especially the upper part of the back where your head will appear—for if you are not careful you will find you have deplacated yourself when the finished prints are returned.

If the picture is to be taken indoors you will have to apply all the rules of indoor snapshooting. The diaphragm should be set at f/8.5, the shutter speed at either 1/10 or 1/25 of a second and you will need one or two photoflood lamps placed in an ordinary floor lamp (with the shade removed) to give more illumination to the side away from the outside light.

When the diaphragm is set at the proper opening with the correct shutter speed, the same as if you were going to snap the picture yourself, set the self timer for ten seconds or a minute, depending on how long it will take you to get into the chair with Jane comfortably seated in your lap, ready to listen to your story. Turn on the photoflood lamp, slip the timer over the button at the end of the cable release, press the little release lever on the self timer and it starts buzzing away, and then—click—it has taken your picture.

In spite of the simplicity of the procedure Jane is going to get a thrill out of it and when the picture is snapped she'll probably be portraying a million dollar smile—and this will add much to the value of the picture.

You can purchase the self-timer attachment from almost any store that sells cameras. They are not expensive and last a lifetime.

Some cameras have self-timers incorporated in the shutter so if you have this type of camera and have never used the self timer you have missed a lot of fun and picture possibilities.

CASSEROLE COOKERY

Isn't it nice to try new ways of doing old tasks? Of summer cooking in general, your Electric Casserole or roaster is grand to prepare hot meals at a minimum of trouble, fuel and kitchen heating. Any electric casserole or roaster can be connected to an appliance outlet that is equipped with a 15 ampere fuse.

You can roast or bake in them just as easily as you can fricassee—they will cook a single food or a whole meal, and they are excellent for preserving. Besides being able to cook most any thing you want in them, they really act as a disposition saver in seasonally equipped summer cottages. As their excellent insulation conserves most of the heat, they serve as a carrier, as well as a cooker of hot picnic meals, keeping the food hot, it will keep cold food cold. So prepare your salad for picnics, place in the casserole and chill in the refrigerator, then you will have a nice crisp cold salad as a surprise to your friends at the beach.

8 medium-sized carrots
1 tablespoon salt
4 tablespoons shortening
5 whole small white onions
1 green pepper, cut in strips
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup water

Dredge meat with salt and pepper. Preheat cooker to 500 degrees or for 20 minutes. Seal one side of meat in shortening for 10 minutes (Cover a jar), turn meat, add vegetables and water. Place trivet on top of meat and vegetables and on it set pan containing small pudding. Cover cooker and reduce temperature to 375° cook 1 hour.

Roast Chicken and Vegetables

Prepare 6 pound chicken for roasting, stuff and tie firmly. Preheat roaster to 500°, or for 20 minutes. Place chicken in roaster on high heat for 1 hour. Place sweet potatoes, carrots and apples around chicken, add ¼ in. hot water. When steam appears from vent rest control to 375°, or turn to low heat and continue cooking for an hour.

Roast of Beef, Baked Potatoes, or Mixed Vegetables and Spoon Bread

Seal roast in the middle pan of your preheated roaster, 500° for 20 minutes, place greased potatoes or mixed vegetables in separate compartment, spoon bread in the third compartment, place cover over all and reduce temperature to 375°, or on low heat and cook 1 hour.

Boston Baked Beans

1½ lbs. navy beans
¾ lb. salt pork (sliced)
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons brown sugar
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1 small onion
Soak beans over night, drain. Do not parboil. Lay half of pork and whole onion in bottom of casserole and cover with half of the beans. Lay in second piece of pork and remainder of beans. Add salt, sugar and mustard. Cover with boiling water. Connect on high until steaming commences, reduce temperature to 400° or on low heat 6 to 8 hours.

Chocolate Pudding

2 eggs, beaten
1 cup sugar
1 cup milk
2-3 oz. cooking chocolate, melted
2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
5 tablespoons butter or shortening
1 teaspoon vanilla
Beat eggs very light. Add sugar slowly, beating constantly. Add milk and melted chocolate. Add

To one cup of water add the spices and boil together, for 5 minutes. Add the fruits and simmer for 5 minutes longer, and allow to cool. Dissolve the gelatin in the other cup of water, and combine the two mixtures. Cool until slightly thickened, pour in to mould and place in casserole with and put in refrigerator to chill. Leave the cover of the casserole ajar. After the pudding has set, you may place the cover on casserole and carry to a picnic, and the pudding will remain firm until ready to serve.

Peach Jam

3 pints peach pulp
4 cups sugar
¾ cup peach juice or water
1½ in. ginger root
¾ teaspoon allspice
1½ teaspoon cloves
3 teaspoons cinnamon bark
Blanch peaches in boiling water, cold-dip and remove skins and seeds. Mash pulp. Add sugar and spices (Tied in bag). Place in cold cooker and cook 4 hours at 300°.

Chili

1½ pounds ground round steak
1 large onion
1 large bottle catsup
2 cans red kidney beans
Fry onion in bacon fat. Add ground roundsteak and cook until it separates. Salt and pepper. Add catsup, and cook until oily. Add beans and cook until mixture appears dry (about one hour). A dash of Worcestershire will improve the flavor.

PRESENT FLAGS TO LEGION POST

Tom Roland Gives National and Legion Colors to Princess Anne Unit.

Last Wednesday evening, Tom Roland, prominent Norfolk citizen, presented the national colors and the colors of the Legion to the Princess Anne Post 113, of the American Legion at a special service held in the local clubhouse. E. R. Woodhouse, vice-commander of the post, opened the meeting for the presentation of the flags. Mr. Roland was introduced by Fairfield Hodges, general convention chairman. The Drum and Bugle Corps of Norfolk Post 36 delivered the colors to W. F. Jones and Albert Sales, who were designated as colorbearers. Following the presentation, a special entertainment was given by the clubhouse management. Those participating in the program included George von Schilling, piano-accompanist; Elizabeth Green, specialty tap dancer; the Berryman Sisters, novelty singers, and Margaret Hogan, tap dancer.

Guest Preacher At Methodist Church

Rev. B. B. Bland will preach at the morning service of the Virginia Beach Methodist Church next Sunday morning. At the evening service Rev. William Wright, of Norfolk, will be guest preacher. Mr. Wright became popular in this community when he was a student at Atlantic University. He is a graduate of Richmond University and is now a student in the Baptist Seminary in Louisville, Ky. He was licensed to preach by the Park Avenue Baptist Church, Norfolk, and has been supplying in Norfolk churches during his summer vacations. Certificates were awarded to twenty-six pupils of the Oceana Methodist Church's Vacation Church School last Sunday morning. Forty-one persons were enrolled and the average daily attendance was thirty.

Interested in state politics since the time of his graduation from Washington and Lee law school, he has been a definite factor in the enactment of many of the laws written upon the Virginia statute books. He it was who steered through the House of Delegates the Workmen's Compensation Act and subsequent amendments; the Constitutional amendments growing out of the Prentiss report, and a series of measures sponsored by the Virginia Bar Association. He served on the Rules Committee and was chairman of the Committee for Courts of Justice and later chairman of the State Auditing Committee. He has served as Lieutenant-Governor under Pollard and Peery.

Aside from Mr. Price's wide contact and personal experience with the state's legislative program, he has earned a national reputation for himself in fraternal and social service circles. He is president of the Richmond Chapter, Workers for the Blind, is a former potentate of Acca, is a member of the Order of the Temple and Imperial recorder of North America for the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

Throughout the years of his activity, Mr. Price has maintained a wide acquaintance with Virginians in every walk of life. Never an agitator, his legislative beliefs have carried him into the thick of numerous fights to advance the well-being of the average Virginian. It is upon his record of progressive activity that Mr. Price is expected to open his campaign.

$39,400,000 PAID IN LIFE POLICIES

Governor Peery Comments In commenting upon the huge total of life insurance payments in Virginia last year, Governor George C. Peery said:

"I have been intensely interested to learn that payments by life insurance companies to residents of Virginia in 1934 approximated $39,400,000.

"Here, indeed, is eloquent testimony not only to the foresight and thrift of my fellow citizens, but to the tremendous stabilizing force of life insurance in the economic scheme of things.

"It is easily conceivable that without the vast sum distributed among our people by life insurance last year, there would have been a marked increase in the demands for relief. Surely, there is no sound argument against a financial plan that, using interest to create capital, so greatly aids the individual to complete his objectives in life."

Life insurance policyholders and beneficiaries in the United States and Canada received $3,101,525,930 in life insurance payments in 1934. Of this huge amount the death claims matured endowments, annuities, disability and additional accidental death benefits totaled $1,298,215,394 compared to $1,411,187,914 the year before. The payments of premiums savings and cash surrender values amounted to $1,715,310,536 last year compared to $2,054,036,273 in 1933.

Although the total paid to policyholders in 1934 was less than the year before, the condition reflects a stronger and more stable position on the part of both the companies and policyholders. The depression tested the companies' ability to pay, not only the huge sum ordinarily paid in death benefits, but to meet the demands of financially distressed policyholders who were forced to fall back on their life insurance reserves. There was a marked growth in payments of premium savings and cash surrender values from $1,297,000,000 in 1930 to the high mark of $2,098,400,000 in 1932. The demands of the policyholders for cash and surrenders and values and loans has subsided and policyholders are again building up their reserves which should be regarded only as funds to rely on in case of dire emergency.

HEALTH CENTRE GIRLS DEFEATED

Lose to Men's Bowling Team By Margin of 37 Points on Local Alleys.

Losing their three-game match by the slight margin of 7 pins, the Health Centre girls' bowling team bowed in defeat to the men's team from the Virginia Beach Recreation Centre. The match played last Saturday at the local bowling centre, was a spirited one, with the girls running up a total of 1461 pins against their opponents' 1493.

Leonard Fisher was high single scorer with a total of 130; Bodo Butts was second with 125, and Ida Simmons led the field with 122. Miss Simmons was high for the three games with 342.

The men's team were forty pins behind on the first and second games, picking up sufficient pins in the final contest to win the set. This, incidentally, is the first match the girls have lost on the local alleys in five years of competition.

Morris Plan Bank Body to Meet Here

Members of the Morris Plan Bankers Association will meet at the Cavalier Hotel, October 7, 8 and 9 to celebrate the twenty-fifth year of business in the United States. It was learned yesterday.

The Morris Plan Bank was organized in Norfolk and began operation there a quarter century ago under the direction of Arthur J. Morris. Representatives of the company will be present from institutions in 38 states.

The executive committee of the association met at the Cavalier Hotel early in the summer to formulate plans for the jubilee convention and at that time decided to hold the meeting at Virginia Beach.

The European system is now packed with people. — Nashville Tennessean.

PRESIDENT'S CUP REGATTA BODIES ARE ANNOUNCED

Various Trophies to Be Presented by Mexican and French Agencies.

The naming of Chairmen for the twenty-three committees making up the organization of the President's Cup Regatta and water carnival to be held September 28th to 29th, inclusive, is practically complete, according to John A. Remon, President of the Regatta Association, and the organization of these Committees is well under way.

J. W. Burch, Chairman of the Aquatic Sports Committee, will have charge of all the swimming, rowing and canoeing events and other aquatic sports.

L. Gordon Leech is in charge of the Race Committee and this appointment again assures watersportsmen of not only a well filled list of entries but the presence of virtually all of the great names in motor boat racing which are active this year.

The Reviewing Committee will be in charge of Curtis Hodges and ample arrangements are being made for the accommodation and comfort of spectators.

Admiral H. G. Hamlet, Commandant of the Coast Guard, is Chairman of the Patrol Committee, which takes complete charge of the course and surrounding waters during the racing period.

The Night Pageant, which has grown to be one of the real features of the carnival, presenting a colorful display of the illuminated water craft, will be in charge of Thomas E. Lodge.

The Housing Committee, which provides for the accommodation of drivers and visitors, is under the direction of Harry P. Somerville.

The Regatta Committee, consisting of representatives from more than fifty civic organizations in the city and representing some 50,000 numbers, is under the Chairmanship of Robert J. Cottrell.

The Membership Committee already very active in a drive for voting members of the Association, is under the able leadership of Thomas T. Keane.

The Sponsors Committee, which has already conducted a very successful moonlight cruise and will conduct another late in August, in addition to other social events during the past winter, is under the Chairmanship of Harold Allen Long.

Sailing events, one of the new features of the carnival this year, and in which great interest is manifested, is in charge of John W. Marsh.

Other Committee Chairmen include Entertainment, D. C. Shelton; Course, Dr. R. S. Patton; Badges, C. E. Ingling; Inspection, Emilie Jacoby; Pits, Frank Chase and Charles S. West; Safety, First Aid, Dr. O. B. Hunter; Starters, Andrew Duffy; Mile Trials, A. J. Dubick and Public Information, W. W. Wheeler.

ABC INSPECTORS WAR ON SELLERS

Tim Flanagan Convicted in Local Court; Other Cases On Docket.

Making the first arrests of what has been advertised as a determined effort to eliminate the sale of whisky, legal or otherwise, through all sources other than the ABC store, inspectors of the Virginia Alcoholic Beverage Control Board last Saturday night rounded up on State warrants a group of alleged offenders of the law. All were booked for trial in Justice Gresham's court last Tuesday, but continuances were granted in all cases other than that of Tim Flanagan, associated with Joe's Delivery Service, in the Postoffice block.

In the case of Flanagan, Inspectors Dugan and Nugent, of Richmond, testified to the purchasing of legal whisky in pint bottles after the closing of the ABC store and at prices higher than those set by the State. 178 pins of assorted gins and whiskeys were confiscated by the inspectors at this place and were held under that section of the liquor statute which brands whisky sold without a permit as contraband.

Ruling on the case, Justice Gresham denied that the evidence presented proved illegal possession, and the whisky was ordered returned to its owner. The selling charge was upheld, however, and Flanagan was fined $25 and costs.

Another warrant issued against persons trading as the Three Musketeers will be heard next Tuesday night.

GAMING CHARGE RULED INVALID

Gambling Denied

Testimony during the Johnson case brought forth the information that as general manager of the kennel club he leased both the option buying and option selling rights on the track to the groups mentioned above. Stoutly defending his contention that the gambling laws of the state were not being violated at the track, Mr. Johnson maintained that he and his associates had done and were doing everything within their power to eliminate bookmakers and bookmaking from the track's vicinity, adding that the option system in vogue on the track was not a violation of the law, if the information given him by his attorneys was correct.

Stressing the precedence laid down by Justice Sutherland that the gaming laws must be strictly construed as to the offense. Attorney Ashburn cited the law to show that nowhere in the statutes was the selling and buying of options on a dog race made a criminal offense. The lack of book, apparatus and paraphernalia to record bets or wagers at the track—items cited in the code—gave ample evidence that the operators were striving to remain within the law, the defense continued, arguing that if options were valid on real estate and other property the same must hold true in the case of dogs. Instances were cited as proof that options are redeemed on the dogs now running on the local track.

Next Hearing Tuesday

The arrest of the two workers in the option department of the track was made by Chief of Police McClannan upon the order of the Commonwealth's attorney, Paul W. Ackles. The action was taken after Justice Gresham refused to rule on the matter of gambling in the trial of Johnson. Bail was furnished the two young men for their appearance in court next Tuesday night.

Thomas C. Flynn, who originally complained to Governor Peery that gambling was being permitted on the track, and Chief McClannan appeared for the prosecution.

Built-In Beauty, Cleanliness, Charm

The Swedish bedroom pictured above gives a graphic illustration of economical utilization of space. The two built-in beds occupy a minimum of floor space and produce an interesting and decorative treatment of the corner of the room. The shelves, bookcases, and built-in lighting over each pillow are both utilitarian and attractive. Wide variation is possible in the treatment of bed posts and trimming for each bed corner. A colorful linoleum floor and a tastefully arranged desk, dresser, chair, and table create a charming effect. Modernization credit for such work is obtainable at private leading institutions approved by the Federal Housing Administration.

Holland, Bernard Holland, Jr., and John L. T. Holland have planned a motor trip. The party will leave Virginia Beach about September 25th and will spend two weeks touring the northern states. They will be joined in Cooperstown, N. Y., by Mr. and Mrs. David Gregory and Miss Dora Crittenden, who will return to Virginia Beach with the party.

Examination of candidates to succeed B. G. Porter as Postmaster of the Virginia Beach postoffice, will be held early in October under the supervision of T. A. Burroughs, local secretary of the U. S. Civil Service Commission. Mr. Porter's term expires October 20, and several are thought to desire appointment. The examination will be conducted orally, and appointment made on the recommendation of the secretary and post office inspectors, who name the three best from the applicants. Mr. Porter has been postmaster for the past four years.

ABC BOARD CUTS PRICE ON WINES

The Virginia Alcoholic Beverage Control Board this week announced a reduction of its mark-up on wines sold to licensees from 30 per cent to 14 2-7 per cent, a move that will reduce substantially the price of all wines sold in Virginia.

Under the monopoly plan the board sells all wine that reaches the Virginia market through licensees and the ABC stores, and by cutting its mark-up it enables licensees to reduce the prices on all stocks purchased after August 1.

The purpose of the reduction was to encourage the use of the milder types of beverages, it was stated.

Under the plan the board's profits on wine will be cut about $20,000 on the same volume of wine sold during the past year.

The LUXURY

of Coolness

As cool as a shaded mountain stream are the new modern air-conditioned trains—'The Pocahontas' and 'The Cavalier'. These two Norfolk and Western trains will make your trip between the Midwest and the Virginia and Carolina most pleasant. And they will be comfortably cool in the new air-conditioned luxury-coaches, equipped with all modern travel conveniences, rotating, reclining chairs, with soft sponge-rubber headrests; women's salon; and men's smoking room. For dining enroute there are air-conditioned diners with their nationally famous cuisine. Cool restfulness is found in the air-conditioned Pullmans with their long, wide berths. And there are the air-conditioned lounge cars—ideal for reading, chatting, or smoking.

A ride in one of these fine, fast, safe trains will convince you that nothing has been left undone to insure the luxury of coolness when you travel on the Norfolk and Western.

ACCORD REACHED ON STORY ROAD

Routing of Seashore Drive Is Discussed by State, Federal Officials

Representatives of the State Highway Commission, the State Commission on Conservation and Development and the War Department this week reached a satisfactory conclusion in their conferences concerning the re-routing of Route 66 on the Seashore Drive, but information on their decisions will not be released until later. It was announced in Richmond. Participants in the conference were reported enthusiastic over the agreement reached.

The proposal under consideration was the re-routing of Route 66 on the Shore Drive so that it would go through the State Park and at the same time divert heavy traffic from Fort Story.

To do this, it was pointed out, it would be necessary for the highway to turn off west of Cape Henry and bear through the State Seashore Park for about three miles, coming back into the present highway at a point south of Fort Story. Funds for the new road would be asked from Federal treasuries by the War Department, either to pay all or part of the cost.

Captain H. W. Cochran, adjutant of Fort Monroe, is especially concerned in the re-routing of the road. In time of war, he said, it would be necessary to close the highway to civilian traffic. The re-routing of the road also would make way for future developments at Fort Story.

Because of bargain prices potato farmers should find it to their advantage to plant only certified seed in 1936.

Maj. Balbernie, British Writer, Visiting Beach

Major Arthur George Balbernie, retired British army officer, who has won renown for his far-flung adventures in the service and who has more recently become a writer of society stories, is a guest at Virginia Beach. He is being entertained during his stay here at the Cavalier Hotel and at the home of friends on Bird Neck Point. He is in the United States for the first time.

Major Balbernie, whose Scotch family traces its origin to Malcolm IV, was born in Shanghai of pioneering parents who settled there when Shanghai consisted chiefly of mud flats. He received his schooling in England and then prepared for a naval career. Shifting his allegiance to the army, Major Balbernie served for many years in Asia.

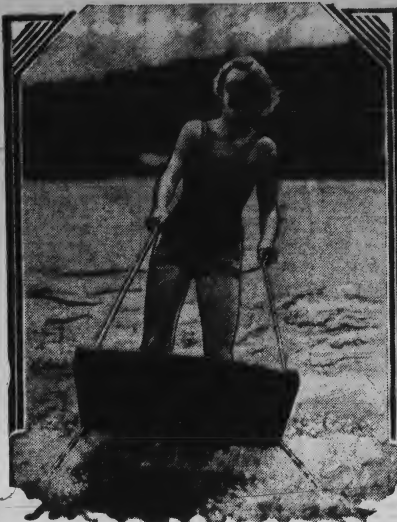

His literary pursuits have made him well known in England, where he writes of his hair-raising military escapades for numerous magazines and newspapers. His society stories are penned under the name of "John Kent."

Woods Will Represent South In Chess Games

Henry M. Woods, Jr., of Virginia Beach, again will represent this section in the American Chess Federation tournament to be held at Milwaukee, July 21-31. Virginia, North and South Carolina comprise the district of which Woods is the delegate.

The national experts, Kashdan, Fine, Reshevsky and Duke will be in Milwaukee to compete. Last July, at Chicago, Woods registered 500 against the experts, winning seven games, losing seven and drawing four. He will try for a come-back this year.

Poultry Tattooing Is Urged In State

Chicken thieves of the future probably will find to their embarrassment that they've confiscated tattooed poultry during their activities in Virginia, says an Associated Press dispatch of the week.

That, at least, is the purpose of a plan which was proposed at a meeting of the Virginia Poultry Association in Roanoke yesterday. The scheme calls for a statewide poultry tattoo, designed to put identification marks on the feathered flocks to prevent heavy intrusions—chicken thieves have made in the Old Dominion.

Some 10,000 chickens stolen in the Roanoke area in 1935 were valued at approximately $7,000; it was estimated.

CANNING HELPS AID GARDENERS

County Produce Reported Improved Over Last Year by Local Superintendent.

Thirteen demonstrations in food preservation methods were conducted in county homes during the past week by Mrs. Mary E. Phillips, county garden superintendent, and her colored assistant, Georgie E. Roberts. Given in private homes of both white and colored, attendance at the demonstrations ranged from six to fourteen gardeners.

This organized effort among those on the county relief rolls has proven most successful, county officers stated this week, and because of the enthusiasm engendered in modern food preservation methods unusual results have attended the present canning and preserving season.

Gardens as a whole throughout the county are reported as much more productive this season than last. This improvement may be credited to more favorable growing conditions and to the knowledge of food preservation gleaned from past lessons. As a result of this increased productivity, greater returns are now anticipated than last year, when more than 5,000 jars of foodstuffs were packed away for the winter by the 150 gardeners. With more than 225 members listed on the rolls of the organization this season, it is hoped that the 10,000 can mark will be reached before the fall.

At the present time, the gar-

There is plenty of seed on hand for all members, the county superintendent stated, adding that the more popular soup vegetables, such as beets, snaps, green peas, corn and tomatoes, are now being canned in generous quantities.

TWO-GAME POLO SERIES IS SET

Warrenton and War Department Teams to Vie in Beach's First Contest.

The two-game polo series, originally scheduled for this coming week end, has been postponed until Saturday, August 3, and Sunday, August 4, it was learned here today. The opening contests will bring together on the parade ground of the rifle range the strong Warrenton polo quartette and the crack War Department team of Washington, D. C.

Under the supervision of Edward C. Fair, captain of the Warrenton club, and Bob Tunstall, manager of the local Chamber of Commerce, the field has been put in excellent playing condition, and expectations for a striking brand of polo are high.

Each contest will be a six chucker affair of 7½ minutes each. The games will get under way at 4 p. m. and a minimum charge will be collected from the spectators. Automobiles may be driven to the edge of the playing field and the games watched from the comfort of one's own motor. The probable starting lineup follows:

Warrenton	Position
Gould Shaw	1
Capt. R. J. Kirkpatrick	2
Howard C. Fair	3
Kenneth Jenkins	4
Hubert Phipps	Substitute
War Department	Position
Lieut. C. H. Reed	1
Major L. Lyman	2
Lieut. George Grunert	3
Major Horace McBride	4
Lieut. Gene Harrison	Substitute

wishes, to be thoroughly amusing, will be the last of three speakers Tuesday evening, July 30. His topic, "Adjust or Adjoin."

Mrs. Guy Roop, president, state federation of home demonstration clubs, will appear first on the first evening's program, and Dr. Julian A. Burrus, president of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, will make the annual presentation of certificates of merit. The Harrisonburg Boys' Band will entertain. Wednesday evening Miss Connie Bonalagel, state home demonstration agent of Arkansas, will discuss "Adjustments in Rural Life Affecting the Home." The Jubilee Quartet of Roanoke will entertain. The climax in both information and entertainment comes with the final evening session. M. L. Wilson, assistant secretary of agriculture, will speak on "The Future in Agriculture in the United States." Entertainment will be provided by the White Top Folk Musicians. The Institute will close with a social hour, mainly dancing.

Accomac Baptists To Hold Camp Here

The second annual camp for Baptist young women of the Accomac Association will be held at Virginia Beach from July 29 through August 1. All G. A.'s over sixteen years of age and members of the Y. W. A. organizations are eligible to attend.

Mrs. A. S. Downes, of Cape Charles, will serve as camp counselor, and Miss Ellen Douglas Oliver, State Young People's Secretary, will teach mission study. Mrs. George R. Martin, president of Virginia W. M. U., and the Rev. J. Wash Watts, missionary to Palestine, will be guest speakers. Leaders of the young people's group are Mrs. V. A. Darby, Atlantic; Miss Edna Foulson, Elcom; Miss Mamie Gorton, Parkers; and Mrs. George Tankard, Machipongo.

POTATO GROWERS ARE TO BE PAID

done business with the Capps organization for some years. Although the early-potato planting has not been a profitable one for the average grower, those who controlled the industry have been regularly reported as more than satisfied with their returns. In this section and throughout eastern Carolina, Guy Capps has been reputed to be very near the top, so far as the share-planters are concerned.

News Investigated
It will be recalled that last fall when the Federal Trade Commission investigated the tie up between share-planters and chain stores, the name of Capps figured prominently in the proceedings. At that time, he admitted that he purchased potatoes for sixteen different chain store organizations. That factor alone gives some indication of the magnitude of his operations, making many wonder as to the cause of the present blow up.

Farmers interviewed during the past week admit that the Capps system has brought little profit to them. In days prior to his advent on the scene, more diversified crops were raised in this section, with the result that no single market was glutted with local produce, as now is true of potatoes. Higher prices were secured for their crops, the farmers continue, for purchasing and selling charges made by Capps were not then operative, due in large part to the presence and competitive bidding of purchasers from the city markets.

Under the present system, for example, it is estimated that by buying seed potatoes on time there is a markup of more than 100 per cent over the cash price. There also is a markup of from $6 to $10 per ton on fertilizer purchased on time. In addition, the Capps Company drew a percentage on all bags, barrels and other shipping equipment sold in the area, as well as charging for the grading and marketing of the crop. When the season was over, particularly when such was as disastrous as the present, the grower had little to show for his days of back-breaking effort.

The tieup with chain store organizations has been used by shareplanters as a means of forcing down the price, for the more potatoes planted the less the demand and, consequently, the lower the price. In this connection, it is interesting to learn that, while the government crop expert argued for a curtailment of potato crops this year, Capps and his organization spoke to the contrary. The results may be read into the present situation.

ALERT MOTORIST SAVES RESIDENCE

Hugh Simmons' House Almost Little Damage Done to Building.

Fire, which broke out in the kitchen ceiling of the Hugh Simmons' residence, located on 31st Street near Baltic Avenue, in Virginia Beach, last Tuesday morning, was quickly brought under control by the local fire department, thanks to an unnamed motorist who saw the blaze and promptly reported it to the authorities. The blaze was caused by an overheated electric range. Chief of Police McCannan reported.

Of a light nature, the fire was extinguished with forty gallons of chemical. Damage to the building was estimated at $125, with the contents of the house damaged to the extent of $50. The building was protected by insurance.

Alertness of the passing motorist alone saved the house from complete destruction, the Police Chief stated, adding that another ten-minute interval would have been sufficient time for the blaze to spread to all parts of the residence.

Residents and cottage lessees are warned to have their electrical equipment inspected as a sound measure of fire prevention.

VIRGINIA BEACH DAY AT PLANT

Ford Company, demonstrated the almost uncanny control of the new car, putting a stock model through paces which amazed the onlookers. Later, a cut-away motor was inspected in the pavilion, together with the latest models now produced. The "human Ford" demonstrated by J. A. Blue, sales promotion manager, held the attention of the visitors as the same car did when exhibited at the World's Fair in Chicago. Answering all questions asked of it, it demonstrated its ability to "see" as well as to "hear" and "talk." Based on the principle of the magic brain, the car was little less than human in its actions. Another interesting sight was found outside of the company's factory, where fifty-four steel-grey and police-blue roadsters stood awaiting delivery to the state police headquarters in North Carolina. This fleet of modern crime chasers were delivered to the Tar Heel officials later in the week.

Included in the local party were Mayor Roy Smith, Paul Ackles, J. E. Woodhouse, Don Calcott, Charles Tumbleton, J. Clarence Hayman and Blair Potest. The trip, arranged by Brose Armistead, local Ford dealer, was under the direction of J. A. Blue, sales promotion manager; R. E. Lanham, assistant manager of the sales division; C. F. Jesse, superintendent of production and J. H. Pederson, official of the Detroit office.

TO ENTERTAIN SATURDAY

George von Schilling, prominent entertainer of Norfolk, will be the featured guest artist on the weekly dance and entertainment bill scheduled for tomorrow night at the American Legion clubhouse in Virginia Beach. Mr. von Schilling has made several appearances as the guest of Princess Anne Post 113, and a large attendance is expected to greet him on the occasion of his latest program.

TO THE VOTERS OF Princess Anne County
In soliciting your support for the office of Commonwealth's Attorney subject to the Primary on Tuesday, August 6th, I do so with the utmost confidence that I can fulfill all the duties of the office. There is more involved in this office than the mere prosecution of criminal cases. He is the legal adviser of the County. He is also supposed to represent the County in all civil affairs. For these services he is paid a stipulated salary.
During the term of the present incumbent it has been necessary for the County to spend various sums of money to employ special Counsel to assist in handling its affairs. Is it fair to put this additional burden on the taxpayers? Would you want to employ two men to do the work of one? It is my belief that this should not be necessary.
If I am elected, I will endeavor to execute all the duties of the office and do so without preference to anyone, regardless of their political affiliations. I shall administer the affairs of the office independent of any dictates of others.
Upon this I respectfully solicit your support and influence which will be greatly appreciated.
